British Fear U. S. Mid-East Policy

. . . Danger Underestimated?

LONDON (AP) — Suspicions and fears were widely voiced in Britain Sunday that the United States was showing blindness to the crisis facing the Western Powers in the Middle East.

Resentment of Washington crossed political lines with both well-known Conservatives and Laborites joining in criticizing the U.S. State Department.

Some commentators suggested the Eisenhower administration was playing down the danger in the oil-rich region of vital importance to Britain because of this fall's American presidential election.

Angry at Dulles

Others were angry at what they regard as Secretary of State Dulles' support of Col. Gamal Abdel Nasser, the Egyptian premier, in his bid to become a sort of "overlord of the Arab states."

Britain has been accusing Nasser of seeking to undermine British positions in the Middle East particularly in Jordan and Iraq, and is reported to have asked the United States to adopt a firmer attitude toward him. Dulles recently said, however, he believed Nasser was actuated primarily by a desire to maintain the "independence" of Arab countries and had not turned against the West irrevocably.

Not all voices heard in Britain Sunday were critical of U.S. Middle East policy. There were some who took essentially the same view as Dulles.

'Almost Disastrous'

But Lord Hailsham, outspoken Tory in the House of Lords, charged that American policy has been "little short of disastrous." The 49-year-old peer, whose mother was the former Elizabeth Brown of Nashville, Tenn., wrote in the Sunday Graphic:

"I personally feel that the Anglo-American alliance would be a great deal more effective and stronger if we in Britain did not go so far to seek and wait for American support in all we did.

"Especially during the pre-election period in America, we ought to carry out our own policies when we know they are right and look for American support after we have acted."

Lord Hailsham accused Nasser of "scheming the complete destruction of Israel" and said:

"This is what they cannot see in the (U.S.) State Department And until it is recognized there can be no peace."

U.N. Truce Head, Israel Chief Talk

JERUSALEM (AP) — Amid heightening tension the U.N. Palestine truce chief conferred with Premier David Ben-Gurion Sunday on how to halt new bloodshed on the Egyptian-Gaza frontier.

A Foreign Ministry spokesman said Ben-Gurion told Maj. Gen. Edson L. M. Burns that Israel must reserve the right to take what action it deems best if Egypt fails to come up with a guarantee to refrain from "hostile acts."

Israel earlier ordered secret security measures to cope with what it described as Arab commando raids in which 10 or more night attacks were made deep in Israeli territory.

Ben-Gurion was quoted as telling Burns that "Israel must reserve to herself freedom of action if no unequivocal and unreserved assurance is obtained from the Egyptian government that it would refrain from all hostile acts."

From Amman came word of an Israeli-Arab clash on another sector. A Jordan announcement said an Israeli patrol that penetrated six miles inside Jordan territory near Wadi Mousa clashed with Jordan home guards. Two Israelis and two Jordanians were killed, the announcement said.

Dag Working Fast

ROME (AP) — U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold Sunday ordered his Palestine truce supervisor to stay at his Jerusalem post because of new Israeli-Egyptian fighting. Hammarskjold also speeded up his dramatic Middle East peace mission.

Hammarskjold rushed through final Sunday briefing sessions with two top U. N. Middle East officials who had flown here for the meeting.

Hammarskjold instructed Burns, a Canadian, to remain in Jerusalem in his role as umpire in the uneasy seven-year truce that followed the 1948 armistice. Burns was to have come to Rome, too. This change in plans was announced after reports of new clashes.

'Generally Fair' State's Forecast

Generally fair skies were predicted for Nebraska Monday with increasing cloudiness covering the western part of the state Monday night.

Warmer temperatures were expected in the west and central portions of Nebraska Monday night with highs for the day in the 40's in the east to the 50's west.

Tuesday was to be partly cloudy and warmer.

Light snow was reported at Alliance, Sidney, Scottsbluff and Chadron early Sunday evening. Chadron reported .16 of an inch of precipitation, with Sidney receiving .02 of an inch.

DONALD ROSS

Ross Conduct Reported 'Not Reproachable'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators said the conduct of former U.S. District Attorney Donald Ross of Nebraska in connection with political campaign contributions offered by Lexington, Neb., attorney and oil lobbyist John Neff "is not reproachable."

In their 6,000 word report, the investigators said an oil man's money was used in an attempt to influence the vote of Sen. Francis Case (R-SD) on the natural gas bill passed by the Senate and later vetoed by the President. The investigators denounced the affair as "irresponsibility run riot"

The special bipartisan committee "severely censured" Neff and Elmer Patman of Austin, Tex., two lawyers of the Superior Oil Company of Los Angeles, and said Howard B. Keck, president of the firm, could not escape responsibility for what the lawyers did with his money.

Ross resigned as U.S. district attorney after being summoned for an appearance before the committee. He said he did so because he did not want to "embarass" the Justice Department.

The Senate report said:

"Mr. Donald Ross, United States attorney for Nebraska, arranged an appointment for Mr. Neff with Senators Curtis and Hruska of Nebraska. In appreciation of past favors Mr. Neff opened savings accounts for each of Ross' five children and sent the pass books for those accounts to Mr. Ross.

"He refused to accept them and returned the books within 15 minutes after receiving them. The committee believes that Mr. Ross' conduct in this matter is not reproachable and that he was merely a victim of an environment created by Mr. Neff."

Northeast Blanketed By Snow

. . . 16 Inches Fall

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Snow, summerlike thunder and lightning and heavy winds swept over the northeastern United States Sunday. It was the area's fourth big snowstorm in 24 days.

With spring 20 days old, many northeasterners again were facing the snow drifts, disrupted train and plane schedules, power and telephone failure and dangerous highways of a midwinter storm.

The snowfall ranged from a few inches in New York City and other coastal areas to 16 inches in many mountainous sections throughout the Northeast. One spot in New York's Catskills reported a 25-inch fall.

Power Failures

Power failures, caused by trees knocked down by winds that reached 60 miles an hour in some areas, gave the most trouble.

A Nashua, N.H., man died while shoveling snow, and an ambulance rushing a seriously ill baby to a hospital at Fitchburg, Mass., had to enlist the aid of a city snow plow to get through 10-foot drifts along the way.

Low temperatures that went along with the storm had a bright side in many areas, slowing down the spring thaw of piled-high snows from other storms and giving temporary relief from flood dangers.

But near Syracuse, N.Y., the Seneca River spilled over its banks and 60 families were forced to abandon their homes.

Air travel between New York and cities farther north was disrupted by strong winds, and power failures caused hour-long delays on the Boston and Maine railroad

Plane Missing

Missing somewhere in the storm area was a small Marine plane with three officers reported on board. The weather hampered an air-sea search.

Meanwhile, fair and warmer weather was forecast for the nation's midsection, from Texas and Louisiana to Minnesota, after 20-degree chill had moved through about the same area eastward and as far south as central Florida.

The snow-flecked perimeter of the storm in the East extended back into the Great Lakes region, down into the Ohio Valley, northern Kentucky and Virginia.

The storm came in the quiet of the weekend, however, and so did not immediately cause the kind of paralysis that marked its double-barreled predecessor only three weeks ago.

It stemmed from a low pressure center that developed over western North Carolina early Saturday afternoon.

Snow measured 2.7 inches in New York City, up to eight inches in the suburbs, setting an April 8 record. The old mark for the city was 1.5 inches, in 1916.

Nashua, N.H., was one of the harder hit areas Sunday. Half of its 35,000 population was without power in the morning hours.

Up to 12 inches of snow was forecast for Maine and New Hampshire.

The area west of Boston braced for a 13-inch fall. Greater Boston was pockmarked with power failures, and three-fourths of suburban Framingham was without electricity and telephone service for a time.

Norfolk, Conn., in the northwestern corner of the Nutmeg State, measured 16 inches of snow.

Northeastern Pennsylvania and southern New York State were hard hit, too. Port Jervis, N.Y., and Hazleton, Pa., reported 12 inches, Freeland, Pa., 15 inches, with more falling.

Who Feels Foolish-est?—

Burglar Fooled By Grocer Fools Policeman, Escapes

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A grocer subdued a burglar at his store early Sunday, but when an officer appeared the thief tricked the puzzled policeman and dashed to freedom.

The grocer, Ralph Ambler, [illegible], was called from home by a woman who lives in an apartment above the store. She had heard noises.

Ambler arrived, peered through the front door's broken glass and saw a man staring back at him. Ambler dropped his hand into his pocket as if seizing a revolver and ordered the burglar to come out.

Like A Dummy

"He crawled out," Ambler said, "and then like a dummy I took my hand out of my pocket."

Aware of the ruse, the burglar promptly poked Ambler in the tummy and a rousing rough-and tumble battle ensued. Just as Ambler rolled on top and clamped a headlock on his foe, Patrolman Arthur Fisher arrived.

Fisher said he didn't know which was the burglar, so he ordered them both to stand up. The panting thief said there was a burglar still in the store, and when the officer turned to look, the man ran away.

Ego Hurt

The patrolman chased him across several yards and fired a shot before the man disappeared.

"I don't blame the policeman," Ambler said. "He didn't know which of us was the burglar. The only thing hurt was my ego."

He said $46 was missing from the store.

Two ways the schools deal with individual differences in students are through the "unit study" teaching method and parent-teacher conferences. At left, two sixth graders at Elliott School demonstrate the unit study. Each child was allowed to find materials on a certain topic, choosing his source from a wide range of reading levels. The youngsters, chosen at random from the class, are Caroline Goodman, who is reading an encyclopedia, and Robert Fritchie, looking at a picture book. Their teacher is Mrs. Betty Hunt. NO TWO CHILDREN ALIKE:

Schools Stress Maximum Learning At Level To Match Pupil's Ability

By SUE HOLBERT
Star Staff Writer

No two children are just alike, a fact which presents many problems in a classroom.

Dealing with the individual differences of children and helping each child to obtain the maximum learning possible has become a major concern of school teachers and administrators, and policies and procedures have changed a great deal in recent years.

The practices used at Elliott grade school at 225 So. 25th are fairly representative of the methods used at other grade schools in the city.

Miss Eunice Preston, principal at Elliott, explained that when a child first comes into the school he is given a standard test, one given to children all over the country.

Placed In Own Level

The youngster is then placed, not only according to grade level but with reference to the teacher and rest of the class, she said.

From diagnostic reading tests, it is possible to tell where a child is weak and where he is strong. For instance, he may be unusually high in understanding but low in phonics or high in vocabulary but low in speed, she added. Whenever possible, children with the same weakness are grouped and taught together.

"We try to teach in groups," Miss Preston said. She explained that children today are "group conscious" and that at Elliott they generally do not believe in taking a child out of a class and working with him alone. In a large school like Elliott, it is fairly easy to do such grouping, she said.

Miss Preston continued that the reading ability in one class may vary as much as seven levels, but at Elliott they try to keep one class to only three reading levels, and also try to keep classes small enough so the teach will know the children individually.

Must Succeed

The teacher has to be sure that each child can cope with his lessons—he must be able to succeed at them or will stop trying—but yet he must have a challenge to keep him from becoming lazy, Miss Preston explained. The child who is advanced must not find his work easier than the other children, but must be graded on the quality of work done on his own level, she stated.

Understanding of a subject and realizing its importance is being emphasized more than it used to be, too, she said.

A new method of class teaching is through "unit studies". Miss Preston said the unit studies plan often is not understood by persons outside the school, who charge that it is "just letting the children do what they want."

All Levels Available

However, Miss Preston said, it is a way of discussing and working on a particular subject, letting each youngster find materials suited to his own capabilities. All levels of reading material on the topic are available, and it is felt that a child will learn more from a picture book, which he understands, than from reading or hearing lectures above his understanding.

The teacher, of course, guides the youngster and prevents his wasting time on material which is too easy for him, the principal continued.

Schools are doing more in the field of "enrichment" than formerly, too, she said. For instance, she explained, along with their unit study of Central America, a sixth grade class made a large scrapbook illustrating and using the many Spanish words they learned along with the study.

Another way of helping children is through parent conferences, she said. The conferences are a part of the regular procedure, and the school administration tries to talk to all parents. The parents may see their children's records and test ratings, and talk to the teachers so they can understand just what is being done.

The school also has a general assignment teacher, Miss Vida Beck, who helps analyze difficulties, administer diagnostic tests and give individual help. Miss Beck is also assistant principal.

In cases where it is necessary, the school calls upon a specialist for help, such as Julius Humann, director of the Lincoln public schools guidance, pupil accounting, research and special education department, or Dr. Janet Palmer, psychiatrist with the same department.

Parker Will Take Stand In Own Defense At Trial

. . . Choice Of Jury Begins Monday

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Darrel F. Parker, who goes on trial Monday on a first-degree murder charge in the Dec. 14 strangulation death of his wife, Nancy, will take the witness stand in his own defense, according to his attorneys.

"Nobody knows better than Darrel that he is innocent," Defense Atty. Max Towle, one of Parker's attorneys, said on the eve of the trial. "At the proper time, he will explain the circumstances and details of his false confession."

The high-vaulted Lancaster District Courtroom of Judge John L. Polk is expected to be packed during the trial, which some observers think may run to three weeks.

Jury May Take 3 Days

Selection of the 12-member jury with two alternate jurors is expected to occupy three days. At least 36 jurors will be examined from the 75 to 80 called in the court, before the 10 peremptory challenges of the prosecution and the 12 of the defense are exercised by the attorneys.

The Parker case, because of its dramatic elements, shapes up as one of Nebraska's top murder trials in recent years.

It began when the ex-city forester arrived at his Antelope Park home for lunch and frantically phoned police that "My wife has been strangled."

Authorities found the 22-year-old wife, half-clothed on the bed. She had been strangled with twine gagged with handkerchiefs, and her wrists had been bound behind her back.

Looked For Car

During the next seven days law enforcement officers ran down leads for the unknown assailant, tried to find a 1949 or 1950 black Ford reported parked near the Parker home, and quizzed a number of suspects.

Then, Parker was summoned to Lincoln from Des Moines, where he attended his wife's funeral and was visiting her parents.

John E. Reid, Chicago lawyer and noted criminologist, administered lie detector tests. Some hours later, County Atty. Elmer Scheele announced that Parker had signed a statement admitting the slaying.

Scheele quoted Parker as saying he had killed his wife because she refused his after-breakfast advances.

Innocent Plea

Arraigned the next day on a first-degree murder charge, Parker pleaded innocent and a month later was bound over to District Court for trial following a preliminary hearing before County Judge Herbert Ronin.

Meanwhile, defense attorneys announced that lie detector tests given by George Robinson of Kansas City showed that Parker "definitely had no connection with his wife's slaying."

In February, Dr. Douglas M. Kelley, a University of California criminologist examined Parker for the defense.

Dr. Kelley said afterwards Parker had "made a false confession" and that lie detector tests showed he "does not have guilty knowledge of the slaying."

Parker "could not have killed his wife and then shown no signs of emotional disturbance during the remainder of the morning," Dr. Kelley said.

The California psychiatrist drew attention to testimony at the preliminary hearing that Parker appeared to be his "usual self" during the forenoon hours, but was "incoherent and like a madman" when he discovered his wife's body.

The criminologist is expected to be a key defense witness. The number of defense witnesses may run between 10 and 20, Towle said, depending "how far the court will let us go in presenting character witnesses."

60 State Witnesses

The state has endorsed approximately 60 witnesses, but the county attorney's office has declined to say how many might be called.

Parker has been described by observers as being more "cheerful, confident, and optimistic" with the approach of his trial.

His attorneys had reported that Parker "lost his will to live" after the death of his wife and contended his confession was obtained by the state "under these circumstances."

Sheriff Merle Karnopp, technically charged with Parker's safekeeping, said when he last saw Parker at the March 14 arraignment in District Court, he "seemed more cheerful and talkative than I had ever found him."

Chicago Tragedy Hurts 10

Two Victims Leap To Death

CHICAGO (AP) — Nine Persons died and 10 were injured early Sunday in a fire which swept a four-story apartment building on Chicago's South Side.

The ninth body was found several hours after the blaze by firemen making a check of the charred flats.

Fire Marshal Albert Peterson said more than 100 persons were in the structure when the blaze started on the first floor and swept up a stairwell. All were Negroes.

Two of the dead were killed in leaps from the fourth floor. Others died of suffocation in their one and two-room flats. Several of the injured were hurt dropping from second-floor windows after a lower stair flight collapsed.

Peterson said the cause of the fire was undetermined. He estimated damage at $60,000. Most of the damage was in the stairwell, hallways and on the third and fourth floors where apartments were burned out.

Five extra alarms were sounded as flames shot through the roof of the old structure at 3950 Cottage Grove Ave., known as Hotel Sooner.

Two children were among the dead; George Richardson, 2, and Gloria Dean Green, 3. Others were identified as Nancy Green, about 45; Hattie Cole, about 50; Peter Parish, about 65; Arthur Carey, about 55, Mrs. Arthur Carey, 55, and Roberta Beals, 28.

One body, that of a man, remained unidentified.

Mrs. Lillie Johnson, [illegible], said she was asleep on the second floor when knocking on her door by an upstairs neighbor aroused her. "She wanted to get out through our apartment," Mrs. Johnson said.

She awakened her husband, and they groped their way out of the building through thick smoke.

"It must have taken us 25 minutes. The smoke was thick, and it was pitch black in the halls," she said. "We broke a window on the first floor to get out." Firemen carried a dozen residents down ladders.

Thomas Washington, 25, a Negro, told Chicago city fire Atty. Earl Downes, he was parking his car in front of the building when he heard an explosion and saw a sheet of flame rise inside the building.

The victims were taken to Michael Reese and Provident hospitals in the South Side area.

Downes and Coroner Walter McCarron began separate investigations of the tragedy.

Auto Mishap Kills Chappell Resident

SIDNEY, Neb. (AP) — William C. Earnhart, 24, of Chappell, was killed shortly before midnight Saturday in a one-car accident at a county road intersection 9 miles northeast of Sidney.

Earnhart was a passenger in a car driven by Kenneth Onkey, 19, of Lodgepole. Onkey and two other passengers were taken to a Sidney hospital for treatment.

All the passengers, including Earnhart, were thrown out of the vehicle when it went out of control and overturned at the intersection.

The fatality was the first this year in Cheyenne County.

'Generally Fair' State's Forecast

Generally fair skies were predicted for Nebraska Monday with increasing cloudiness covering the western part of the state Monday night.

Warmer temperatures were expected in the west and central portions of Nebraska Monday night with highs for the day in the 40's in the east to the 50"s west.

Tuesday was to be partly cloudy and warmer.

Light snow was reported at Alliance, Sidney, Scottsbluff and Chadron early Sunday evening. Chadron reported .16 of an inch of precipitation, with Sidney receiving .02 of an inch.

DONALD ROSS

Ross Conduct Reported 'Not Reproachable'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators said the conduct of former U.S. District Attorney Donald Ross of Nebraska in connection with political campaign contributions offered by Lexington, Neb., attorney and oil lobbyist John Neff "is not reproachable."

In their 6,000 word report, the investigators said an oil man's money was used in an attempt to influence the vote of Sen. Francis Case (R-SD) on the natural gas bill passed by the Senate and later vetoed by the President. The investigators denounced the affair as "irresponsibility run riot"

The special bipartisan committee "severely censured" Neff and Elmer Patman of Austin, Tex., two lawyers of the Superior Oil Company of Los Angeles, and said Howard B. Keck, president of the firm, could not escape responsibility for what the lawyers did with his money.

Ross resigned as U.S. district attorney after being summoned for an appearance before the committee. He said he did so because he did not want to "embarass" the Justice Department.

The Senate report said:

"Mr. Donald Ross, United States attorney for Nebraska, arranged an appointment for Mr. Neff with Senators Curtis and Hruska of Nebraska. In appreciation of past favors Mr. Neff opened savings accounts for each of Ross' five children and sent the pass books for those accounts to Mr. Ross.

"He refused to accept them and returned the books within 15 minutes after receiving them. The committee believes that Mr. Ross' conduct in this matter is not reproachable and that he was merely a victim of an environment created by Mr. Neff."

Northeast Blanketed By Snow

... 16 Inches Fall

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Snow, summerlike thunder and lightning and heavy winds swept over the northeastern United States Sunday. It was the area's fourth big snowstorm in 24 days.

With spring 20 days old, many northeasterners again were facing the snow drifts, disrupted train and plane schedules, power and telephone failure and dangerous highways of a midwinter storm.

The snowfall ranged from a few inches in New York City and other coastal areas to 16 inches in many mountainous sections throughout the Northeast. One spot in New York's Catskills reported a 25-inch fall.

Power Failures

Power failures, caused by trees knocked down by winds that reached 60 miles an hour in some areas, gave the most trouble.

A Nashua, N.H., man died while shoveling snow, and an ambulance rushing a seriously ill baby to a hospital at Fitchburg, Mass., had to enlist the aid of a city snow plow to get through 10-foot drifts along the way.

Low temperatures that went along with the storm had a bright side in many areas, slowing down the spring thaw of piled-high snows from other storms and giving temporary relief from flood dangers.

But near Syracuse, N.Y., the Seneca River spilled over its banks and 60 families were forced to abandon their homes.

Air travel between New York and cities farther north was disrupted by strong winds, and power failures caused hour-long delays on the Boston and Maine railroad.

Plane Missing

Missing somewhere in the storm area was a small Marine plane with three officers reported on board. The weather hampered an air-sea search.

Meanwhile, fair and warmer weather was forecast for the nation's midsection, from Texas and Louisiana to Minnesota, after 20-degree chill had moved through about the same area eastward and as far south as central Florida.

The snow-flecked perimeter of the storm in the East extended back into the Great Lakes region, down into the Ohio Valley, northern Kentucky and Virginia.

The storm came in the quiet of the weekend, however, and so did not immediately cause the kind of paralysis that marked its double-barreled predecessor only three weeks ago.

It stemmed from a low pressure center that developed over western North Carolina early Saturday afternoon.

Snow measured 2.7 inches in New York City, up to eight inches in the suburbs, setting an April 8 record. The old mark for the city was 1.5 inches, in 1916.

Nashua, N.H., was one of the harder hit areas Sunday. Half of its 35,000 population was without power in the morning hours.

Up to 12 inches of snow was forecast for Maine and New Hampshire.

The area west of Boston braced for a 13-inch fall. Greater Boston was pockmarked with power failures, and three-fourths of suburban Framingham was without electricity and telephone service for a time.

Norfolk, Conn., in the northwestern corner of the Nutmeg State, measured 16 inches of snow.

Northeastern Pennsylvania and southern New York State were hard hit, too. Port Jervis, N.Y., and Hazleton, Pa., reported 12 inches, Freeland, Pa., 15 inches, with more falling.

Who Feels Foolish-est?——

Burglar Fooled By Grocer Fools Policeman, Escapes

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A grocer subdued a burglar at his store early Sunday, but when an officer appeared the thief tricked the puzzled policeman and dashed to freedom.

The grocer, Ralph Ambler, 50, was called from home by a woman who lives in an apartment above the store. She had heard noises.

Ambler arrived, peered through the front door's broken glass and saw a man staring back at him. Ambler dropped his hand into his pocket as if seizing a revolver and ordered the burglar to come out.

Like A Dummy

"He crawled out," Ambler said, "and then like a dummy I took my hand out of my pocket."

Aware of the ruse, the burglar promptly poked Ambler in the tummy and a rousing rough-and tumble battle ensued. Just as Ambler rolled on top and clamped a headlock on his foe, Patrolman Arthur Fisher arrived.

Fisher said he didn't know which was the burglar, so he ordered them both to stand up. The panting thief said there was a burglar still in the store, and when the officer turned to look, the man ran away.

Ego Hurt

The patrolman chased him across several yards and fired a shot before the man disappeared.

"I don't blame the policeman," Ambler said. "He didn't know which of us was the burglar. The only thing hurt was my ego."

He said $46 was missing from the store.

Two ways the schools deal with individual differences in students are through the "unit study" teaching method and parent-teacher conferences. At left, two sixth graders at Elliott School demonstrate the unit study. Each child was allowed to find materials on a certain topic, choosing his source from a wide range of reading levels. The youngsters, chosen at random from the class, are Caroline Goodman, who is reading an encyclopedia, and Robert Fritchie, looking at a picture book. Their teacher is Mrs. Betty Hunt. Above, a parent, Mrs. Earl Scott (left), has a conference with her son Merle's teacher, Mrs. Augusta Gaede. (Star Photo.)

NO TWO CHILDREN ALIKE:

By SUE HOLBERT
Star Staff Writer

No two children are just alike, a fact which presents many problems in a classroom.

Dealing with the individual differences of children and helping each child to obtain the maximum learning possible has become a major concern of school teachers and administrators, and policies and procedures have changed a great deal in recent years.

The practices used at Elliott grade school at 225 So. 25th are fairly representative of the methods used at other grade schools in the city.

Miss Eunice Preston, principal at Elliott, explained that when a child first comes into the school, he is given a standard test, one given to children all over the country.

Placed In Own Level

The youngster is then placed, not only according to grade level but with reference to the teacher and rest of the class, she said.

From diagnostic reading tests, it is possible to tell where a child is weak and where he is strong. For instance, he may be unusually high in understanding but low in phonics or high in vocabulary but low in speed, she added. Whenever possible, children with the same weakness are grouped and taught together.

"We try to teach in groups," Miss Preston said. She explained that children today are "group conscious" and that at Elliott they generally do not believe in taking a child out of a class and working with him alone. In a large school like Elliott, it is fairly easy to do such grouping, she said.

Miss Preston continued that the reading ability in one class may vary as much as seven levels, but at Elliott they try to keep one class to only three reading levels, and also try to keep classes small enough so the teach will know the children individually.

Must Succeed

The teacher has to be sure that each child can cope with his lessons—he must be able to succeed at them or will stop trying—but yet he must have a challenge to keep him from becoming lazy, Miss Preston explained. The child who is advanced must not find his work easier than the other children, but must be graded on the quality of work done on his own level, she stated.

Understanding of a subject and realizing its importance is being emphasized more than it used to be, too, she said.

A new method of class teaching is through "unit studies". Miss Preston said the unit studies plan often is not understood by persons outside the school, who charge that it is "just letting the children do what they want."

All Levels Available

However, Miss Preston said, it is a way of discussing and working on a particular subject, letting each youngster find materials suited to his own capabilities. All levels of reading material on the topic are available, and it is felt that a child will learn more from a picture book, which he understands, than from reading or hearing lectures above his understanding.

The teacher, of course, guides the youngster and prevents his wasting time on material which is too easy for him, the principal continued.

Schools are doing more in the field of "enrichment" than formerly, too, she said. For instance, she explained, along with their unit study of Central America, a sixth grade class made a large scrapbook illustrating and using the many Spanish words they learned along with the study.

Another way of helping children is through parent conferences, she said. The conferences are a part of the regular procedure, and the school administration tries to talk to all parents. The parents may see their children's records and test ratings, and talk to the teachers so they can understand just what is being done.

The school also has a general assignment teacher, Miss Vida Beck, who helps analyze difficulties, administer diagnostic tests and give individual help. Miss Beck is also assistant principal.

In cases where it is necessary, the school calls upon a specialist for help, such as Julius Humann, director of the Lincoln public schools guidance, pupil accounting, research and special education department, or Dr. Janet Palmer, psychiatrist with the same department.

Parker Will Take Stand In Own Defense At Trial

... Choice Of Jury Begins Monday

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Darrel F. Parker, who goes on trial Monday on a first-degree murder charge in the Dec. 14 strangulation death of his wife, Nancy, will take the witness stand in his own defense, according to his attorneys.

"Nobody knows better than Darrel that he is innocent," Defense Atty. Max Towle, one of Parker's attorneys, said on the eve of the trial. "At the proper time, he will explain the circumstances and details of his false confession."

The high-vaulted Lancaster District Courtroom of Judge John L. Polk is expected to be packed during the trial, which some observers think may run to three weeks.

Jury May Take 3 Days

Selection of the 12-member jury with two alternate jurors is expected to occupy three days. At least 36 jurors will be examined from the 75 to 80 called in the court, before the 10 peremptory challenges of the prosecution and the 12 of the defense are exercised by the attorneys.

The Parker case, because of its dramatic elements, shapes up as one of Nebraska's top murder trials in recent years.

It began when the ex-city forester arrived at his Antelope Park home for lunch and frantically phoned police that "My wife has been strangled."

Authorities found the 22-year-old wife, half-clothed on the bed. She had been strangled with twine gagged with handkerchiefs, and her wrists had been bound behind her back.

Looked For Car

During the next seven days law enforcement officers ran down leads for the unknown assailant, tried to find a 1949 or 1950 black Ford reported parked near the Parker home, and quizzed a number of suspects.

Then, Parker was summoned to Lincoln from Des Moines, where he attended his wife's funeral and was visiting her parents.

John E. Reid, Chicago lawyer and noted criminologist, administered lie detector tests. Some hours later, County Atty. Elmer Scheele announced that Parker had signed a statement admitting the slaying.

Scheele quoted Parker as saying he had killed his wife because she refused his after-breakfast advances.

Innocent Plea

Arraigned the next day on a first-degree murder charge, Parker pleaded innocent and a month later was bound over to District Court for trial following a preliminary hearing before County Judge Herbert Ronin.

Meanwhile, defense attorneys announced that lie detector tests given by George Robinson of Kansas City showed that Parker "definitely had no connection with his wife's slaying."

In February, Dr. Douglas M. Kelley, a University of California criminologist examined Parker for the defense.

Dr. Kelley said afterwards Parker had "made a false confession" and that lie detector tests showed he "does not have guilty knowledge of the slaying."

Parker "could not have killed his wife and then shown no signs of emotional disturbance during the remainder of the morning," Dr. Kelley said.

The California psychiatrist drew attention to testimony at the preliminary hearing that Parker appeared to be his "usual self" during the forenoon hours, but was "incoherent and like a madman" when he discovered his wife's body.

The criminologist is expected to be a key defense witness. The number of defense witnesses may run between 10 and 20, Towle said, depending "how far the court will let us go in presenting character witnesses."

60 State Witnesses

The state has endorsed approximately 60 witnesses, but the county attorney's office has declined to say how many might be called.

Parker has been described by observers as being more "cheerful, confident, and optimistic" with the approach of his trial.

His attorneys had reported that Parker "lost his will to live" after the death of his wife and contended his confession was obtained by the state "under these circumstances."

Sheriff Merle Karnopp, technically charged with Parker's safekeeping, said when he last saw Parker at the March 14 arraignment in District Court, he "seemed more cheerful and talkative than I had ever found him."

Chicago Tragedy Hurts 10

Two Victims Leap To Death

CHICAGO (AP) — Nine Persons died and 10 were injured early Sunday in a fire which swept a four-story apartment building on Chicago's South Side.

The ninth body was found several hours after the blaze by firemen making a check of the charred flats.

Fire Marshal Albert Peterson said more than 100 persons were in the structure when the blaze started on the first floor and swept up a stairwell. All were Negroes.

Two of the dead were killed in leaps from the fourth floor. Others died of suffocation in their one and two-room flats. Several of the injured were hurt dropping from second-floor windows after a lower stair flight collapsed.

Peterson said the cause of the fire was undetermined. He estimated damage at $60,000. Most of the damage was in the stairwell, hallways and on the third and fourth floors where apartments were burned out.

Five extra alarms were sounded as flames shot through the roof of the old structure at 3950 Cottage Grove Ave., known as Hotel Sooner.

Two children were among the dead; George Richardson, 2, and Gloria Dean Green, 3. Others were identified as Nancy Green, about 45; Hattie Cole, about 50; Peter Parish, about 65; Arthur Carey, about 55, Mrs. Arthur Carey, 55, and Roberta Beals, 28.

One body, that of a man, remained unidentified.

Mrs. Lillie Johnson, 33, said she was asleep on the second floor when knocking on her door by an upstairs neighbor aroused her. "She wanted to get out through our apartment," Mrs. Johnson said.

She awakened her husband, and they groped their way out of the building through thick smoke.

"It must have taken us 25 minutes. The smoke was thick, and it was pitch black in the halls," she said. "We broke a window on the first floor to get out." Firemen carried a dozen residents down ladders.

Thomas Washington, 25, a Negro, told Chicago city fire Atty. Earl Downes, he was parking his car in front of the building when he heard an explosion and saw a sheet of flame rise inside the building.

The victims were taken to Michael Reese and Provident hospitals in the South Side area.

Downes and Coroner Walter McCarron began separate investigations of the tragedy.

Auto Mishap Kills Chappell Resident

SIDNEY, Neb. (AP) — William C. Earnhart, 24, of Chappell, was killed shortly before midnight Saturday in a one-car accident at a county road intersection 9 miles northeast of Sidney.

Earnhart was a passenger in a car driven by Kenneth Onkey, 19, of Lodgepole. Onkey and two other passengers were taken to a Sidney hospital for treatment.

All the passengers, including Earnhart, were thrown out of the vehicle when it went out of control and overturned at the intersection.

The fatality was the first this year in Cheyenne County.

Crash Rubble Scanned By Experts For Clues

Team Fills Voluminous Notebooks

By AL EDEE
Star Staff Writer

A dawn to dusk team of Air Force and Boeing Air Craft investigators gathered voluminous notebooks of details Sunday at the site of the splattered B-47 jet bomber that crashed into farm land 3¾ miles southeast of Ceresco Friday, killing its crew of four.

Lt. Col. William Key, a member of a party from the inspector general's department of the Norton Air Installation near Los Angeles, said Sunday night, "There are some clues but nothing conclusive yet to substantiate the real cause of the crash."

"At this point it's just guesswork," he said, adding. "We will do everything we can to find out the real cause."

He said the normal investigation period for air crashes is a week to 10 days.

Will Remove Debris

As soon as the inspection team gives the word, huge cranes and trucks will dig out tons of embedded metal from the crash site. The wreckage of the B-47 will be transported in trucks to the Lincoln Air Force Base.

An Air Force Lieutenant Colonel, surveying the scene by air, estimated the fragments of the plane were scattered over four or five miles of terrain.

Capt. Leo Beers of the 307th Bomb Wing from the local base, a member of Sunday's inspection team, said, "This is the first time I've seen anything like this."

He said he was just looking at once small part of the wreckage.

"All the information is pooled to Gen. Putnam," Beers said.

More Inspectors Due

Two more Boeing representatives will arrive in Lincoln, Lt. Col. Key said, to assist Ed Hensely and Ray McEwen, Boeing men already here.

Base Provost Marshal Major Omar Hedrick said a tight security guard of 20 men during daylight and 10 men at night are guarding the disaster scene.

Newsmen, radio and television representatives were required to obtain special air crash passes before passing through the armed guard to the scene.

Hundreds of cars streamed by the site Sunday according to a farmwife living near the crash site.

Still Streaming By

"They started coming at 8:30 a.m. this morning. Saturday night cars were still around at 9 p.m.," she said.

Air Police were quick to stop all cars attempting to get too near to the wreckage site and waved on persons in cars blocking the road trying to get a longer look at the debris.

Major Hedrick said the Air Police had little trouble at night. Only a party of girls tried to get through Saturday night, he said.

Iowa Man's Body Found At Omaha Along RR Tracks

OMAHA (AP) — The body of an Iowa man was found Sunday along the Union Pacific Railroad tracks midway between the Missouri River bridge and the Union Station here.

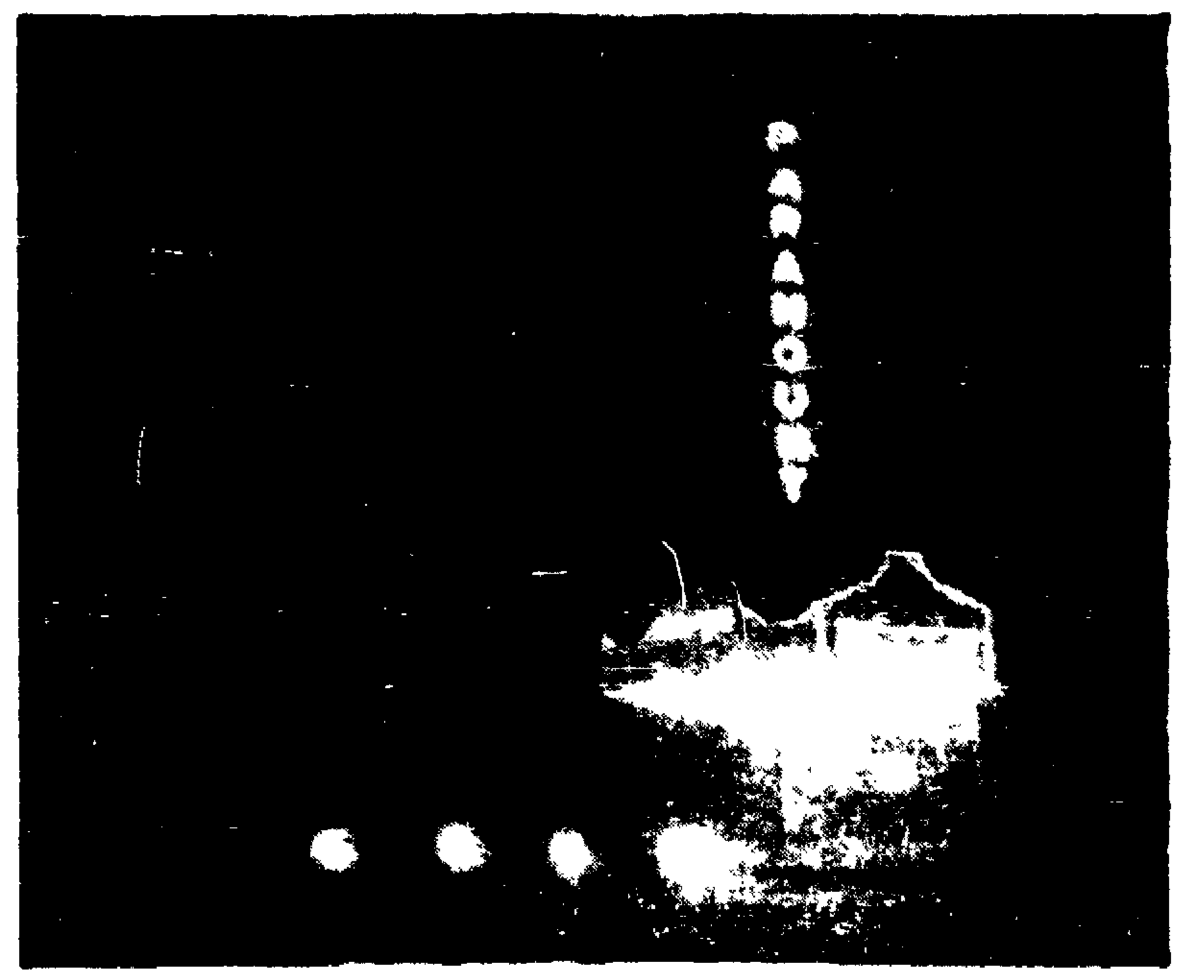
The man was identified from papers at Wilbur Compton, about 65, of Marshalltown, Iowa. His address in Marshalltown was the Iowa Soldiers' Home. Compton's left leg was severed below the hip.

A billfold found on the body contained $214 in cash, a coach ticket for passage from Marshalltown to Sioux City and a letter to notify H. I. Rogers of San Antonio, Tex.

The man's watch was broken and had stopped at 9:15.

Tarp Taken

Bob Rietfors of 2601 So. 45th, told police a 20 by 30 foot, green canvas tarp was taken from the top of a pile of lumber at a new home under construction at 70th and Holdrege. Police estimated the loss at $75.



NOT DUSK, BUT DUST

The main street of Amarillo, Tex., was blacked out at 5:40 p.m. by a dust storm that blew down street lamps and several downtown store windows. The dust was carried by 40-50 mph winds which dropped the temperature 14 degrees in less than two hours. (AP Wirephoto).

Dust Paralyzes Texas, Southwest

DALLAS, Texas (AP) — A black duster raged across the Texas panhandle on winds up to 70 miles an hour in gusts Sunday, dropping visibility to zero and stranding motorists and picnickers.

Amarillo was completely blacked out after the storm rode in on 40-50 mile winds about 5 p.m.

State highway patrol headquarters for the Panhandle ordered travel halted except in an extreme emergency in an area north from Wellington throughout the Panhandle and west to Tucumcari, N. M.

A Black One

The weather bureau said that although the storm has a red tinge it definitely was a "black duster."

Numerous minor accidents were reported and several hunters and picnickers were reported missing.

Windows were blown out of at least five Amarillo stores and several street signal lights were knocked out. A wall of an Assembly of God Church that was under construction was blown over.

The weather bureau at Dallas said that indications, based on the high winds, were that the storm could be as severe as the one that threw a blanket of fine, red sand over the entire state last Monday.

The weather bureau said the fast-moving storm probably would sweep dust across the entire state by Monday.

Visibility Zero

Visibility dropped to zero at Dalhart. Other visibility reports included Childress two miles, Tucumcari, N. M., ¼ mile and Dodge City, Kan., ¼.

The duster had covered an area extending from Childress westward to Tucumcari, N. M., and northward into the Oklahoma Panhandle and Southwestern Kansas.

A storm also dropped up to 10 inches of snow in Wyoming, whisked up blowing dust in southeastern Colorado and left highways slick and wet.

Two persons were killed and eight injured in a bus-car collision on slushy and snow-slickered U.S. 30 about 43 miles east of Rock Springs, Wyo.

The Wyoming highway patrol said seven of 33 passenger aboard the eastbound Greyhound bus were hospitalized at Rock Springs with minor injuries.

Tumble Down Stairs Injures Lincoln Woman

Mrs. Nellie Mae Ball, 65, suffered contusions to her face and a possible back injury when she fell down a flight of stairs from the second floor at the home of her son, Robert, of 2246 Sheldon.

She was taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital by ambulance where she was treated.

Mrs. Ball was reported in fairly-good condition early Monday morning.

LANCASTER 4-H REPORTS

Willard Beckman, president; Kenneth Andelt, vice president; Darrell Baade, secretary; and Dean Burling, news reporter. Projects selected are electricity, gardening, swine and soil conservation. Slides on conservation were shown by Emery Nelson. Members are Willard Beckman, Kenneth Andelt, Darrell Baade, Dean Burling, Eddie Pillard, Larry Woodard, Clifford Baade, Lonnie Schonfeld, Behring, Larry Frost, Stanley Schults, Bruce Ahlschwede, and Clifford Kubert.

The Cornhusker feeders 4-H club met at the home of their leader, Don Crawford. Officers elected are: Betty Buchanan, president; Jerry Magee, vice president; Larry Engels, secretary; and Bonnie Vrana, news reporter. Two new members joined the club. Project material was distrbuted at the meeting.

Merry Mixers: A donation was made to the Children's Diabetic Summer Camp in Nebraska and to LARC School when the group met at the home of Mrs. Herman Effken. Presenting the lesson was Mrs. Harry Harms. April hostess will be Mrs. Louis Doeschet.

Get-To-Gether: Members met for lunch at the home of Mrs. Carl Johnson. Demonstrators for the lesson of the day were Mmes. Glenn Ehlers and Dorothy Bruss.

Enactment Of A Wheel Tax To Take Time

By BILL DOBLER
Star Staff Writer

Possible enactment of a "wheel tax" by the City Council will take enough time to permit any interested parties an opportunity to be heard on the matter.

While the Council may approve the general theory of such a tax this Monday, the details of such a plan and its official enactment will take some time.

Mayor Clark Jeary pointed out that a study must first be made of what street improvements are to be made during the next year and their cost. He has also stated that not only a "wheel tax" but other forms of revenue as well will be studied.

If a "wheel tax" is finally decided upon, he said, it will require an ordinance. Hearings are held on all ordinances on third and final reading.

Monday's Council action will mainly be to formally remove the street program from any spot on the June 26 special election ballot and to set up a committee to study other ways of meeting street improvement problems.

An annual "wheel tax" of $5 per vehicle has been suggested by Jeary. The actual amount of the tax, however, will have to be determined after further study, he said, and may vary from year to year according to the city's needs.

Southeast Junior Wins State Knights Of Pythias Contest

Carolynn Adams, a 16-year-old junior at Lincoln Southeast High School, won the state Knights of Pythias public speaking contest Sunday.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul D Adams of 4346 E. Paul Herman of Wilber placed second and Larry Erickson of Wahoo third. Karen Mae Yost of Bladen was fourth and Francis Musil of Lincoln Northeast High School fifth among the five who competed.

Miss Adams won the right to participate in the sectional contest to be held this summer. The winner of the national contest this August in New Orleans will win a $1,500 scholarship. The five finalists were from a field of 25 entrants throughout the state.

The Knights of Pythias and Pythian Sisters are currently holding their state convention at the Lincoln Hotel.

Other events Sunday included a supper by the Pythian Sisters honoring their past chiefs.

The Knights of Pythias will hold a business meeting and election of officers Monday morning.

The annual convention will continue through Tuesday, with the last day devoted to a business meeting.

Nat'l. Park Service Official Praises Historical Museum

OMAHA (AP)—The chief of interpretation for the National Park Service has praised the Nebraska Historical Society Museum at Lincoln as outstanding.

Ronald F. Lee of Washington, while here for conferences with region 2 officers of the National Park Service, called the Lincoln layout one of the outstanding museums in the nation.

Lee said the Nebraska Historical Society's museum has attracted national attention for the quality of its exhibits, the skill and art work in its presentation and a layout that permits easy flexibility in arranging exhibits.

The Washington official's interest in the Nebraska Historical Society's displays stems from the Park Service's own program for an expanded use of museums. It has built two since 1941 and now plans to add 100, setting them up at the rate of 10 a year, he said.

Omaha Burglars Get Fur, Jewelry

OMAHA (AP) — Vandal-burglars escaped with a fur coat and jewelry after causing heavy damage to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oren Hamilton, police were told Sunday. The coat was valued at about $500.

Hamilton told police the burglars ransacked drawers, broke desk figurines and ash trays throughout the house. In the kitchen, they emptied the refrigerator and smashed eggs over the floor.

Entry was gained by breaking glass on the back door and unlatching the door.

POSTCARD

"How long," said the medic "has it been since you had a cardiogram?"

"I do not remember any such thing," I said, "but I got a singing telegram on my last birthday."

The medic took a piece of lumber and held down my tongue.

"Smoker's throat," he muttered. "You should cut down."

"Have you cut down?"

The medic blushed. "I am trying,' he said. "But this is a nerve-wracking business. Now a cardiogram," he said, "is a record of the heart. All the best prople have them."

"Hearts?"

"Cardiograms. A man cannot be too careful of the old clock," said the medico kindly, "at your age."

* * *

Now, if it were not for the skepticism of insurance companies and such, I would stay away from the medicine men. It is a gloomy business and often humiliating.

"There is nothing wrong with my ticker," I said. "It runs without winding and has served me faithfully."

"Step into the next room," said the doctor briskly. "While there's life, there's hope."

After a few minutes, a pretty young lady came in wheeling what looked like a hi-fi set.

"I think we'll just have you strip to the waist," she said.

"Shouldn't we introduce ourselves first," I said blushing. "My name is ——————"

"And take off your garters," she said.

"Both of them?" I can't help it if I am shy as a dove.

"Now just relax on your back."

"Are you sure you have the right patient, Madam?"

The young lady smiled in a pitying way and plugged in her machine. She rubbed paste on my ankles and chest and wired me up. The machine began to buzz viciously.

"Don't worry," she said, "I've never lost a patient yet."

"You may be running out of luck," I said gloomily.

"Have you been having a little trouble?" she said cheerily.

"I had a little colic."

"Recently?"

"Forty years ago. Or so my mother tells me. Also" I said, "I foam at the mouth. Particularly while brushing my teeth. I am likewise terribly ticklish. What if this machine backfires. Suppose it starts writing an electrical record on me?"

"Be calm" said the lady, "or you'll scratch the record."

The lady unhooked the electrodes and said I could put my garters on again.

She seized a needle and screwed it into a glass tube.

"And now we'll just take a sample of blood."

"Blood!" I said. "Gadzooks, what kind of a woman are you, woman?"

"Come, come," she said wrapping an old inner tube around my arm. "Now make a fist." She pushed the plunger a few times. The air hissed through the needle like a rattle snake.

"How much blood," I said fumbling with my garters.

"Just a little old teaspoonful."

"Couldn't I send you a nice bottle of Chanel No. 5 instead?"

The lady only smiled and thrust the needle in up to the hilt.

"There. Wasn't that easy?"

"Is that my blood?"

"Yes, indeedy."

"Awk!"

The only compensation I can find in the whole affair is that the insurance company will take the bet. Talk about your long shots! But that's off the record.

Crash Rubble Scanned By Experts For Clues

Team Fills Voluminous Notebooks

By AL EDEE
Star Staff Writer

A dawn to dusk team of Air Force and Boeing Air Craft investigators gathered voluminous notebooks of details Sunday at the site of the splattered B-47 jet bomber that crashed into farm land 3¾ miles southeast of Ceresco Friday, killing its crew of four.

Lt. Col. William Key, a member of a party from the inspector general's department of the Norton Air Installation near Los Angeles, said Sunday night, "There are some clues but nothing conclusive yet to substantiate the real cause of the crash."

"At this point it's just guesswork," he said, adding, "We will do everything we can to find out the real cause."

He said the normal investigation period for air crashes is a week to 10 days.

Will Remove Debris

As soon as the inspection team gives the word, huge cranes and trucks will dig out tons of embedded metal from the crash site. The wreckage of the B-47 will be transported in trucks to the Lincoln Air Force Base.

An Air Force Lieutenant Colonel, surveying the scene by air, estimated the fragments of the plane were scattered over four or five miles of terrain.

Capt. Leo Beers of the 307th Bomb Wing from the local base, a member of Sunday's inspection team, said, "This is the first time I've seen anything like this."

He said he was just looking at once small part of the wreckage.

"All the information is pooled to Gen. Putnam," Beers said.

More Inspectors Due

Two more Boeing representatives will arrive in Lincoln, Lt. Col. Key said, to assist Ed Hensely and Ray McEwen, Boeing men already here.

Base Provost Marshal Major Omar Hedrick said a tight security guard of 20 men during daylight and 10 men at night are guarding the disaster scene.

Newsmen, radio and television representatives were required to obtain special air crash passes before passing through the armed guard to the scene.

Hundreds of cars streamed by the site Sunday according to a farmwife living near the crash site.

Still Streaming By

"They started coming at 8:30 a.m. this morning. Saturday night cars were still around at 9 p.m.," she said.

Air Police were quick to stop all cars attempting to get too near to the wreckage site and waved on persons in cars blocking the road trying to get a longer look at the debris.

Major Hedrick said the Air Police had little trouble at night. Only a party of girls tried to get through Saturday night, he said.

Iowa Man's Body Found At Omaha Along RR Tracks

OMAHA (AP) — The body of an Iowa man was found Sunday along the Union Pacific Railroad tracks midway between the Missouri River bridge and the Union Station here.

The man was identified from papers at Wilbur Compton, about 65, of Marshalltown, Iowa. His address in Marshalltown was the Iowa Soldiers' Home. Compton's left leg was severed below the hip.

A billfold found on the body contained $214 in cash, a coach ticket for passage from Marshalltown to Sioux City and a letter to notify H. I. Rogers of San Antonio, Tex.

The man's watch was broken and had stopped at 9:15.

Tarp Taken

Bob Rietfors of 2601 So. 45th, told police a 20 by 30 foot green canvas tarp was taken from the top of a pile of lumber at a new home under construction at 70th and Holdrege. Police estimated the loss at $75.

NOT DUSK, BUT DUST

The main street of Amarillo, Tex., was blacked out at 5:40 p.m. by a dust storm that blew down street lamps and several downtown store windows. The dust was carried by 40-50 mph winds which dropped the temperature 14 degrees in less than two hours. (AP Wirephoto).

Dust Paralyzes Texas, Southwest

DALLAS, Texas (AP) — A black duster raged across the Texas panhandle on winds up to 70 miles an hour in gusts Sunday, dropping visibility to zero and stranding motorists and picnickers.

Amarillo was completely blacked out after the storm rode in on 40-50 mile winds about 5 p.m.

State highway patrol headquarters for the Panhandle ordered travel halted except in an extreme emergency in an area north from Wellington throughout the Panhandle and west to Tucumcari, N. M.

A Black One

The weather bureau said that although the storm has a red tinge it definitely was a "black duster."

Numerous minor accidents were reported and several hunters and picnickers were reported missing.

Windows were blown out of at least five Amarillo stores and several street signal lights were knocked out. A wall of an Assembly of God Church that was under construction was blown over.

The weather bureau at Dallas said that indications, based on the high winds, were that the storm could be as severe as the one that threw a blanket of fine, red sand over the entire state last Monday.

The weather bureau said the fast-moving storm probably would sweep dust across the entire state by Monday.

Visibility Zero

Visibility dropped to zero at Dalhart. Other visibility reports included Childress two miles, Tucumcari, N. M., ¼ mile and Dodge City, Kan., ¾.

The duster had covered an area extending from Childress westward to Tucumcari, N. M., and northward into the Oklahoma Panhandle and Southwestern Kansas.

A storm also dropped up to 10 inches of snow in Wyoming, whisked up blowing dust in southeastern Colorado and left highways slick and wet.

Two persons were killed and eight injured in a bus-car collision on slushy and snow-slickered U.S. 30 about 43 miles east of Rock Springs, Wyo.

The Wyoming highway patrol said seven of 33 passenger aboard the eastbound Greyhound bus were hospitalized at Rock Springs with minor injuries.

Enactment Of A Wheel Tax To Take Time

By BILL DOBLER
Star Staff Writer

Possible enactment of a "wheel tax" by the City Council will take enough time to permit any interested parties an opportunity to be heard on the matter.

While the Council may approve the general theory of such a tax this Monday, the details of such a plan and its official enactment will take some time.

Mayor Clark Jeary pointed out that a study must first be made of what street improvements are to be made during the next year and their cost. He has also stated that not only a "wheel tax" but other forms of revenue as well will be studied.

If a "wheel tax" is finally decided upon, he said, it will require an ordinance. Hearings are held on all ordinances on third and final reading.

Monday's Council action will mainly be to formally remove the street program from any spot on the June 26 special election ballot and to set up a committee to study other ways of meeting street improvement problems.

An annual "wheel tax" of $5 per vehicle has been suggested by Jeary. The actual amount of the tax, however, will have to be determined after further study, he said, and may vary from year to year according to the city's needs.

Tumble Down Stairs Injures Lincoln Woman

Mrs. Nellie Mae Ball, 65, suffered contusions to her face and a possible back injury when she fell down a flight of stairs from the second floor at the home of her son, Robert, of 2246 Sheldon.

She was taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital by ambulance where she was treated.

Mrs. Ball was reported in fairly-good condition early Monday morning.

City Housewife Tries Suicide; Found By Niece

A 22-year-old Lincoln housewife attempted suicide, police said, by taking approximately 15 grains of phenobarbitol after her husband told her she was "sick in the head."

A 17-year-old niece found the woman passed out on the bedroom floor of her home. The woman was taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital and later released.

Thieves Enter Auto

A .32 caliber automatic pistol, a box of cigars and a flashlight were stolen from the glove compartment of a car owned by Herb Umhenour of 1750 So. 15th, police said. Police valued the loss at $27.

Other events Sunday included a supper by the Pythian Sisters honoring their past chiefs.

The Knights of Pythias will hold a business meeting and election of officers Monday morning.

The annual convention will continue through Tuesday, with the last day devoted to a business meeting.

Nat'l. Park Service Official Praises Historical Museum

OMAHA (AP)—The chief of interpretation for the National Park Service has praised the Nebraska Historical Society Museum at Lincoln as outstanding.

Ronald F. Lee of Washington, while here for conferences with region 2 officers of the National Park Service, called the Lincoln layout one of the outstanding museums in the nation.

Lee said the Nebraska Historical Society's museum has attracted national attention for the quality of its exhibits, the skill and art work in its presentation and a layout that permits easy flexibility in arranging exhibits.

The Washington official's interest in the Nebraska Historical Society's displays stems from the Park Service's own program for an expanded use of museums. It has built two since 1941 and now plans to add 100, setting them up at the rate of 10 a year, he said.

Columbus Plant Plans Addition

COLUMBUS, Neb. (AP) — Becton, Dickinson and Co. of Nebraska will build a new 28,000-square-foot plant here to about double its manufacturing facilities.

General Manager E. A. Leskanic said plans calling for a west addition to the present main building are ready for the letting of contracts.

More Employes

The additional area will call for a personnel increase as soon as the products engineering department has completed designs on new items planned for Nebraska, Leskanic said.

Since moving into the present quarters in 1949 with a nucleus of 25 employes, the company has expanded until now it employs 215.

In the past year it produced more than 30 million vacutainers, a million thermometer tubes and other items for the armed services, Red Cross and the medical field.

Car-Train Accident Kills Teen-Agers

OMAHA (AP)—Two teen-agers were killed early Sunday when the car in which they were riding was rammed by a train.

The victims were Joyce Britten, 16, of Council Bluffs, and Roger M. Thomsen, 18, of Omaha.

Injured were the Britten girl's twin sister, Jeanette, and another sister, Marylin, 18, and Richard C. Ehrhorn, 18, and Charles A. Miller, 17, both of Omaha.

Nebraska News

Ehrhorn, driver of the car, was treated at a hospital and released. The others were in fair condition.

Ehrhorn said he was travelling east toward Omaha when the accident occurred. He said he turned to talk to someone in the back seat and did not see the train.

Investigating officers quoted a witness as saying the signal lights were working and the train whistle was blowing at the time of the accident.

The engineer of the train said it was going about 35 miles an hour.

The young people were returning to Omaha from a dance.

900 Attend Dedication Rites At Lutheran School Addition

SEWARD, Neb.—Nearly 900 persons attended the dedication of the $168,000 addition to St. John's Lutheran School in Seward Sunday afternoon.

Dr. John W. Behnken, president of the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod, spoke on the need for Christian education.

The dedication announcement by Herbert Kaiser, principal of the school, was followed by the rite of dedication by the Rev. Raymond I. Cattau, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church.

The Concordia Chorale of Concordia Teachers College, under the direction of Dr. T. G. Stelzer, provided special music.

The new addition provides four additional classrooms, a gymnasium-auditorium, offices, lunchroom and kitchen space.

This increases the room capacity of the school to nine rooms with a library.

Pastors To Return To Minden Church For Anniversary

MINDEN, Neb.—Former pastors of First Presbyterian Church are expected to return to Minden April 22 to take part in the 75th anniversary observance of organization of the church.

Among former pastors and other Presbyterian ministers scheduled to attend are Dr. George F. McDougal, Dr. Arthur Soundy, the Rev. Wilbur F. Swan, Dr. John W. Pressly and Dr. George S. Bancroft.

The organizational meeting on May 1, 1881, was held in the Minden public school building, now the Kearney County Historical Museum across the street from the present church building.

The present edifice was dedicated in 1909.

Twice As Many Dollars

The Committee for the White House Conference on Education, now after almost a year spent in digesting and summarizing the evidence of the 1955 meeting, has handed its report to President Eisenhower.

After the long look the committee observed that "there is far more to be proud of in today's schools than there is to criticize." But it drew a picture of a monumental task for the coming decade.

The nation needs 200,000 classrooms both to accomodate the growing number of pupils and to provide the varied facilities today's education requires. It needs to redouble its efforts to recruit teachers now annually providing but one third of the need. For all this the nation needs twice the present number of educational dollars.

How to raise the money remains an open question. Federal aid, perhaps. But from the committee's point of view the problem belongs principally to the states and their communities.

The committee's conclusions do not have the force of law. But they reflect the general appraisal of the great task. They outline a factual case and American will have to face it for better or worse.

It was interesting that the Nebraska problem was sketched in simple but effective detail. Nebraska is now applying 2.67 per cent of its income payments to individuals to its public schools. That amounts to $4,381 per class room. Reflected against a national average of $7,000 equalization would require slightly more than 4 per cent of income. Obviously Nebraska has work to do, which could be painful.

Russia's Position Switch

One is to judge from the temper of the London disarmament talks that Russia has had a change in heart—that it actually is ready to talk turkey on the subject of limiting arms of the conventional type.

This is the position first advanced by the West, but was countered adversely by Ruissia which held the point of beginning to be in the nuclear field. That was in contrast to Russia's earlier refusal to enter into any international agreements that would open every nation's activity in nuclear development to inspection.

In a world so full of tension and uncertainty any suggestion of peace through restraint becomes more fascinating than the conditions that surround such an offer. Experience with Russia has taught the West to be skeptical. While the Red proposals for disarmament must not be dismissed as empty, nevertheless there are considerations to be weighed as the subject is digested. One is that Russia now has nuclear weapons. It didn't have them but was working on them when it cold-shouldered early efforts toward nuclear control through inspection.

It is also conceivable that enough now is known about nuclear warfare to conclude that any nation may safely cut back on conventional defense with the knowledge that the effect on security would not be consequential. It would not actually be bargaining in good faith to eliminate in non-critical fields, albeit sudden cutbacks could serve a purpose in economic disruption.

It would also be well to weigh in Russia's present tenuous political situation—unrest plus top level rivalries.

Such matters would help greatly in forming a rounded opinion of Russia's declared change of heart. But what is still lacking are acts of good faith—the most important ingredient of any dependable arrangement for peace. Disarmament would not be either a difficult or a complex problem if the rivals could trust one another.

Goodby And Goodnight

We have the notion that over the next fifty years a sound program of conservation of natural resources will be of the utmost importance to the American people, blessed as they have been with unexcelled natural wealth.

The time had come for Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay to say goodby to his chief. There is no news report of what 'Doug' said to 'Ike' or what 'Ike' said to 'Doug.' 'Doug' was on his way out to Oregon to begin campaigning in the state's primary for the right to oppose Sen. Wayne Morse next fall for one of Oregon's two Senate seats. Ike was meeting with his Cabinet prior to taking off for a week's golfing vacation in Florida.

A former governor of Oregon, Secretary McKay has not been an outstanding secretary of the interior. Unlike a Republican predecessor, Gifford Pinchot—or, in more recent years, unlike the late Secretary Harold Ickes or Oscar Chapman—we doubt any considerable portion of the American people will remember Mr. McKay. If he is remembered, it will be because he was generous to individuals and to groups in administering the people's resources. He saw the fabled riches of Tidelands oil go back to three states after the Supreme Court had said the Tidelands belonged to the American people, and he became the author of the partnership doctrine between government and private enterprise—a jimcrack, which meant that Uncle Sam paid the bill and private enterprise skimmed off the cream.

It will be up to the people of Oregon to decide whether they want Mr. McKay to represent them in the Senate, or Wayne Morse. A distinguished columnist near the close of the week wrote that Morse was starting his campaign with a deficit—would need at least a quarter of a million dollars if he were to conduct an effective fight—that McKay could anticipate ample funds. If that is the case, Wayne Morse may find it difficult to beat that kind of money, but if anyone can he is the one who can be expected to turn the trick.

As for Secretary McKay, it is not difficult to say goodby. Our only hope is that it is permanent so far as the Washington scene is concerned.

Of Men And Things

By J. E LAWRENCE

When the time came, all but two of the 10 Senate and House members of the conference committee on the farm legislation gave their approval to the compromise bill which now must run the gantlet of Congress. These two who did not sign—Sen. Aiken of Vermont and Sen. Holland of Florida—are not representative of these Midwest states which actually produce the bulk of America's food. Nor do they understand agriculture in the sense that mid-America knows it.

★

Speaking For Vermont

Sen. Aiken is the ranking Republican member on the Agriculture committee, not by virtue of the fact that he has even lived with midwest agriculture, or seems to know much about it, but by virtue of seniority. Sen. Aiken, if recollection serves us well, is a nurseryman. The nearest his state comes to agriculture is dairying and poultry-raising. It also produces a lot of maple sugar for America's sweet tooth. It is not difficult to understand Sen. Aiken's concern over continuing high grain costs, representing in part a rigid price support program at 90 per cent of parity, but it is irritating to discover him taking it out on the midwest farmer when he knows, if he knows anything at all, that President Eisenhower gave those midwest farmers his pledge of a continuing price support program on the basis of 90 per cent of parity. So Sen. Aiken will continue his fight against farm legislation which has the blessing of eight of his colleagues, including Rep. Clifford Hope of Kansas. Vermont, in physical area, is about the size of Cherry County, but thanks to Sen. Aiken's efforts, the voice of Vermont, means much more, infinitely more, than one of Nebraska's 92 counties. For that matter make it all 93.

★

Even more irritating is the announced opposition of Florida's Sen. Holland to days of labor by Senate and House colleagues. Florida primarily is not a wheat-producing state. It looks to truck gardening and to citrus fruits. There are no restrictions upon acreage devoted to wheat in Florida. It increased its production 150 per cent a year ago, and may contribute even more to surpluses next season. Its chief source of wealth is the tourist crop, however. But Sen. Holland does not like the farm bill his colleagues drafted.

Me, Too, Says Benson

We do not know whether it is a case of Sen. Aiken and Sen. Holland calling the tune, or Secretary Benson. The latter permitted it to become known that he too is deeply disappointed in the farm bill drawn by the conferees. He and his assistant, True Morse, met with the President Friday for a preliminary review of the legislation which had gotten the approval of the conference committee. Secretary Benson said the bill simply did not satisfy him. Now isn't that too bad? If Mr. Benson realized that a great many of the midwestern farmers are not too happy with his administration, we doubt that he would in any way change his tactics. And we trust Congress will not pay too much attention to Mr. Benson. Benson has come to the conclusion that the accumulated surpluses are the core of farm controversy at this time, and because of their existence, are the dominating factor in any legislation adopted. A farm emergency is of no importance to him.

★

If this present Congress succeeds in drafting an acceptable farm program, it will have justified its failures. It is not so much the volume of legislation any Congress adopts that gives it stature as it is the type of legislation it approves.

More Light

The U.S. Census Bureau has come out with 1955 totals showing a new high in the number of employed Americans.

The number of employed reached 63,193,000. To give that figure more meaning it should be placed in contrast with the 1953 total which was 61,238,000. It would also be well to note that it exceeded by approximately 1,000,000 the peak employment reached by the nation during the Korean fighting in 1951.

It is generally assumed that the nation is in a state of well being when it has a maximum of employment and that is certainly a position of sound foundation. But a fuller treatment of national welfare would include a treatment of national earnings against cost of living and the credit position of the earners. It is one thing to be employed and another to be gaining or losing ground against day by day expenses. Depressions generally start when the employed can no longer make it. Unemployment is more often the result than the cause.

Place To Be

Everyone seems to be winning in Monaco these days. Grace Kelly got Prince Rainier. Not to be outdone Winston Churchill struck a blow for the British empire. He hit a 35 to 1 payoff on the wheel at the Grand Casino. As long as things are working out so well over there perhaps we should all pay the place a visit.

Age No Measure Of Green's Firepower

WASHINGTON — Sen. Theodore Francis Green, Rhode Island Democrat and the oldest member of the Senate, slugged a holdup man on a dark Washington street the other night and sent the would-be robber scurrying away

Green, who is 88 years old and will break the all-American records for Senate age if he lives out his term — as I predict he will — was walking up 18th street to keep a dinner engagement when someone grabbed his shoulder from behind

"This is a holdup," growled the stranger, "give me your watch and all your money"

"I'll give you nothing," said the scrappy senator, who up until recently wrestled twice a week in the Senate gymnasium.

"I'll kill you," warned the holdup man.

The senator confided later that he wasn't quite sure what to do, but he let out a yell for help. At this point, the holdup man put both hands on his shoulders, leaving himself slightly off balance. So the senator from Rhode Island took a terrific swing at the robber's face

This seemed to unnerve him. He mumbled something about Green not being reasonable and ran down the street. The senator let out a couple more yells for help but got no response. So he walked on to his dinner.

When he got to dinner he did not immediately tell his host about the experience. He said he was a little upset and, also, didn't want to create a disturbance. Finally, after dinner was over he phoned the police. Three officers arrived, and he went to the police station to look over pictures of suspects. The robber was about 30 years old, clean-shaven, fairly well dressed, and medium height. Senator Green has now looked over the entire police rogues' gallery and has not been able to identify the man who fled from the oldest member of the Senate.

Judging by good old Jim Hagerty's fiery denial, I struck a raw White House nerve when I reported that Ike had spent more time on the golf course at White Sulphur Springs, W Va, than he had conferring with the Canadian and Mexican chiefs of state

Actually, any golf player can add up the time it normally takes to play golf and come to a conclusion contrary to Mr Hagerty's. However, the really important point may be why Jim's nerve is raw.

Ike first played 18 holes of golf on Monday, March 26, the day his visitors arrived. He played with Sam Snead, the White Sulphur pro and while he used a golfmobile to ride uphill, he walked over most of the course. This took all of one morning, something around three hours.

Ike's visitors arrived that afternoon, and that evening he sat down to a 14-guest dinner with them during which he chiefly reminisced about his war experiences with the Russians. There was plenty of table chat, but no conferring or diplomatic business of any kind

Next morning, March 27, at 10 30, the President met with both the Candian prime minister and the Mexican president together, for one hour and a half. Then after a joint lunch he had one hour with the Mexican chief of state and a little less than an hour with the Canadian chief of state. Then he immediately popped out on the golf course again — this time for 12 holes.

Career Diplomat Is 'Poor Relation'

WASHINGTON — In 75 embassies and nearly 300 consulates throughout the world, the United States has its representatives. It is a sad reflection on the richest and most free-spending nation that these representatives are treated like poor relations who cannot be trusted with the silverware.

The Department of State has come to Congress with a request for $1,000,000 for what is called, in the language of bureaucracy, the "representation allowance."

This is the money granted our diplomats to pay for entertaining they must do in their job of winning friends and influencing people. It is the personal exchange across a dinner table or at a garden party that is the most effective form of enlisting friends.

Yet when it comes to funds for this purpose, Congress reflects what seems to be a curious split in the American character. Even Congressmen who should know better talk about "diplomacy by dipsomania" and the "whisky allowance" while columnists and commentators come up with sour jokes about the "martini circuit."

This seems to reflect a dark suspicion of diplomats, in general, and of American diplomats, in particular.

The niggardliness that results puts a severe handicap on our representatives abroard and often imposes serious personal hardships on them. It is one reason for the decline in morale and standards in the American Foreign Service.

In the course of travel in Europe and Asia in the past two years, this reporter encountered many instances of what the hardship means.

Take, as an example, Consul John Jones in a Far Eastern city where American trade in vital materials is important. This is a typical case, only slightly disguised.

It is part of Jones' job to entertain local officials and businessmen as well as many Americans on business trips. He gets an annual "representation" allowance of $330, which becomes available at the beginning of the government year on July 1.

On July 4 he gives the required Fourth of July Party, costing about $400. The New Year, therefore, is only four days old when he has spent $100 out of his own pocket. And all his entertainment thereafter must be at his own expense.

This is a Moslem country where virtually no alcohol is consumed but where proper soft drinks, sandwiches and so forth cost about as much as martinis.

And Consul Jones' wife is suffering from her second attack of amoebic dysentery and there is no English-language school for their children. Consul Jones' salary is $8,500 before income taxes, and living in this remote part of the world involves extra expenses. Manifestly, it is unfair to add to his other hardships the necessity for paying out of his own pocket to do his job.

One reason political ambassadors occupy the important diplomatic posts — London, Paris Rome — is that no career Foreign Service officer, unless he happens to have a private income or a rich wife, can afford these posts. The representation allowance for Great Britain for the ambassador down through the consuls, this year is $21,900.

Weight Lifters Are Raising Roof

NEW YORK — There hasn't been a breath of scandal in weight lifting since Lionel Strongfort hoisted his first baby rattle with a jerk and clean press. Weight lifters, like heel and toe addicts and oboe players, are unassuming folk content to live and die in the shadows of their odd calling A weights lifter's fan club usually consists of his mother

But now the Game is shaken by as nasty a situation as the sports world has had to endure in many moons. The White House has been alerted that it may have to intervene. In weight lifting circles, cries of "It's a shame!" and "What will these fine Russians think of us?" [illegible] d loud and clear above the staccato barrage of popping tendons.

Seems that Dan Ferris of the A.A.U. recently received the following telegraph from Moscow.

"In connection with your invitation the Soviet sports delegation intended to fly for USA to participate in friendly competition with American weightlifters.

"When granting visas USA embassy in Moscow referred to instructions of the State Department and demanded that members of our delegation give finger print and sign questionnaire which says that they will make the forthcoming trip at their own risk and must agree to possibility of being prohibited to leave back for their country stop naturally such terms are unacceptable for members of our delegation and USSR weightlifting section stop USSR section thanks you for your invitation of our sportsmen but unfortunately it is deprived of possibility to send them to USA under present circumstances."

Bob Hoffman, coach of the 1956 U.S. Olympic weight lifting team, states that when the U.S. team went to Russia last year it was given the red carpet treatment

"Our team was very popular in the Soviet Union," he writes "During the competitions the crowds applauded [illegible]ry enthusiastically for our fellows. The Soviets presented us with a 35 mm. movie film of the contests to commemorate our visit." The contests in Moscow and Leningrad ended in a tie. Later the U.S. grunters toured Lebanon, Egypt, Iran, Iraq, Afghanistan, India and Burma, with the State Department picking up the check, the tour's record bit of weight lifting.

The State Department's view is that the Soviet weight lifters are not "officials" and therefore must be fingerprinted. The President has been appealed to. The whole little world of a strange, strange sport sits on the edge of its collective chair.

BILL DOBLER At City Hall

Sanitary Sewer, Water Problems

Evidently lacking the courage to express their views to the public, the Board of Sanitary District 1 at the suggestion of Max Harding, one of their members went into executive or closed - door session to discuss the current sanitary sewer problems

Bill Dobler

If Mr. Harding is so doubtful of his position and opinions that he is afraid to shed the light of day on them, it might be asked upon what grounds he seeks reelection to his present post There is no other matter before the Sanitary District at this time that is of greater importance to the people of Lincoln than the sanitary sewer improvement program.

Yet, Mr. Harding seeks to conduct the affairs of the district in this matter in such a fashion that the public is totally unaware of that body's actions or intention on the subject. Fortunately, in a sense, the people of Lincoln can see raw sewage being dumped into Salt Creek and know when the sanitary sewer backs up into their basements and bathrooms This, at least, prevents Mr Harding from hiding the fact that a serious problem exists We would like to know what the young attorney would have the people believe the district is doing about this problem.

It is possible that one subject the board covered was the removal of any sewer bond proposal from the June 26 special election ballot. Mayor Clark Jeary undoubtedly was prominent in this discussion.

It was primarily Jeary's decision to take the issue off the ballot. While the mayor had been in several conferences with George Knight, a member of the board, in regard to the sewer improvement program, it was Jeary who announced that the issue would not go on the ballot. It is understood that Knight at least had no part in the announcement even if he had reached the same decision as Jeary did, which it seems was the case.

Some board members are probably wondering why Jeary exercised such authority when the sewer proposition was both a joint city and district project to date. Not only did the mayor fail to confer with the board before making his announcement, but he is not known to have discussed the matter with his own colleagues on the City Council.

As a matter of diplomacy, Jeary did not act wisely. Many knotty problems between the city and district must be ironed out before any sewer program can be started. By failing to confer with the district, Jeary only intensified the rivalry between the two groups which has been obvious throughout the past year or so.

Generally speaking Mayor Jeary did not fare too well at a recent meeting of West O businessmen and residents to discuss the water problems of that area Seldom did the city officials give answers that satisfied those in the audience who asked the question.

There seemed to be considerable doubt, also, of the mayor's explanation for introduction of ordinances to annex the West O and Cornhusker Highway areas into the city. According to Jeary, the ordinances were introduced only as a means of concentrating the thinking of the City Council on the problems of the West O area.

The mayor was no doubt sincere and honest when he said the area would not be annexed unless it was wanted by the people who live there. It is hard to understand however, the need for the ordinances and why the Council could not consider the West O problems just as easily without the annexation measures before it.

Little good was accomplished at the meeting by Henry Amen, chairman of the Board of Sanitary District 1. Amen was probably the most popular official due to his remarks, but he showed a definite lack of understanding of the problems involved.

Amen merely ignored everything and stated flatly that the city should give the area water Warming up to the applause from that statement, Amen proceeded to inform the more than 200 people in attendance that the city had plenty of water and was anxious to sell it.

Evidently the Sanitary District official has a short memory. Has he forgotten the summer months of the past few years when water was rationed in Lincoln? Has he forgotten or did he ever know there is some doubt as to the adequacy of the city's water supply for the coming summer?

Lincoln is certainly not out looking for more water customers at this time. The city will consider itself fortunate if it can supply all its present demand without interruption this summer. Mr Amen may have been a hero at the meeting but, if so, it was only because he lacked sufficient knowledge of the subject which he was discussing Certainly, the West O people cannot be condemned because they have an insufficient water supply Help in every conceivable way should be given to them but the city's duty runs first to the people within its own city limits. These are the people who have in the past borne the cost of constructing the water plant. They are the people who are now paying off an $8 million bond issue to finance improvements to the water system They are also paying city and Lincoln School District taxes which are not a part of living outside the corporate limits.

Against Wheel Tax

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: This is an open letter to the Mayor and City Council of Lincoln with some questions thousands of city home owners, and voters, would like to have answered.

Does the city council plan to shove a wheel tax on us without the Democratic process of referendum approval or at least by holding a public hearing?

Does the council wish to consider the wishes of the majority or just the large real estate interests? Should the '56 Cadiliac and Model T be bracketed together?

Should the home owner who is an old age anuitant pay $5 more on his 1,000 miles per year; the same as the owner of a commercial vehicle which makes 1,000 miles a week?

Who profits most from the modern traffic arteries—large business which can dispense merchandise and services more economically that way and get more customers to and from their doors, or the average Lincoln auto-owning home taxpayer?

Does the non-resident owner of Lincoln real estate need to have his taxes held down for the cost of city improvements and spread on every less fortunate auto owning resident?

Assuming the average home in Lincoln has an average market value of $10,000 to $12,000, does the city council think it is equitable to pay $5 per year wheel tax instead of approximately $2 a year increase in real estate tax to pay for a bond financed $1.5 million street improvement project? Where were the mayor and city council when hearings were conducted on LB 362 (weight-distance tax on heavy trucks) in the last session of the legislature? The bill provided for a substantial per cent of the revenue to be allocated to cities and villages for street and alley funds.

I believe if the City Council and every Lincoln home taxpayer will analyze the above questions and give unprejudiced answers he will never resort to a wheel tax for city street improvement or any other tax that relieves the big fellow at the expense of his less fortunate fellow citizens.

Today's Roast Beef Is Tomorrow's Hash

Biologists, physiologists and sociologists, in common with the general run of the male population, have devoted an uncommon lot of thought to the ways in which women depart from the male pattern, but the most puzzling aspect of the whole intriguing question has been all but overlooked.

How come my wife throws out the baked beans she had all ready for dinner if I happen incautiously to mention that I had baked beans for lunch? I like baked beans.

It is not just baked beans, either. It would be the same with sauer kraut, caviar or puffed rice. Feminine living is governed by an unwritten but flexible law that luncheon's roast beef must be dinner's hash or tomorrow's cold cuts, but under no circumstances must it ever again appear as roast beef The only way to beat the system is to raid the refrigerator between meals.

Most men are different. True enough, a small minority of them cannot stand the same pepper shaker on the table two meals running, but the vast majority doesn't even remember whether it was today or last Sunday when they last had an omelette. If they could, it wouldn't make any difference. If there is an affinity between a man and omelettes, his affections won't turn fickle between noon and 8 p.m.

Women, however, are not content with recognizing this difference in the sexes. They have got to be forever prying to find out what a man had for lunch, with an eye to making a last-minute change in their own dinner menus in event of duplication At our house, this leads to a great deal of sparring. Like with the baked beans.

"Hello," I said when I got home from work. "Boy, that smells good Baked beans, huh?"

Mrs. F. eyed me warily and said, "What did you have for lunch?"

"It couldn't have been hotcakes," I argued, "because those are for breakfast. Did we have hotcakes for breakfast?"

☆ ☆ ☆

Mrs. F. said I knew perfectly well we had hotcakes last Monday. And anyway, she charged, I was evading the issue. What had I had for lunch today?

"I'll bet it was baked beans" she declared, "and you're just trying to be polite. And I haven't another thing in the house!"

"It wasn't either," I wailed, having visions of lettuce and carrots for dinner. I made a desperate last effort to remember what I had eaten for lunch, but gave it up. The time was too short to let me sort out many memories. I fixed on the first thing that came to mind. "Sturgeon," I blurted. "That's what I had. Sturgeon."

Mrs. F. said nobody served sturgeon for lunch, and if they did, I wouldn't eat it. She reminded me that I do not like fish.

"And what's more," she said, "if you hadn't had baked beans for lunch, you wouldn't be so evasive about it. I'll open a can of chili!"

What's more, she did, too.

And, so help me, for lunch tomorrow, I'm going to find a restaurant that is serving baked beans.

Twice As Many Dollars

The Committee for the White House Conference on Education, now after almost a year spent in digesting and summarizing the evidence of the 1955 meeting, has handed its report to President Eisenhower.

After the long look the committee observed that "there is far more to be proud of in today's schools than there is to criticize." But it drew a picture of a monumental task for the coming decade.

The nation needs 200,000 classrooms both to accomodate the growing number of pupils and to provide the varied facilities today's education requires. It needs to redouble its efforts to recruit teachers now annually providing but one third of the need. For all this the nation needs twice the present number of educational dollars.

How to raise the money remains an open question. Federal aid, perhaps. But from the committee's point of view the problem belongs principally to the states and their communities.

The committee's conclusions do not have the force of law. But they reflect the general appraisal of the great task. They outline a factual case and American will have to face it for better or worse.

It was interesting that the Nebraska problem was sketched in simple but effective detail. Nebraska is now applying 2.67 per cent of its income payments to individuals to its public schools. That amounts to $4,381 per class room. Reflected against a national average of $7,000 equalization would require slightly more than 4 per cent of income. Obviously Nebraska has work to do, which could be painful.

Russia's Position Switch

One is to judge from the temper of the London disarmament talks that Russia has had a change in heart—that it actually is ready to talk turkey on the subject of limiting arms of the conventional type.

This is the position first advanced by the West, but was countered adversely by Ruissia which held the point of beginning to be in the nuclear field. That was in contrast to Russia's earlier refusal to enter into any international agreements that would open every nation's activity in nuclear development to inspection.

In a world so full of tension and uncertainty any suggestion of peace through restraint becomes more fascinating than the conditions that surround such an offer. Experience with Russia has taught the West to be skeptical. While the Red proposals for disarmament must not be dismissed as empty, nevertheless there are considerations to be weighed as the subject is digested. One is that Russia now has nuclear weapons. It didn't have them but was working on them when it cold-shouldered early efforts toward nuclear control through inspection.

It is also conceivable that enough now is known about nuclear warfare to conclude that any nation may safely cut back on conventional defense with the knowledge that the effect on security would not be consequential. It would not actually be bargaining in good faith to eliminate in non-critical fields, albeit sudden cutbacks could serve a purpose in economic disruption.

It would also be well to weigh in Russia's present tenuous political situation—unrest plus top level rivalries.

Such matters would help greatly in forming a rounded opinion of Russia's declared change of heart. But what is still lacking are acts of good faith—the most important ingredient of any dependable arrangement for peace. Disarmament would not be either a difficult or a complex problem if the rivals could trust one another.

Goodby And Goodnight

We have the notion that over the next fifty years a sound program of conservation of natural resources will be of the utmost importance to the American people, blessed as they have been with unexcelled natural wealth.

The time had come for Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay to say goodby to his chief. There is no news report of what 'Doug' said to 'Ike' or what 'Ike' said to 'Doug.' 'Doug' was on his way out to Oregon to begin campaigning in the state's primary for the right to oppose Sen. Wayne Morse next fall for one of Oregon's two Senate seats. Ike was meeting with his Cabinet prior to taking off for a week's golfing vacation in Florida.

A former governor of Oregon, Secretary McKay has not been an outstanding secretary of the interior. Unlike a Republican predecessor, Gifford Pinchot—or, in more recent years, unlike the late Secretary Harold Ickes or Oscar Chapman—we doubt any considerable portion of the American people will remember Mr. McKay. If he is remembered, it will be because he was generous to individuals and to groups in administering the people's resources. He saw the fabled riches of Tidelands oil go back to three states after the Supreme Court had said the Tidelands belonged to the American people, and he became the author of the partnership doctrine between government and private enterprise—a jimcrack, which meant that Uncle Sam paid the bill and private enterprise skimmed off the cream.

It will be up to the people of Oregon to decide whether they want Mr. McKay to represent them in the Senate, or Wayne Morse. A distinguished columnist near the close of the week wrote that Morse was starting his campaign with a deficit—would need at least a quarter of a million dollars if he were to conduct an effective fight—that McKay could anticipate ample funds. If that is the case, Wayne Morse may find it difficult to beat that kind of money, but if anyone can he is the one who can be expected to turn the trick.

As for Secretary McKay, it is not difficult to say goodby. Our only hope is that it is permanent so far as the Washington scene is concerned.

Of Men And Things

By J. E LAWRENCE

When the time came, all but two of the 10 Senate and House members of the conference committee on the farm legislation gave their approval to the compromise bill which now must run the gantlet of Congress. Those two who did not sign—Sen. Aiken of Vermont and Sen. Holland of Florida—are not representative of these Midwest states which actually produce the bulk of America's food. Nor do they understand agriculture in the sense that mid-America knows it.

★

Speaking For Vermont

Sen. Aiken is the ranking Republican member on the Agriculture committee, not by virtue of the fact that he has even lived with midwest agriculture, or seems to know much about it, but by virtue of seniority. Sen. Aiken, if recollection serves us well, is a nurseryman. The nearest his state comes to agriculture is dairying and poultry-raising. It also produces a lot of maple sugar for America's sweet tooth. It is not difficult to understand Sen. Aiken's concern over continuing high grain costs, representing in part a rigid price support program at 90 per cent of parity, but it is irritating to discover him taking it out on the midwest farmer when he knows, if he knows anything at all, that President Eisenhower gave those midwest farmers his pledge of a continuing price support program on the basis of 90 per cent of parity. So Sen. Aiken will continue his fight against farm legislation which has the blessing of eight of his colleagues, including Rep. Clifford Hope of Kansas. Vermont, in physical area, is about the size of Cherry County, but thanks to Sen. Aiken's efforts, the voice of Vermont, means much more, infinitely more, than one of Nebraska's 92 counties. For that matter make it all 93.

★

Even more irritating is the announced opposition of Florida's Sen. Holland to days of labor by Senate and House colleagues. Florida primarily is not a wheat-producing state. It looks to truck gardening and to citrus fruits. There are no restrictions upon acreage devoted to wheat in Florida. It increased its production 150 per cent a year ago, and may contribute even more to surpluses next season. Its chief source of wealth is the tourist crop, however. But Sen. Holland does not like the farm bill his colleagues drafted.

Me, Too, Says Benson

We do not know whether it is a case of Sen. Aiken and Sen. Holland calling the tune, or Secretary Benson. The latter permitted it to become known that he too is deeply disappointed in the farm bill drawn by the conferees. He and his assistant, True Morse, met with the President Friday for a preliminary review of the legislation which had gotten the approval of the conference committee. Secretary Benson said the bill simply did not satisfy him. Now isn't that too bad? If Mr. Benson realized that a great many of the midwestern farmers are not too happy with his administration, we doubt that he would in any way change his tactics. And we trust Congress will not pay too much attention to Mr. Benson. Benson has come to the conclusion that the accumulated surpluses are the core of farm controversy at this time, and because of their existence, are the dominating factor in any legislation adopted. A farm emergency is of no importance to him.

★

If this present Congress succeeds in drafting an acceptable farm program, it will have justified its labors. It is not so much the volume of legislation any Congress adopts that gives it stature as it is the type of legislation it approves.

More Light

The U.S. Census Bureau has come out with 1955 totals showing a new high in the number of employed Americans.

The number of employed reached 63,193,000. To give that figure more meaning it should be placed in contrast with the 1953 total which was 61,238,000. It would also be well to note that it exceeded by approximately 1,000,000 the peak employment reached by the nation during the Korean fighting in 1951.

It is generally assumed that the nation is in a state of well being when it has a maximum of employment and that is certainly a position of sound foundation. But a fuller treatment of national welfare would include a treatment of national earnings against cost of living and the credit position of the earners. It is one thing to be employed and another to be gaining or losing ground against day by day expenses. Depressions generally start when the employed can no longer make it. Unemployment is more often the result than the cause.

Place To Be

Everyone seems to be winning in Monaco these days. Grace Kelly got Prince Rainier. Not to be outdone Winston Churchill struck a blow for the British empire. He hit a 35 to 1 payoff on the wheel at the Grand Casino. As long as things are working out so well over there perhaps we should all pay the place a visit.

Age No Measure Of Green's Firepower

WASHINGTON — Sen. Theodore Francis Green, Rhode Island Democrat and the oldest member of the Senate, slugged a holdup man on a dark Washington street the other night and sent the would-be robber scurrying away.

Green, who is 88 years old and will break the all-American records for Senate age if he lives out his term — as I predict he will — was walking up 18th street to keep a dinner engagement when someone grabbed his shoulder from behind.

"This is a holdup," growled the stranger, "give me your watch and all your money."

"I'll give you nothing," said the scrappy senator, who up until recently wrestled twice a week in the Senate gymnasium.

"I'll kill you," warned the holdup man.

The senator confided later that he wasn't quite sure what to do, but he let out a yell for help. At this point, the holdup man put both hands on his shoulders, leaving himself slightly off balance. So the senator from Rhode Island took a terrific swing at the robber's face.

This seemed to unnerve him. He mumbled something about Green not being reasonable and ran down the street. The senator let out a couple more yells for help but got no response. So he walked on to his dinner.

When he got to dinner he did not immediately tell his host about the experience. He said he was a little upset and, also, didn't want to create a disturbance. Finally, after dinner was over he phoned the police. Three officers arrived, and he went to the police station to look over pictures of suspects. The robber was about 30 years old, clean-shaven, fairly well dressed, and medium height. Senator Green has now looked over the entire police rogues' gallery and has not been able to identify the man who fled from the oldest member of the Senate.

Judging by good old Jim Hagerty's fiery denial, I struck a raw White House nerve when I reported that Ike had spent more time on the golf course at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., than he had conferring with the Canadian and Mexican chiefs of state.

Actually, any golf player can add up the time it normally takes to play golf and come to a conclusion contrary to Mr. Hagerty's. However, the really important point may be why Jim's nerve is raw.

Ike first played 18 holes of golf on Monday, March 26, the day his visitors arrived. He played with Sam Snead, the White Sulphur pro, and while he used a golfmobile to ride uphill, he walked over most of the course. This took all of one morning, something around three hours.

Ike's visitors arrived that afternoon, and that evening he sat down to a 14-guest dinner with them during which he chiefly reminisced about his war experiences with the Russians. There was plenty of table chat, but no conferring or diplomatic business of any kind.

Next morning, March 27, at 10:30, the President met with both the Candian prime minister and the Mexican president together, for one hour and a half. Then after a joint lunch he had one hour with the Mexican chief of state and a little less than an hour with the Canadian chief of state. Then he immediately popped out on the golf course again — this time for 12 holes.

Career Diplomat Is 'Poor Relation'

WASHINGTON — In 75 embassies and nearly 300 consulates throughout the world, the United States has its representatives. It is a sad reflection on the richest and most free-spending nation that these representatives are treated like poor relations who cannot be trusted with the silverware.

The Department of State has come to Congress with a request for $1,000,000 for what is called, in the language of bureaucracy, the "representation allowance."

This is the money granted our diplomats to pay for entertaining they must do in their job of winning friends and influencing people. It is the personal exchange across a dinner table or at a garden party that is the most effective form of enlisting friends.

Yet when it comes to funds for this purpose, Congress reflects what seems to be a curious split in the American character. Even Congressmen who should know better talk about "diplomacy by dipsomania" and the "whisky allowance" while columnists and commentators come up with sour jokes about the "martini circuit."

This seems to reflect a dark suspicion of diplomats, in general, and of American diplomats, in particular.

The niggardliness that results puts a severe handicap on our repsentatives abroad and often imposes serious personal hardships on them. It is one reason for the decline in morale and standards in the American Foreign Service.

In the course of travel in Europe and Asia in the past two years, this reporter encountered many instances of what the hardship means.

Take, as an example, Consul John Jones in a Far Eastern city where American trade in vital materials is important. This is a typical case, only slightly disguised.

It is part of Jones' job to entertain local officials and businessmen as well as many Americans on business trips. He gets an annual "representation" allowance of $330, which becomes available at the beginning of the government year on July 1.

On July 4 he gives the required Fourth of July Party, costing about $400. The New Year, therefore, is only four days old when he has spent $100 out of his own pocket. And all his entertainment thereafter must be at his own expense.

This is a Moslem country where virtually no alcohol is consumed but where proper soft drinks, sandwiches and so forth cost about as much as martinis.

And Consul Jones' wife is suffering from her second attack of amoebic dysentery and there is no English-language school for their children. Consul Jones' salary is $8,500 before income taxes, and living in this remote part of the world involves extra expenses. Manifestly, it is unfair to add to his other hardships the necessity for paying out of his own pocket to do his job.

One reason political ambassadors occupy the important diplomatic posts — London, Paris, Rome — is that no career Foreign Service officer, unless he happens to have a private income or a rich wife, can afford these posts. The representation allowance for Great Britain for the ambassador down through the consuls, this year is $21,900.

Weight Lifters Are Raising Roof

NEW YORK — There hasn't been a breath of scandal in weight lifting since Lionel Strongfort hoisted his first baby rattle with a jerk and clean press. Weight lifters, like heel and toe addicts and oboe players, are unassuming folk content to live and die in the shadows of their odd calling. A weights lifter's fan club usually consists of his mother.

But now the Game is shaken by as nasty a situation as the sports world has had to endure in many moons. The White House has been alerted that it may have to intervene. In weight lifting circles, cries of "It's a shame!" and "What will those fine Russians think of us?" sound loud and clear above the staccato barrage of popping tendons.

Seems that Dan Ferris of the A.A.U. recently received the following telegraph from Moscow.

"In connection with your invitation the Soviet sports delegation intended to fly for USA to participate in friendly competition with American weightlifters.

"When granting visas USA embassy in Moscow referred to instructions of the State Department and demanded that members of our delegation give finger print and sign questionnaire which says that they will make the forthcoming trip at their own risk and must agree to possibility of being prohibited to leave back for their country stop naturally such terms are unacceptable for members of our delegation and USSR weightlifting section stop USSR section thanks you for your invitation of our sportsmen but unfortunately it is deprived of possibility to send them to USA under present circumstances."

Bob Hoffman, coach of the 1956 U.S. Olympic weight lifting team, states that when the U.S. team went to Russia last year it was given the red carpet treatment.

"Our team was very popular in the Soviet Union," he writes. "During the competitions the crowds applauded very enthusiastically for our fellows. The Soviets presented us with a 35 mm. movie film of the contests to commemorate our visit." The contests in Moscow and Leningrad ended in a tie. Later the U.S. grunters toured Lebanon, Egypt, Iran, Iraq, Afghanistan, India and Burma, with the State Department picking up the check, the tour's record bit of weight lifting.

The State Department's view is that the Soviet weight lifters are not "officials" and therefore must be fingerprinted. The President has been appealed to. The whole little world of a strange, strange sport sits on the edge of its collective chair.

BILL DOBLER At City Hall

Sanitary Sewer, Water Problems

Evidently lacking the courage to express their views to the public, the Board of Sanitary District 1 at the suggestion of Max Harding, one of their members, went into executive or closed - door session to discuss the current sanitary sewer problems.

Bill Dobler

If Mr. Harding is so doubtful of his position and opinions that he is afraid to shed the light of day on them, it might be asked upon what grounds he seeks reelection to his present post. There is no other matter before the Sanitary District at this time that is of greater importance to the people of Lincoln than the sanitary sewer improvement program.

Yet, Mr. Harding seeks to conduct the affairs of the district in this matter in such a fashion that the public is totally unaware of that body's actions or intention on the subject. Fortunately, in a sense, the people of Lincoln can see raw sewage being dumped into Salt Creek and know when the sanitary sewer backs up into their basements and bathrooms. This, at least, prevents Mr. Harding from hiding the fact that a serious problem exists. We would like to know what the young attorney would have the people believe the district is doing about this problem.

It is possible that one subject the board covered was the removal of any sewer bond proposal from the June 26 special election ballot. Mayor Clark Jeary undoubtedly was prominent in this discussion.

It was primarily Jeary's decision to take the issue off the ballot. While the mayor had been in several conferences with George Knight, a member of the board, in regard to the sewer improvement program, it was Jeary who announced that the issue would not go on the ballot. It is understood that Knight at least had no part in the announcement even if he had reached the same decision as Jeary did, which it seems was the case.

Some board members are probably wondering why Jeary exercised such authority when the sewer proposition was both a joint city and district project to date. Not only did the mayor fail to confer with the board before making his announcement, but he is not known to have discussed the matter with his own colleagues on the City Council.

As a matter of diplomacy, Jeary did not act wisely. Many knotty problems between the city and district must be ironed out before any sewer program can be started. By failing to confer with the district, Jeary only intensified the rivalry between the two groups which has been obvious throughout the past year or so.

Generally speaking Mayor Jeary did not fare too well at a recent meeting of West O businessmen and residents to discuss the water problems of that area. Seldom did the city officials give answers that satisfied those in the audience who asked the question.

There seemed to be considerable doubt, also, of the mayor's explanation for introduction of ordinances to annex the West O and Cornhusker Highway areas into the city. According to Jeary, the ordinances were introduced only as a means of concentrating the thinking of the City Council on the problems of the West O area.

The mayor was no doubt sincere and honest when he said the area would not be annexed unless it was wanted by the people who live there. It is hard to understand, however, the need for the ordinances and why the Council could not consider the West O problems just as easily without the annexation measures before it.

Little good was accomplished at the meeting by Henry Amen, chairman of the Board of Sanitary District 1. Amen was probably the most popular official due to his remarks, but he showed a definite lack of understanding of the problems involved.

Amen merely ignored everything and stated flatly that the city should give the area water. Warming up to the applause from that statement, Amen proceeded to inform the more than 200 people in attendance that the city had plenty of water and was anxious to sell it.

Evidently the Sanitary District official has a short memory. Has he forgotten the summer months of the past few years when water was rationed in Lincoln? Has he forgotten or did he ever know there is some doubt as to the adequacy of the city's water supply for the coming summer?

Lincoln is certainly not out looking for more water customers at this time. The city will consider itself fortunate if it can supply all its present demand without interruption this summer. Mr. Amen may have been a hero at the meeting but, if so, it was only because he lacked sufficient knowledge of the subject which he was discussing.

Certainly, the West O people cannot be condemned because they have an insufficient water supply. Help in every conceivable way should be given to them but the city's duty runs first to the people within its own city limits. These are the people who have in the past borne the cost of constructing the water plant. They are the people who are now paying off an $8 million bond issue to finance improvements to the water system. They are also paying city and Lincoln School District taxes which are not a part of living outside the corporate limits.

Against Wheel Tax

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: This is an open letter to the Mayor and City Council of Lincoln with some questions thousands of city home owners, and voters, would like to have answered.

Does the city council plan to shove a wheel tax on us without the Democratic process of referendum approval or at least by holding a public hearing?

Does the council wish to consider the wishes of the majority or just the large real estate interests? Should the '56 Cadillac and Model T be bracketed together?

Should the home owner who is an old age anuitant pay $5 more on his 1,000 miles per year; the same as the owner of a commercial vehicle which makes 1,000 miles a week?

Who profits most from the modern traffic arteries—large business which can dispense merchandise and services more economically that way and get more customers to and from their doors, or the average Lincoln auto-owning home taxpayer?

Does the non-resident owner of Lincoln real estate need to have his taxes held down for the cost of city improvements and spread on every less fortunate auto owning resident?

Assuming the average home in Lincoln has an average market value of $10,000 to $12,000, does the city council think it is equitable to pay $5 per year wheel tax instead of approximately $2 a year increase in real estate tax to pay for a bond financed $1.5 million street improvement project? Where were the mayor and city council when hearings were conducted on LB 362 (weight-distance tax on heavy trucks) in the last session of the legislature? The bill provided for a substantial per cent of the revenue to be allocated to cities and villages for street and alley funds.

I believe if the City Council and every Lincoln home taxpayer will analyze the above questions and give unprejudiced answers he will never resort to a wheel tax for city street improvement or any other tax that relieves the big fellow at the expense of his less fortunate fellow citizens.

Today's Roast Beef Is Tomorrow's Hash

Biologists, physiologists and sociologists, in common with the general run of the male population, have devoted an uncommon lot of thought to the ways in which women depart from the male pattern, but the most puzzling aspect of the whole intriguing question has been all but overlooked.

How come my wife throws out the baked beans she had all ready for dinner if I happen incautiously to mention that I had baked beans for lunch? I like baked beans.

It is not just baked beans, either. It would be the same with sauerkraut, caviar or puffed rice. Feminine living is governed by an unwritten but flexible law that luncheon's roast beef must be dinner's hash or tomorrow's cold cuts, but under no circumstances must it ever again appear as roast beef. The only way to beat the system is to raid the refrigerator between meals.

Most men are different. True enough, a small minority of them cannot stand the same pepper shaker on the table two meals running, but the vast majority doesn't even remember whether it was today or last Sunday when they last had an omelette. If they could, it wouldn't make any difference. If there is an affinity between a man and omelettes, his affections won't turn fickle between noon and 8 p.m.

Women, however, are not content with recognizing this difference in the sexes. They have got to be forever prying to find out what a man had for lunch, with an eye to making a last-minute change in their own dinner menus in event of duplication. At our house, this leads to a great deal of sparring. Like with the baked beans.

"Hello," I said when I got home from work. "Boy, that smells good. Baked beans, huh?"

Mrs. F. eyed me warily and said, "What did you have for lunch?"

"It couldn't have been hotcakes," I argued, "because those are for breakfast. Did we have hotcakes for breakfast?"

☆ ☆ ☆

Mrs. F. said I knew perfectly well we had hotcakes last Monday. And anyway, she charged, I was evading the issue. What had I had for lunch today?

"I'll bet it was baked beans," she declared, "and you're just trying to be polite. And I haven't another thing in the house!"

"It wasn't either," I wailed, having visions of lettuce and carrots for dinner. I made a desperate last effort to remember what I had eaten for lunch, but gave it up. The time was too short to let me sort out many memories. I fixed on the first thing that came to mind. "Sturgeon," I blurted. "That's what I had. Sturgeon."

Mrs. F. said nobody served sturgeon for lunch, and if they did, I wouldn't eat it. She reminded me that I do not like fish.

"And what's more," she said, "if you hadn't had baked beans for lunch, you wouldn't be so evasive about it. I'll open a can of chili!"

What's more, she did, too.

And, so help me, for lunch tomorrow, I'm going to find a restaurant that is serving baked beans.

Stevenson, Kefauver Agree On Formal Debate

ESTES HITS AT RIVAL'S VIEWS ON CIVIL RIGHTS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Travel-busy Sen. Estes Kefauver came "home" Sunday to campaign for the District of Columbia's delegates to the Democratic National Convention.

The tall Tennessee senator began his one-day stay here with a speech obviously hitting at the civil rights views of Adlai Stevenson, currently his principal opponent for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Without naming Stevenson, Kefauver in his speech prepared for a rally at the Bibleway Church, said "there is no mystery about my stand on civil rights. It is very simple and very American."

Said Same in South

"What I have said in Minnesota and other Northern States, I have said just as freely in all sections of the South," he said "I don't have one speech for New York and an entirely different speech for Florida. I won't hide what I mean behind eloquent phrases that have a fine sound but have little substance. This is too serious a problem to be camouflaged by the delicate shadings of graceful phraseology."

Referring to the Supreme Court decision outlawing racial segregation in the public schools, Kefauver said if he is elected president "I shall do all in my power to bring together men and women of good will—men and women who are against mob violence, men and women who are willing to respect the supreme law of the land as interpreted by the Supreme Court of the United bstates."

D. C. Delegates

District of Columbia Democrats will send 12 delegates with a total of six votes to the national convention. They will be chosen in a May 1 primary from opposing slates supporting Kefauver and Stevenson.

The primary will be the first election for District residents since 1874, when Congress wiped out their voting rights. Under a law Congress passed last year, they are permitted to vote for convention delegates although they still can not participate in the election of a president or other officials. The political organizations named convention delegates in the past.

Kefauver's schedule calls for him to campaign in Cumberland, Md., Monday afternoon and return to New Jersey Monday night for appearances in Jersey City, Freehold, Sayreville and Irvington on Tuesday, topped by a night speech in New York.

However, Kefauver indicated he may find it necessary to switch some of his schedule so he can return to the Senate when it debates the controversial compromise farm bill.

'MUDSLINGING' CHARGE NONSENSE, SAYS ADLAI

CHICAGO (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson Sunday offered to debate political issues with his Democratic rival Sen. Estes Kefauver, in Florida this week and Kefauver agreed with the idea.

Stevenson said the senator's charge he has been slinging mud in his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination is "nonsense."

A moment later Stevenson continued his assault on Kefauver's record in Congress, the line of attack that drew the "mudslinging" answer from the senator last week.

Both men will be campaigning in Florida this week for that state's 28 convention votes.

Kefauver said in Washington "I'd be very happy to meet with Mr Stevenson wherever it can be conveniently arranged."

Stevenson's offer to debate issues during the tour was made in a filmed television interview at his suburban Libertyville, Ill., home.

Stevenson said he would be "delighted to appear with Sen Kefauver most anywhere. It would afford us a wonderful opportunity to spread the Democratic gospel."

During the campaign before the Minnesota primary Kefauver invited Stevenson to debate issues and Stevenson turned him down. Kefauver resoundingly defeated Stevenson in that election.

Stevenson made this comment on the recent fighting between Egypt and Israel:

"I hope our government will not take the steps I have recommended, personally, on many occasions beginning last November, to see to it that Israel has some of the means of self-defense and also that along with Britain and France I hope we re-assert again our fundamental policy that there should be no change in the status quo in the Middle East by force."

Later Sunday Stevenson attended a whirl of receptions in Chicago suburbs in his campaign for the Illinois primary Tuesday. He is the only candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination on his home state's ballot but supporters of Kefauver are encouraging what they call a "spontaneous" write-in movement for the senator.

Food Store Executive Expects Record Year For U.S. In '56

An IGA food store executive said Sunday he expects 1956 to be a record year for both his company and the U S economy as a whole.

Glenn Curtis of Chicago, IGA vice president in charge of meat operations, made the prediction. He was in Lincoln in connection with the annual regional convention of IGA officials from Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas and Colorado. Grainger Bros Co, the local IGA wholesaler, sponsored the convention.

Curtis said business prospects were aided by the fact that "we just don't have any really poor people any more." He discussed meat operations in IGA stores at the convention. More than 350 persons were present.

S A Wilson, executive vice president of Lincoln's Grainger Bros Co., discussed food store sales trends during 1955. He said that in 1955, for the first time since World War II, independent store sales volume showed more of an increase than did that of chain stores. The figure for independents, he said, showed a 7.2 per cent increase while the chain store mark was 6.5 per cent.

Cliff Rutledge of Chicago, IGA director of retail store operations, spoke on the operation of the food store of today. He said retail grocers should emphasize "merchandising by departments" rather than by the individual item. He said chain stores are doing this quite successfully. He also discussed plans for the national IGA convention slated for New York City in July. More than 5,000 retailers are expected to attend, he said.

Also on the program of the one-day convention was John Spray of Lincoln, manager of the Beatrice Foods Co. He discussed the retailing of dairy products in food stores.

200 JAYCEES ALREADY SET FOR MEETING

NORFOLK, Neb. (AP) — Nearly 200 reservations have been received for the Junior Chamber of Commerce convention scheduled in Norfolk May 4, 5 and 6.

A. G. Weddingfeld, general chairman for the convention, announced that room space in the city is becoming limited.

Mugh McKenna, national Jaycee president who formerly lived at O'Neill, will be principal speaker at a banquet May 5.

Features of the opening day's program will include a golf tournament at the Norfolk Country Club and a smorgasbord and dance in the evening.

The Norfolk Jaycee president's breakfast will open the second day of activity and an "On To Kansas City rally" is scheduled. Kansas City will be host to the national Jaycee convention this year.

Also slated for May 5 is an awards luncheon at which the outstanding athlete in Nebraska colleges and universities will be named.

A "Speak Up, Jaycee" forum is scheduled, along with a general business session. A banquet and dance are scheduled for the evening.

The final day's program will feature election of officers and a blue rock shoot at Karl Stefan Field.

200 JAYCEES ALREADY SET FOR MEETING

NORFOLK, Neb. (AP) — Nearly 200 reservations have been received for the Junior Chamber of Commerce convention scheduled in Norfolk May 4, 5 and 6.

A. G. Weddingfeld, general chairman for the convention, announced that room space in the city is becoming limited.

Mugh McKenna, national Jaycee president who formerly lived at O'Neill, will be principal speaker at a banquet May 5.

Features of the opening day's program will include a golf tournament at the Norfolk Country Club and a smorgasbord and dance in the evening.

The Norfolk Jaycee president's breakfast will open the second day of activity and an "On To Kansas City rally" is scheduled. Kansas City will be host to the national Jaycee convention this year.

Also slated for May 5 is an awards luncheon at which the outstanding athlete in Nebraska colleges and universities will be named.

A "Speak Up, Jaycee" forum is scheduled, along with a general business session. A banquet and dance are scheduled for the evening.

Brides At Afternoon Weddings

MRS. MARVIN EDWARD STROMER

MRS. DENTON L. MOIR

Cathedral candles in seven-branched candelabra, and arrangements of white gladioli and carnations against wide, spreading fans of Woodwardia appointed the chancel of the First Congregational Church in Fremont where the marriage of Miss Peggy Mae Larson, daughter of Mrs. Fred C. Laird of Fremont and Leo Paul Larson of Omaha, to Lt. Marvin Edward Stromer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stromer of Hastings, was solemnized at 4 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, April 3. Lighted candles, caught with white bows and sprays of huckleberry marked the processional aisle. The Rev. Albert Becker read the lines of the service and the wedding music was played by John Thomas, organist and cousin of the bride. Mr. Thomas also accompanied the vocal soloist, Robert Owen, also a cousin of the bride and the vocal soloist.

The attendants, Miss Patricia Purcell, the maid of honor; Miss Mary Elizabeth Schaffer, O'Neill, and Miss Cynthia Lonsbrough, Omaha, the bridesmaids; and Miss Sharon Mangold of Bennington, and Miss Jaclyn Clark of Omaha, the junior bridesmaids, wore alike frocks of organdy in the ballet blue tone, ornamented with sashes in romance blue. Each carried a princess wand of ice-blue satin with a sunburst arrangement of lilies-of the valley, forget-me-nots and poufs of blue net.

Jack Parris of Lincoln served Lt. Stromer as best man, and seating the guests were Gary Lucore, Wayne Goettsche, both of Omaha; James Tomasek, Donald Walton, both of Lincoln; John Forsyth, Broken Bow, and Charles L. Smith, Central City.

The bride appeared in a gown of white tulle crested with Schiffli embroidery. The sculptured bodice was designed with a portrait neckline and the length of the sleeves was replaced by long white gloves. The floor-length skirt of the embroidered tulle had accentuated fullness. Her veil of illusion was fingertip length and was held to the head with a crown of pearlized orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley centered with white orchids.

For the honeymoon trip to Colorado Mrs. Stromer wore a two-piece shantung frock in beige with a short mandarin-styled jacket in the eggshell tone. Her accessories were in daffodil yellow.

The bride will be graduated in June from the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Gamma Phi Beta sorority, of which she has served as president; and Pi Epsilon Delta. Lt. Stromer is a graduate of the University of Nebraska where he served as president of Innocents Society, and where he is a member of Pi Kappa Phi fraternity, Kosmet Klub, Purple Masque, and Pi Epsilon Delta.

At the end of June Lt. Stromer and his bride will go to Germany where the bridegroom will be stationed.

White gladioli, arranged against a background of Woodwardia fern appointed the chancel of the Warren Methodist church for the Sunday afternoon wedding of Miss Lorna Lou Lingren, daughter of Mrs. Carl Lingren, and Lt. Denton L. Moir, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Moir of Sioux City Ia. White satin bows, caught with clusters of white daisies, marked the processional aisle on either side. The 3 o'clock ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Donald E. Littrell, and Mrs. Kenneth Mumme, organist, played the wedding music Mrs. Mumme also accompanied the vocal soloist, Miss La Jean Larson of Wausa.

Miss Lora Lee Lingren, twin sister of the bride was the maid of honor, and the bridesmaid was Miss Marilyn Anderson of Wausa. Their frocks of misty green taffeta were designed with brief-sleeved, fitted bodices and bouffant skirts caught with poufs of taffeta at the back to create a bustle effect. Their arm bouquets were of misty green carnations and greenery.

Jack Kitch of Sioux City, Ia., served Lt. Moir as best man, and seating the guests were Jack Torressani of Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., and Larry Swick of Gordon.

Lace over satin fashioned the bridal gown. The empire bodice was designed with a portrait neckline, framed with delicate scallops of lace, that slipped into brief, cap sleeves. The voluminous skirt was fashioned of four graduated tiers of lace, each completed with minute lace scallops. A crownless shell hat of lace held to the head her veil of illusion and she carried a white Bible marked with white orchids.

Following the reception at the Chi Omega sorority house, Lt. Moir and his bride left for a honeymoon in the Ozarks after which they will go to Colorado Springs where they will reside at 440 East Pike Peak Ave. For traveling Mrs. Moir wore a brown sheath frock with beige hat and topper

The bride will be graduated in June from the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Chi Omega sorority. Lt. Moir is a graduate of the University of South Dakota where he is a member of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity.

YW Offers New Class

The Lincoln YWCA craft center, of which Mrs. Paul A. Royal and Mrs. S. J. Fieselman are co-chairmen, has announced a new class in ceramics to begin on Monday, April 16, to continue through June 4.

Mr. Brownson also studied ceramics and sculpture at Cranbrook Academy of Art and the Cleveland Institute of Art, and has taught at Wittenberg College, Springfield, O.

Registration must be made by April 14, and further information may be obtained by calling Miss Edyth Hoiland. YW craft center program director.

State Day

The annual State Day program of Delta Zeta sorority was held last Saturday at the chapter house on the Nebraska Wesleyan University campus, and was highlighted by a luncheon at the Lincoln Hotel.

Members coming from out of town for the program included Mrs. Ben Akert, Elkhorn; Mrs. Donald Bornemeier, Murdock; Mrs. Warren Bell, McCool Junction; Mrs. Howard Hall, Geneva; Mrs. Max Hansen, Glenwood, Ia.; Mrs. Guy McReynolds, Ashland; Mrs. Leo Lindgren, Bruning; Mrs. Francis Hitch, Council Bluffs; Mrs. Don O'Neil, Sumner; Mrs. Ben [illegible]; Mrs. Harlow [illegible], Mrs. Charles [illegible], Miss Sylvia [illegible], Mrs. Richard [illegible] and Miss [illegible], all of Omaha.

To Be Morning Bride

MISS KATHLEEN CURRAN whose marriage to William Dean Douglass will be solemnized this morning in Sleepy Eye, Minn.

The marriage of Miss Kathleen Mary Curran, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James H. Curran of Sleepy Eye, Minn., to William Dean Douglass, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Dean Douglass of Lincoln, will take place this morning at St. Mary's Church, Sleepy Eye, Minn. The 10 o'clock service will be solemnized by the Rev. Father Adrian who also will celebrate the nuptial High Mass. Mrs. Leo Schroepfer, organist, will play the wedding music and also will accompany Miss Marguerite Schueller, the vocal soloist.

Pastel blue in crystalette and lace has been chosen for the costumes of the attendants who are Miss Patricia Curran, her sister's maid of honor; and bridesmaids Miss Martha Sullivan of Springfield, Minn., and Miss Ann Douglass of Lincoln, sister of the bridegroom. The empire bodices fashioned of lace, are designed with off-shoulder, portrait necklines, and the very bouffant skirts are of the crystalette. The attendants will wear hair bandeaux in pastel blue and will carry colonial bouquets of blue and white feathered carnations.

Lee Carter of Lincoln will serve Mr. Douglass as best man, and seating the guests will be James Curran, brother of the bride, and Reginald Riedl.

For her wedding the bride has chosen a Cahill original of white Chantilly lace. The fitted basque bodice is designed with a deep portrait neckline that slips into brief sleeves, their length replaced with elbow-length lace mitts, and the extremely bouffant skirt is completed with a wide, hem-flounce of tulle. Her waist-length veil, held to the head cap-fashion, is a circle of hand-embroidered Belgian illusion, chosen by the bride on a recent trip to Europe, and she will carry a bouquet of white Ophelia roses from which will fall a shower of white satin ribbons and clusters of stephanotis.

Following the breakfast-reception for the 75 wedding guests, at Ebner's, New Ulm, Minn., Mr. Douglass and his bride will leave for a honeymoon trip to Florida. For traveling the bride will wear a linen sheath frock in tones of gold and gray with topper in the gold shade, and black accessories.

The bride attended St. Mary's of Notre Dame, South Bend, Ind., and was graduated from Loretto Heights College, Denver, Colo. She has been a member of the Denver public schools faculty, and also taught at St. Mary's High School, Sleepy Eye. Last February she returned from a six months tour of Europe.

Mr. Douglass, who has just completed his tour of duty as a lieutenant in the army, is a graduate of the University of Nebraska College of Electrical Engineering and is a member of Sigma Nu fraternity.

TALK OF THE TOWN

New Monday—Fresh News

A NEW Monday and a fresh week came in with the dawn this morning — and with it came interesting news from here and there—and some of it includes a wedding that will be of more than casual interest—

Announcement is made this morning of the marriage of Mrs. Vivian L. Cadjew of Mojave, Calif., formerly of Glendale, Calif., to Walter L. Black. The ceremony was solemnized at 1 o'clock on Sunday afternoon in the chapel of Westminster Presbyterian Church, with the Rev. Frederick A. Roblee reading the lines in the presence of only immediate members of the family.

Mr. Black and his bride left for a honeymoon trip to the Ozarks and upon their return will be at home at 3615 So. 37th St.

* * *

HEAR that Mrs. Hugh Williams, the former Mary Jean Neely, and her young son David will be leaving on May 4, for Tokyo, Japan, where they will join Sgt. Williams for the remainder of his tour of duty there.

Mrs. Williams and her son will fly from here to Los Angeles, and will board plane there for Japan.

* * *

AND speaking of foreign service — Just heard that Col. and Mrs. Thomas J. Wells (Ann Bunting Heriot) and their two children, Maury and Judd, might be off to France before too long — Col. Wells, it seems, has been transferred from Washington to an assignment overseas.

* * *

WE'LL leave Europe and the Orient for the moment and come back to Lincoln where on Saturday afternoon Mrs. Frank Boehmer was an informal hostess at her home — Mrs. Boehmer entertained as a courtesy to Mrs. Livingston Keplinger of New York City, who has been her house guest for the last few days — and Mr. Keplinger, who arrived on Friday evening to join his wife in Lincoln. The guest list included only old friends of Mrs. Keplinger who will be remembered in Lincoln as Martha Quiggle.

* * *

SOMEONE told us that Charles W. Roberts had gone to Tucson, Ariz., to spend two or three weeks with his daughter, Mrs. Ann Roberts Foersom.

* * *

ALSO heard this morning that Mrs. E. G. Schaumberg entertained the members of her bridge eightsome at luncheon at her home on Friday — Following luncheon tables were placed for bridge.

* * *

THEN we learned that Mrs. Jack Lowe and Mrs. Harris Poley are to be dessert hostesses at the home of Mrs. Lowe on Thursday evening when they honor Mrs. Thomas Beal, the former Jan Harrison.

Betrothal Announced

MISS JOY ANN CUNNINGHAM

The engagement of Miss Joy Ann Cunningham to William Yates, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Yates of Doniphan, is being announced this morning by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Harrell, also of Doniphan. The wedding will be an event of early August.

A former student at the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Delta Delta Delta, Miss Cunningham will be a June graduate of Nebraska Wesleyan University and of Bryan Memorial Hospital School of Medical Technology..

Mr. Yates is a graduate of the University of Nebraska and is assistant county extension agent at Columbus. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

Zipettes To Hear Talk

The April meeting of the Zipettes, wives of Xi Psi Phi dental fraternity members, will be held at 7:45 o'clock Wednesday evening at the Foods and Nutrition Building, College of Agriculture.

The program will feature a talk, "Trip to Puerto Rico," by Dr. Jose Gonzales, and during the business meeting, the group will elect new officers.

County Women Plan Program

The second county-wide meeting of the Lancaster County Farm Bureau women's division will be held at 2 o'clock, Tuesday afternoon, at the Denton Hall with the ladies of the Martell unit as hostesses.

Miss Ushi Sondi, a graduate the University of Nebraska, will speak on the customs and life in her native India.

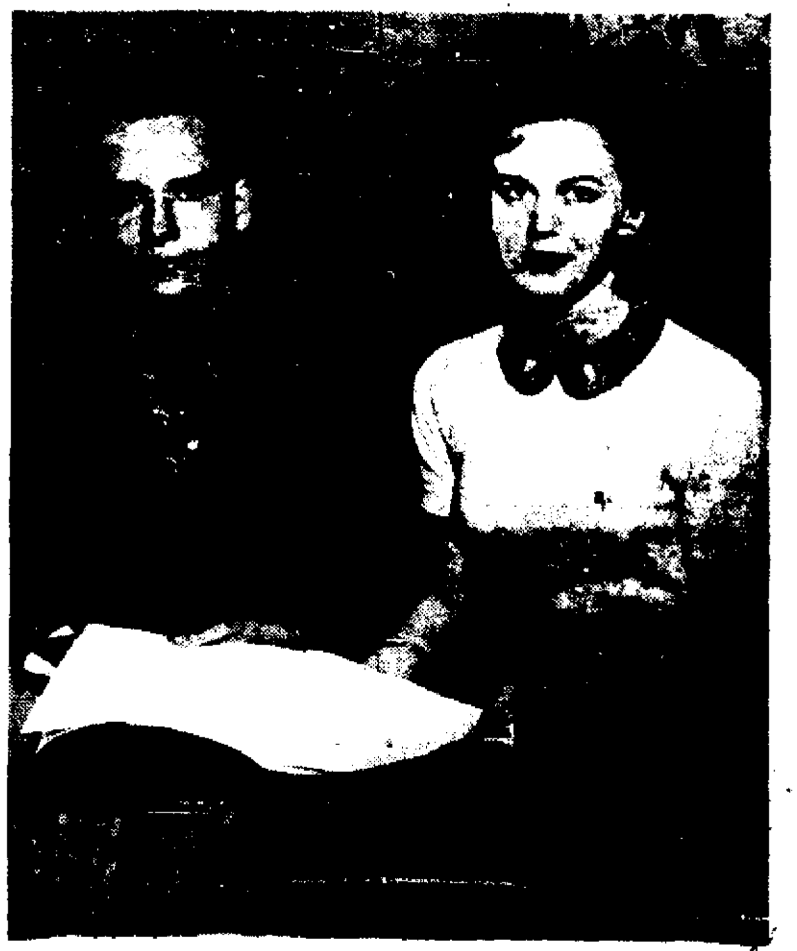
Each member is asked to wear an "original" spring bonnet fashioned with kitchen utensils as trimming.

DAR Junior Group To Meet

The monthly meeting of the Deborah Avery Chapter, DAR, Junior group will be held Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Warren Johnson, 1835 So. 50th. The meeting will follow a 1:30 o'clock dessert luncheon.

Assisting hostesses will be Mrs. Robert Gilmour and Mrs. Robert Glenn.

June Wedding Planned



MISS ALICE LOGIE and her fiance, John Paul Kysar, Jr.

Announcement is made this morning by Mrs. James Milner Logie of St. Paul, of the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Alice Annette, to John Paul Kysar, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Paul Kysar of Lincoln.

The wedding is planned for Saturday, June 16, and the ceremony will be solemnized at St. Matthews Church, Episcopal, in Lincoln.

Miss Logie will be graduated in June from the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Chi Omega sorority, and of Delta Omicron, national professional music sorority.

Mr. Kysar, who also will be graduated from the University of Nebraska in June, is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity.

SOMEONE told us that Charles W. Roberts had gone to Tucson, Ariz., to spend two or three weeks with his daughter, Mrs. Ann Roberts Foersom.

* * *

ALSO heard this morning that Mrs. E. G. Schaumberg entertained the members of her bridge eightsome at luncheon at her home on Friday — Following luncheon tables were placed for bridge.

* * *

THEN we learned that Mrs. Jack Lowe and Mrs. Harris Poley are to be dessert hostesses at the home of Mrs. Lowe on Thursday evening when they honor Mrs. Thomas Beal, the former Jan Harrison.

Was Bride On Sunday

MRS. KARL V. MILLER

The chancel appointments for the wedding of Miss Dellene Carstens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Carstens, and Karl V. Miller, son of Mr and Mrs. Charles R. Miller of Reinerton, Pa., which took place at the Trinity Methodist Church on Sunday afternoon, April 8, were arrangements of pink and white gladioli. The lines of the 3 o'clock service were read by the Rev. Vance Rogers, and Charles Tritt, organist, played the wedding music and accompanied the vocal soloist, Donald Ingraham.

Appearing as the maid of honor was Miss Sharon Gobel of Fairbury, and the bridesmaids were Mrs. Mervin Carstens, Jr., and Miss Anne Brooks. The attendants were frocked alike in mint green crystalette fashioned with elongated, fitted bodices and flaring ballerina skirts that were caught at the waistline back with butterfly bustles. The ribbon bandeaux for their hair were accented with clusters of white blossoms, and each carried a bouquet of pink gladioli. Miss Bonnie Purbaugh and Miss Judy Delka lighted the candles, and the flower girl was Debra Lynn Carstens. James Wehling of Diller was the ringbearer.

Mervin Carstens, Jr., served Mr. Miller as best man, and seating the guests were Erwin Rung, David Barnes and Virgil Oberg.

For the ceremony the bride chose a gown of Chantilly lace and tulle in the Victorian mode. The long-sleeved fitted bodice, patterned with a jeweled motif and designed with a flaring collar encrusted with pearls and iridescent crystal beads, narrowed to a deep point in the front. The voluminous skirt was created of tiers of lace-scalloped tulle. A crownless cloche of tulle ruching and pearl twists held to the head of her double-tiered waist-length veil, and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses and frenched white carnations.

After a reception held in the church parlors, Mr. Miller and his bride left for a short honeymoon trip and upon their return they will reside at 1721 So. 12th St. Mrs. Miller traveled in a navy and white frock, with navy and white accessories.

Mr. Miller is a graduate of the Ford School of Business, Pittsville, Pa.

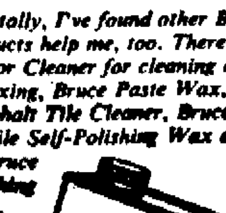
Guest Day

Members of the Cosmopals will entertain guests Wednesday at luncheon at the Hotel Cornhusker. Following the luncheon, a program will be presented by Community Playhouse members.

"George says I'm a genius!"

George is just amazed at how I manage to keep our house looking immaculate and still have time to enjoy the things I like to do most. Actually, all I've done is find a faster, easier way to do every job around the house. Like my wood floors. Cleaning and waxing them used to be my toughest chore. But now it's really one of my easiest. I just use Bruce Cleaning Wax. That way I clean and wax at the same time. And there's no floor washing at all. I'm through in half the time—and no more aching muscles from scrubbing. If you have wood floors, you'll want to try Bruce Cleaning Wax. It's simply wonderful!

Incidentally, I've found other Bruce floor products help me, too. There's Bruce Floor Cleaner for cleaning and lighter waxing, Bruce Paste Wax, Bruce Asphalt Tile Cleaner, Bruce Asphalt Tile Self-Polishing Wax and the new Bruce Self-Polishing Wax. Yes, for floors it's Bruce!



BRIDES

Miss Barbara Kay Schmoker has announced that her wedding will take place on Sunday afternoon, April 22, at Calvary Evangelical United Brethren Church. Miss Schmoker will become the bride of Lt. Delane E. Welsch at a ceremony to be solemnized at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

The bride-elect was honored at a pre-nuptial courtesy on Sunday afternoon when Mrs. Barry Goldberg and Miss Joyce Sporn were co-hostesses at the home of Mrs. Goldberg.

Lt. Welsch is serving with the Navy at the Naval Air Station, Corpus Christi, Tex.

Announcing the members of her bridal party this morning is Miss Joyce Sieck, whose marriage to Lyle Vaughn Higgins will be an event of Sunday, April 22. The service will take place at 3 o'clock in the afternoon at Redeemer Lutheran Church.

Miss JoAnn Suesz will attend Miss Sieck as maid of honor, and the bridesmaid will be Miss Kathryn Cruise. Mrs. Richard Stall will be the bridesmatron, and the flower girl will be Miss Sheryl Kaye Haas.

Lighting the candles for the service will be Miss Janet Beckman and Miss Joyce Shaw.

Leonard White will serve Mr Higgins as best man, and seating the guests will be Ernest Fleck and Warren Danley.

Miss Sieck will be the honored guest on Tuesday evening at a 7:30 o'clock bridal shower to be held at the home of Mrs. Lester Sieck. Co-hostesses with Mrs. Sieck will be Miss Kathryn Cruise and Mrs. Richard Stall.

The bride-elect was honored at a miscellaneous shower last Friday evening when Mrs. Warren Danley, Mrs. Walter Danley, Mrs. Leonard White and Mrs. Harry White entertained a group of guests at the home of Mrs. Leonard White.

The Star In Suburbia

Spent some mighty pleasant hours in the Cotner Terrace residential community — visited with numerous people and found a variety of parties, news of homecomers — some week-end jauntings, and a word or two about some former Cotner Terrace residents

Heard that Mr and Mrs. Stanley Lowell were in Omaha the past week-end - Friday evening, to be specific, for a visit with Mrs. Lowell's uncle and aunt, Rep. and Mrs Jackson B. Chase of Washington, D.C. who were spending a few days in Omaha on a matter of business. Rep. and Mrs. Chase left on Saturday to return to Washington.

Our former residents of Cotner Terrace Heights are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wade and their children, Susan and David — Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Wade and their family have learned that the Wades now are residing at Winter Haven, Fla.

When we find a no-reason-at-all party we know it is to be a fun affair — such as the coffee for which Mrs Walter Hanson will be hostess at her home this morning when she entertains some of her neighbors—Invited for the informal affair are Mrs. Harry Becker, Mrs. Frank Logan and Mrs. Dwaine Karr.

Another informal party is planned for next Thursday when Mrs. David Bornemeier will be a hostess at her home. Mrs. Bornemeier has invited a guest threesome — Mrs. Richard Lutz, Mrs. Chandler Tyrrell and Mrs. Lou Dillman — for luncheon — Following lunch the group will spend the afternoon with bridge.

And last Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Don Harrington, Jr., were host and hostess at a three-table bridge party when their guests included Mr and Mrs. Fred Fuller, Mr and Mrs. Walt Whittaker, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Weir, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Urbom and Mrs and Mrs. Harold Robertson.

Someone told us that Mr. and Mrs. John Eirick have just returned from a southern trip — a business and pleasure affair on which they were accompanied by Harold Jackson — The travelers stopped first at Enid, Okla., and from there went on to Houston and Galveston Tex., from where they went to New Orleans where they spent a few days before returning home.

Yesterday (Sunday) Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Kirby and their two children, Diane and Cheryl, spent the day in Syracuse, the guests of Mrs. Kirby's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. John Hauschild.

Found another party for midweek — It's a prenuptial courtesy for Miss Karmen Harris of Dakota City, whose marriage to Robert Brum will take place this summer — The hostesses for the affair, to be held Wednesday at the American Forward Hall, are Mr. Brum's sister, Mrs. George Hametz and his mother, Mrs. Peter Brum.

Included among the friends and relatives of Mr. Brum's who are invited for the informal evening and miscellaneous shower, will be Miss Harris's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold K. Harris of Dakota City

PTA To Have Guest Speaker

County Judge Herbert Ronin will be speaker at the meeting of Park School PTA at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday evening. A nursery will be provided for children of the members.

Alumnae Group Plans Supper

The members of the Sigma Eta Chi alumnae group met Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. James Geistlinger for their monthly meeting and to discuss plans for the May meeting and pot-luck supper to be held May 3, at the home of Mrs. Eugene Dalby.

Mrs. Gerald McCord presided and introduced as a new member was Miss Lois Johnson. The program was under the direction of Mrs. Charles Franz.

Party Honors Bride-Elect

In pre-nuptial courtesy to Miss Cornelia Smiley, who will become the bride of Jerry Felber on Saturday, April 21, Miss Donna Rinker and Miss Marguerite Carrier were co-hostesses recently at the home of Miss Rinker. The guests spent the evening hours informally and presented a miscellaneous shower to the bride-elect.

JEAN ADAMS SAYS:
"I'm Staying Slim With Roberts VADA!"

AFTER dieting, Jean Adams looks like this; — slim, trim, attractive. She now has a 26" waist; wears a size 14 dress.

Watching your weight? Then take a tip from Jean Adams, whose sensational reducing story appeared in the March issue of a popular woman's magazine.

After losing 100 pounds in one year, Mrs. Adams is now on a maintenance diet.

"This means that I still have to watch what I eat," the now-attractive homemaker says. "That's why I drink Roberts VADA with every meal. It's tasty. It's nourishing. It's loaded with vitamins and protein. But it contains only a small amount of butterfat; — just one-half of one percent!"

Only a very few persons are faced with the drastic weight-reducing problem that confronted Jean Adams. But it's a scientific fact that more than 25% of our adult population is overweight. Perhaps you, or other members of your family, need to lose a few pounds for the sake of better health and better appearance.

So if you're planning a diet . . . or if you're trying to maintain your present weight . . . why not "Reach For Roberts" and keep trim while you grow slim!

U.S. Radar 'Eyes' Keep Frigid Lookout In Arctic

By ELTON C. FAY
AP Military Affairs Reporter

POINT BARROW, Alaska (AP)—From the western end of the Distant Early Warning line—(Dewline) American sentries should be able to watch with radar eyes Red planes flying in Soviet territory.

A three thousand mile trip by newsmen disclosed, among other things, that the actual western terminus of Dewline is at Cape Lisburne, Alaska, 200 miles from here, on the shore of Chukchi Sea. And that cape, in turn, is about 200 miles from the easternmost tip of Siberia and only a hundred miles from the international boundary extending from the area of Point Barrow eastward to Baffin Island, opposite Greenland.

When completed—and that looks like as much as two years hence—Dewline may provide a virtually plane-tight warning line against Soviet bombers seeking to use the polar route for an attack on North American cities. That, of course, assumes the Russians by then still will be confined to use of manned aircraft. If by then the Soviets should have mastered the problem of intercontinental ballistic missiles, Dewline's equipment likely would be inadequate.

Using U.S. Money

The United States is financing the building of this line of scores of main, intermediate and auxiliary radar sites, each a community in itself, in the Canadian north. No official seems to be precise about the probable cost. Figures mentioned range from 400 million to one billion dollars. In some congressional quarters in Washington there had been guesses as high as two billion.

Secrecy, reinforced by censors was involved in this flying journey be reporters to Dewline. Newsmen were told that they must not identify specific sites visited. However, a press release by the Navy Department, issued in connection with its logistic support of the Dewline project, pinpointed Cape Lisburne as the western end of the line.

The early warning line continues on south from Cape Lisburne in the form of the Alaskan early warning system. Equipment used in that system is similar to that of Dewline.

Can Watch Russia

Some points of the Alaskan network are even closer to the Siberian peninsula than Cape Lisburne. And out on Little Diomede Island Eskimo National Guard ground observers can see, with binoculars, what goes on over on Russia's Big Diomede Island.

The hope is that this combined Dewline-Alaskan early warning system can give cities in the United States from four to six hours warning if the Reds are coming by air.

Newsmen inspected about half a dozen sample sites, at various degrees of construction, along Dewline.

Officials declined to indicate the total number of radar sites to be in the completed Dewline.

Dewline will be the northernmost of three warning lines. To the south, stretching across the Dominion, is the Mid-Canada line, still in the process of construction. Canada is funding that line, at an approximate $200,000,000 cost. And below that is the Pinetree line, following approximately the U.S.-Canadian boundary.

Thus, three lines—providing a diminishing margin of warning time for getting jet interceptors into the air and headed for contact with the approaching enemy bombers—will exist.

Dewline is being built for the Air Force by the Western Electric Co.

400 Attend Pawnee City Zion Lutheran Dedication

Lincoln Star Special

PAWNEE CITY, Neb.—Nearly 400 persons crowed the new Zion Lutheran Church here Sunday for two special dedication services.

The service of dedication was held in the morning with the Rev. Edgar Frese, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church at Beatrice, as speaker.

This is your church—a place for peace, joy and righteousness, the Rev. Frese said. It is also a place to serve the Lord, he stated.

Speaking at the afternoon consecration service, the Rev. John Bredehoft, pastor of Christ Lutheran Church in Lincoln, said the function of the church is threefold—it is a place of worship, a word-shop and a work-shop.

The Rev. R. H. Rosenketter of Humboldt, pastor of the Zion Lutheran Church, sreved as liturgist for both services.

The church is of Cape Cod Colonial style. It seat 75 persons and has a full basement for Sunday school rooms and social gatherings. The interior of the chapel is finished in red oak.

The cost of construction was eased by donation labor of members of the church. In addition, members of St. Peter's, Elk Creek, St. John's, Tecumseh and Faith Lutheran Church at Humboldt helped the project. About 1,300 hours of labor was put in by the Lutheran church members.

Present membership of the Zion Lutheran Church is 45.

Before the completion of the present church building, services were held in the Veterans building and later above the Pawnee City Republican office.

Vesper Concert At LHS Attracts 600 Persons

If you want a cool, comfortable house during hottest summer days, don't depend on inside blinds to keep out sun heat. Inside blinds and draperies reduce the glare . . . but the heat comes right on through. It takes outside shading—like canvas awnings—to stop those sun rays before they enter your home. By keeping out 75% of the sun heat, canvas awnings reduce room temperatures 8° to 15° . . . air conditioning works better at less expense. Let us talk over your awning needs without obligation. U.S. Radar 'Eyes' Keep Frigid Lookout In Arctic

By ELTON C. FAY
AP Military Affairs Reporter

POINT BARROW, Alaska (AP)—From the western end of the Distant Early Warning line—(Dewline) American sentries should be able to watch with radar eyes Red planes flying in Soviet territory.

A three thousand mile trip by newsmen disclosed, among other things, that the actual western terminus of Dewline is at Cape Lisburne, Alaska, 200 miles from here, on the shore of Chukchi Sea. And that cape, in turn, is about 200 miles from the easternmost tip of Siberia and only a hundred miles from the international boundary extending from the area of Point Barrow eastward to Baffin Island, opposite Greenland.

When completed—and that looks like as much as two years hence—Dewline may provide a virtually plane-tight warning line against Soviet bombers seeking to use the polar route for an attack on North American cities. That, of course, assumes the Russians by then still will be confined to use of manned aircraft. If by then the Soviets should have mastered the problem of intercontinental ballistic missiles, Dewline's equipment likely would be inadequate.

BURKE WINS MASTERS TITLE

Falls City Cindermen Record Top Marks

By RON GIBSON
Star Sports Staff Member

Falls City's bid for the 1956 Nebraska high school Class A track and field championship looks good on paper after last week's performances.

As Nebraska preppers began saving seconds from and adding inches to their performances, Falls City stood out with four of the best marks reported for the season.

Jerry Collier, Falls City's fine all-around athlete, broad-jumped 21 feet 3¼ inches at the Tarkio Tri-State meet to become the first Nebraska prepper to get past 21 feet this spring.

In the same meet Falls City's crack hurdler, Karl Faller, breezed over the highs and lows in :15.3 and :20.9 respectively. Faller's clocking of :07.9 in the 60-yard high hurdles is also tops.

Lowell Gaither's 4:44.7 mile still stands as the best although several have come close.

Weight men, a quarter-miler and a sprinter took the spotlight last week.

Although no shot-putters bettered the 54-2 toss by Don Olson of Grand Island, several came close to the 50-foot mark or surpassed it. Bill Fisher of Beatrice threw 53-4½, the best of the week, and Duane Buchtel of Clay Center got out 51-6½.

Dick Egen of Hastings hurled the discus 149-2½ in a dual meet with Kearney. Three other discus men got over 140 feet—LeRoy Welsh of Brule, Nick Gangwish of Gibbon and Fisher of Beatrice.

The quarter-miler was Ed Hubbard, state Class A champion from Omaha South. He whizzed over the 440 route in :51.3. On the same day Hubbard's South teammate Tom Taylor ran the 220 in :22.7.

The sprinter was Nebraska City veteran George Peterson. He was credited with a 10-flat 100-yard dash at the Tarkio meet.

Another top performance was a 2:05.1 half mile by McCook's Ron Callan, who had previously gone the route in 2:06.2. Northeast's Gary Larson had a 2:05.3.

Dick Smith, versatile McCook athlete, pole-vaulted 11 feet 6 inches to match the previous ceiling set by Jim Kraft of Scottsbluff.

Best marks reported to late:

100-yard dash — George Peterson, Nebraska City, 10.
220-yard dash — Tom Taylor, Omaha South, :22 7
440-yard dash — Ed Hubbard, Omaha South, :51 3
880-yard run — Ron Callan, McCook, 2:05 1.
Mile run—Lowell Gaither, Falls City, 4:44 7.
60-yard high hurdles—Karl Faller, Falls City, :07 9
120-yard high hurdles—Karl Fuller, Falls City, :15.3
100-yard low hurdles—Ron Person, Columbus, :11.2.
180-yard low hurdles—Karl Faller, Falls City, :20 9.
800-yard relay—Scottsbluff, 1:34 1.
Mile relay—Omaha Central, 3:39 8.
Two-mile relay—Bellevue, 8:46 8
Shot put—Don Olson, Grand Island, 54-2.
Discus—Dick Egen, Hastings, 149-2½.
Pole vault—Dick Smith, McCook and Jim Kraft, Scottsbluff 11-6.
High jump—Bill Harmon, Omaha North, 6-2½.
Broad jump—Jerry Collier, Falls City, 21-3¼.

Chiefs Sign Negro Loop Infield Star

By DON BRYANT
Sports Editor, The Star

The Lincoln Chiefs Sunday announced the signing of a 23-year-old star of the Negro American League.

He's Johnny Morse, 5-11 third-baseman, who hit .321 for Kansas City in 1955.

At the present time Morse is working out with Larry Shepard's crew at Huntsville, Tex. He was signed for Lincoln in the Hollywood camp by Pirate scout and Hollywood official Bob Clements.

Meanwhile, it was revealed Sunday that George Witt, who performed with the Chiefs here last year, has left the Huntsville camp with New Orleans of the Southern Association.

This leaves only Bill Nordberg and Dick Drilling as possible mound returnees from the 1955 squad, if Witt sticks with the Pelicans.

Back in Lincoln, the counting of ticket sales from the pre-season drive continues.

The 11 local service clubs have reported sales totaling about half the 1955 total, but only about half the workers have checked in.

There will be a check-in desk at the Hotel Cornhusker from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday and Tuesday to wind up the drive. Only those sales reported before 5 p.m. Tuesday will be counted in club totals.

Baseball fans in the surrounding territory are also going to have a chance to purchase the bargain-rate tickets.

General Manager Dick Wagner announced that 10 near-by communities will have the tickets on sale for a 10-day period "as a convenience for the out-of-town fans."

The list includes:

De Witt (J & P Market), Wilber (Heinie's Cafe), Crete (Dorsey Cafe), Seward (Doc's Grocery), Friend (Huston Truck Co.), Princeton (Billy's), Cortland (Schneiber Oil Co.), Beatrice (Warren A&T Drug), Fairbury (Globe Rexall Drug), Pleasantdale (Earl Mitchell).

Card Rally Tops Sox

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals rallied behind the brilliant relief pitching of Ben Flowers Sunday to beat the Chicago White Sox 8-6.

The White Sox jumped on starter Larry Jackson for two runs in the first inning and added four more in the third on two-run homers by Larry Doby and Walt Dropo.

Trailing 6-3, the Cardinals erupted for four runs in the fifth with Hank Sauer driving in a pair of doubles and Bill Sarni putting the Redbirds ahead with a single.

The Cardinals added an insurance run in the ninth on a double by Joe Frazier and Ken Boyer's single, his fourth of the game.

Flowers came on in the fourth and blanked the White Sox the rest of the game on five hits.

By Don Bryant
Sports Editor, The Star

Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain is a marked man. He's tall and he's a tremendous basketball player—so great that his services were sought by more than 70 schools.

Kansas won the battle for the Philadelphia giant, but the Jayhawks also attracted the eyes of the sports world. Everyone wants to know how Phog Allen managed to attract the prep star.

As a result, there has been a lot of prying, accusations and speculation. Through it all, Dr. Allen has maintained perfect aplomb — in effect, daring somebody to try pinning something incriminating on "Wilton" or Kansas.

The latest revelation in the Chamberlain case comes in the form of a report that says he once played under an assumed name against professionals when he was 16 years-old.

Oddly enough, Harry Henshel, the AAU official who is sueing Allen for $35,000 because the latter once referred to him as "probably a colonel in the Brooklyn band" is mixed up in the case.

He admits checking up on Wilt when he thought Chamberlain might try for a spot on the Olympic team. Of course, the KU frosh won't be on the Olympic team because Big Seven rules forbid it, but Henshel has managed to stir up a mild rhubarb.

Phog might refer to Henshel's action as similar to "bees humming around my honey pot, but not doing much stinging."

Probably very little will come of the latest Chamberlain hubub, little that will cause much trouble for him, anyway.

Chances are that the Big Seven or the NCAA won't ban Wilt because of something he did when he was 16 years old. If he is kayoed on that basis only, he will have been the victim of AAU-ism — a la Wes Santee.

If someone can prove that Chamberlain or Kansas is guilty of recruiting dishonesty — the boy should be bounced and KU penalized. But it will be a bit unfair if Wilt is sidelined for some youthful folly.

One report recently said Chamberlain would never play but one game for Kansas. After the first game, proof would be furnished that he was getting something illegal. That may be, but it's doubtful that Phog — a pretty smart cookie — left very many untied strings.

But the whole matter does serve to point out what Kansas and Wilt are facing now that they are untied.

In short, it's spelled t-r-o-u-b-l-e. Until there's acceptable proof one way or the other there will always be probes, innuendos, and blasts. And there will always be suspicions cast on the big Negro and Kansas.

Somebody is probably asking: What price glory?

Tennis, Golf Action Slated

Baseball, Track In Local Spotlight

By RON SPEER
Star Sports Staff Member

Baseball and track share the spotlight in the Capital City this week, with a heavy dose of golf and tennis tossed in for good measure.

Lincoln prepsters will compete in five cinder meets, with the first meet slated today when Lincoln High entertains Beatrice at 3 p.m.

The first high school baseball game in Lincoln is also scheduled today at 4 p.m., with Coach Bob Johnson's Rockets hosting Southeast.

The Link-Beatrice track meet shapes up as a close affair. Lincoln High displayed its depth and all-around team strength by winning the North Platte invitation last week.

But the Orangemen from Beatrice, with several individual standouts including sprinter Bob Eyth, hurdler Bill Peterson, and weightman Larry Fisher, can't be overlooked.

Fisher, a 245-pounder, already has a toss of 53-4½ with the shot and a mark of 146-6 ¾ in the discus.

Northeast gets the nod over the Knights in the baseball affair.

Track

MONDAY
Beatrice at Lincoln High.
TUESDAY
Cathedral, Southeast at Nebraska City Invitational.
THURSDAY
Lincoln High at Central Nebraska Meet at Hastings.
FRIDAY
Concordia of Seward at University High.
SATURDAY
Northeast at Dutch White Relays at Omaha Tech.

Baseball

MONDAY
Southeast at Northeast.
FRIDAY
Southeast at Lincoln High.

Tennis

MONDAY
Fremont at Lincoln High.
WEDNESDAY
Northeast vs. Lincoln High.
FRIDAY
Southeast at Fairbury.

Golf

TUESDAY
Cathedral at Hebron.
Lincoln High vs. Northeast.
FRIDAY
Southeast vs. Lincoln High.
SATURDAY
Northeast at Seward.

Southeast is building its first baseball team and without experience may find it hard to stop the Rocket attack.

Other track action this week finds Southeast and Cathedral at the Nebraska City Invitation Tuesday; Lincoln High in the Central Nebraska Meet at Hastings Thursday; University High hosting Concordia of Seward Friday and Northeast at Omaha Tech Saturday for the Dutch White Relays.

The other baseball contest Friday is a scrap between Southeast and Lincoln High, with the Links playing host.

The LH net team entertains Fremont Monday, and Northeast meets Lincoln High on the tennis courts Wednesday in a "combination" match with the teams playing on both the Link and Rocket courts.

Southeast journeys to Fairbury Friday in other tennis action this week.

Slender Gary Larson, Northeast half-miler, paid little attention to chilling winds last Friday and clipped off a 2:05.3 half mile against Beatrice. Larson's mark is the second best time reported in the state for the event this year. Ron Callan of McCook has recorded the best time, a 2:05.1 clocking.

Several Capital City shotputters have tossed the iron ball a creditable distance, with Gene Dittenber of Northeast leading the pack with a put of 48-9½ in a quadrangular meet. Dittenber hit 48-9¼ against Beatrice last week. Teammate Don Nelson is also over the 48-foot mark. Lincoln High's Andy Matison has been over the 47-foot mark.

Five 'Big' Track Meets Spice Week's State Prep Schedule

Four of Nebraska's bigger prep track meets and a new meet which bids fair to join the list of important affairs are on this week's schedule.

Highlighting the program are the Central Nebraska Invitational at Hastings, The Western Nebraska at Scottsbluff, the Nebraska City Invitational and the Columbus Invitational.

The Dutch White Relays will be inaugurated at Omaha Tech Saturday.

The Nebraska City Invitational kicks off the feature program Tuesday. Columbus's Invitational meet is Wednesday.

The 43rd annual Central Nebraska meet is Thursday. The Western Nebraska meet, in its 37th year, is Saturday.

Among the major conference meets on the slate are the Southwest Nebraska Thursday at Holdrege, the Loup Valley Wednesday at Ord, the Three Loups Wednesday at Ord, the Cornhusker Conference Tuesday at Tekamah and the Cornbelt Conference at Norfolk Thursday.

Schedule:

Beatrice at Lincoln High dual; Central City-Fullerton at Aurora; Grand Island Diocesan at Grand Island.
TUESDAY
Nebraska City Invitational; Bellevue Night Relays; Sand Hills Conference at Mullen; Frenchman Valley Conference at McCook; Mid-Valley Conference at Arapahoe; Cornhusker Conference at Tekamah. Ogallala at Chappell, Sidney at Alliance. Geneva at Sutton, Hays Springs-Hemingford at Chadron Prep. Herman-Irvington at Fort Calhoun, Diller-Endicott at Odell. Tecumseh at Auburn.
WEDNESDAY
THURSDAY
Central Nebraska Invitational at Hastings; Southwest Nebraska Conference at Holdrege; Cornbelt Conference at Norfolk; Cedar County at Hartington.
FRIDAY
Brady Invitational; Seward Concordia at University High, Columbus at West Point
SATURDAY
Dutch White Relays at Omaha Tech; Western Nebraska D Conference at Chadron; Western Nebraska at Scottsbluff.

Jensen Whips Wind; 73, 74 Leads Golfers

Lincoln golfers faced the same obstacles over the weekend that challenged the nation's best pros and amateurs shooting for the Master's tourney title in Augusta, Ga.—gusty, chilly winds which made scoring exceedingly tough.

Saturday the weather kept most of the Lincoln golfers home, with little play reported on the four local courses. Sunday a near-normal crowd battled the weather over the courses, however.

Chuck Jensen, former Husker golfer, was one of the few who played both Saturday and Sunday. The young shotmaker found the weather to his liking, firing a 74 Saturday and a 73 Sunday at Pioneers for the top rounds reported over the weekend.

At Pioneers only 30 turned out Saturday, but a huge Sunday crowd of more than 250 played the course. Jerry Greenhaw was runnerup to Jensen for scoring honors. He registered a 76.

Gary Gruenemier carded a 78 and Phil White toured the course in 79.

At the Lincoln Country Club Captain Harry Funk scored a 39 for nine holes for one of the top scores. Play was light Saturday but a heavy Sunday crowd swelled the total to nearly 200.

At Park Valley Jon Munford scored a 34 to top a light field. Gary Cleckner netted a 36 over the nine hole layout, with Roy Lawson pressing with 38. Larry Rakow fired a 39.

At Hillcrest high winds kept many of the golfers from completing 18 holes of play, and no top scores were turned in to Pro Bunny Richards.

Today a meeting of the state golf course superintendents will be held at Hillcrest. Next Monday Hillcrest will stage the first state wide pro-amateur tourney.

York Man Leads Elks Tournament

GRAND ISLAND, Neb (UP) — H. McKeag of York, with a 655, took the lead in the singles division of the Nebraska Elks bowling tournament Sunday night. The tournament continues two more week ends.

Elks No. 8 of North Platte took the lead among teams with 3,020 and H. Schultz and W. Eatherton of Grand Island went to the top in doubles with 1,269. John Grimes of Omaha led all-events with 1,752.

Tigers Pound Ralph Beard

HOUSTON, Tex. (UP)—The Detroit Tigers pounded starter Ralph Beard for eight hits and romped to a 6-1 victory in the windup of a two-game exhibition series with Houston of the Texas League.

The Buffaloes battled Detroit on fairly even terms until the fifth inning when the American Leaguers broke loose for four runs on four hits, including a double and triple. The barrage ended Beard's stint on the mound.

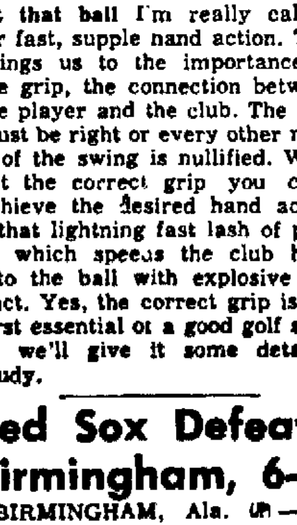
KNOW YOUR GOLF



By TOMMY ARMOUR
(Fourth of a series)

Our sketch today highlights the hitting action of a good golf swing and the point to observe is that the hitting is done by the hands. When I insist that you hit that ball I'm really calling for fast, supple hand action. This brings us to the importance of the grip, the connection between the player and the club. The grip must be right or every other merit of the swing is nullified. Without the correct grip you can't achieve the desired hand action —that lightning fast lash of power which speeds the club head into the ball with explosive impact. Yes, the correct grip is the first essential of a good golf shot, so we'll give it some detailed study.

Surprise Winner Sneaks In As Venturi, Middlecoff Collapse

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Jackie Burke, a pro since he was 18 and one of the most popular guys in golf, sneaked in as winner of the 20th Masters Sunday as front-runners Ken Venturi and Cary Middlecoff collapsed on the final round.

Burke, winning his first Masters championship, shot the final round over the mighty 6,965-yard Augusta National Course in 71, one under par, for a 72-hole total of 289.

Venturi, the amateur sensation from San Francisco who had led from the start, finally yielded to pressure on the last day before the eyes of some 15,000 fans. He had a last round of 80 and a 290 total, just enough to save second place. Middlecoff, four strokes behind Venturi starting the last round and apparently the only threat to a victory for the amateur, finished with a painful 77 that gave him third place at 291.

Incredible Finish

It was about as incredible a finish as the Masters ever has seen—and there have been some other exciting ones. Burke was eight strokes out of the lead at the start of the final round and was barely noticed by the galleries as he played in a twosome between Middlecoff and Venturi.

Burke, a 33-year-old Texan who represents a Kiamesha Lake, N.Y. resort course on the golf circuit, finished second in the 1952 Masters and led on the opening round here last year.

He's the son of a veteran professional who once was runner-up in the National Open. Jackie has won a good many run-of-the-mill tournaments, but he never before took a big title like this one, the Open or the PGA championship.

Burke's victory kept alive the tradition that the Masters can't be won by an amateur, by the player who won the year before or by one who hasn't had plenty of experience on the demanding par 36-36—72 Augusta National Course. This was his seventh try for the Masters title.

Equalled Highest Total

Burke won with rounds of 72-71-75-71 over a course made more rugged than usual by strong winds on two days. His 289 total equalled the highest ever to win the Masters since Bobby Jones founded a cozy little tournament that grew into one of golf's greatest. Sam Snead and Ben Hogan tied at that figure two years ago, with Snead winning the playoff.

Snead, a three-time Masters champion, and seasoned Lloyd Mangrum, who has come close on many occasions but never won here, tied for fourth place with 292 totals. Snead, who played with Venturi but couldn't steady him, also had a final round of 71 and Mangrum a 74. Ben Hogan, who hadn't been worse than second here in the past three years, came in far behind with a finishing 75 and 296.

Withstood All Efforts

The high scores were due largely to the two days of strong, gusty winds. They subsided Sunday as a chilly morning turned into a pleasant spring afternoon. But Augusta National still withstood all efforts for sensational scores.

The tournament which had looked like a breeze for Venturi, turned into a nightmare for him—but a thriller for the spectators. The young San Franciscan maintained his lead over Middlecoff on the front nine as they both shot 38s. But Burke was coming on with a 35. After 13 holes Venturi was only two ahead of both Middlecoff and Burke.

In the clubhouse Byron Nelson, his teacher and sponsor, nervously paced the floor and explained that Ken had planned for possible bogies at the 10th and 11th but the one at the short 12th looked bad.

Finished First

Middlecoff finished first, throwing away his last chance with a double bogey-6 at the 17th hole—his third bogey of the round. Then Burke, picking up a gallery for the first time, came in two strokes ahead of him.

Venturi could have tied Burke with par on the last two holes or won with a birdie on either. Instead he took a bogey-5 at 17, made one final effort when he had a 40-foot putt on the 18th green and rammed it more than a foot to the side of the cup.

While it was a tournament that was lost, rather than won, Burke gave a fine, steady performance. In the past he's had a reputation for having one really bad round when he was going after a major title. This time his worst was a 75 Saturday, when everyone was having a bad time.

Burke's 71 Sunday included three birdie and two bogey holes. The rest of the time he was steady as clockwork, playing with the assurance that goes with experience and lack of pressure.

Qualified At 16

Burke, born in Fort Worth, Tex., in 1923, started playing golf when he was seven and qualified for the U. S. Open when he was 16. At 5-9 and 164 pounds, he had the build of an athlete and an infectious good nature that made him a favorite with golfers and spectators. He had been a member of three U. S Ryder Cup teams, but up to now his greatest claims to golfing fame were based on winning four straight tournaments on the winter tour in 1952—same year he was second to Snead in the Masters.

the final round, stamped himself

It was mainly putting that bothered Venturi Sunday. He three-putted the first, second and ninth greens to reach the turn in 38 and couldn't do a thing right on the back nine.

'Nice Guys' Finish One-Two At Augusta

By MERCER BAILEY

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — It couldn't have happened to a nicer guy.

That old saw cut two ways after the 20th Masters became matter for the record books as darkness crept across the fairways of the rugged Augusta National Golf Course. It applied to both the winner and the loser.

Jack Burke Jr., golfing son of a golfing father and one of the best liked guys in the game, slipped in from nowhere and won his first major championship.

Ken Venturi, the handsome young amateur who captured the hearts of the huge galleries and the golfing world, lost by one stroke after leading for three rounds.

Cary Middlecoff, the defending champion, who had been hounding Venturi's heels from the first day only to finish third, commented during presentation ceremonies:

"We've all applauded Ken's fine performance and many nice things already have been said about him "I know nothing I can say will alleviate his bad feelings right now. "A strong young heart has the power to bleed more tears; but it also has the strength to play more good golf in the years ahead."

The Masters is an invitational tournament with a strict set of qualification rules. Past Masters champions are allowed to choose one player not otherwise eligible for the tournament. They selected Venturi, 24-year-old vice president and salesman for an automobile agency in California.

Venturi Stole the Show

And Venturi stole the show—and almost the championship—from the old pros. It was his second appearance here. He played in the 1954 Masters, qualifying as a member of the Walker Cup team. and finished in a tie for 15th. The low 24 finishers each year are eligible the following year, but Venturi was in the Army and unable to come back in 1955.

Burke was playing in his sixth straight Masters. He always did well here, and in 1952 was runner-up to Sam Snead.

Disappointed as he was Venturi said: "If anybody had to beat me I'm glad it was Jackie. He's a great guy."

Burke shot a closing 71 for a 289 total. Venturi had 80 for 290 and Middlecoff 77 for 291.

Led By Five

Burke said he didn't think he had a chance to overhaul Venturi, who led him by five strokes starting the final nine holes. He didn't even know how he stood with Venturi most of the last nine.

"But I knew how I stood with Middlecoff. I was just trying to beat 'old pro.'"

The news of Venturi's string of bogies caught Burke at No. 17.

"After my putt fell for a birdie at 17, (Mike) Souchak grabbed me around the neck and said, 'Come on man, they're still making bogies."

Burke knocked his second shot into the trap at No. 18, then chipped it up about 3½ feet from the cup.

"While I was waiting for Mike to putt, I said to my caddy, 'Willie it looks like that putt is going to break to the right.'

"Willie said. 'You just put it on that right edge. You just cruise it in there.'"

Burke did. The putt fell. And the Masters had a new champion.

Falls City Cindermen Record Top Marks

By RON GIBSON
Star Sports Staff Member

Falls City's bid for the 1956 Nebraska high school Class A track and field championship looks good on paper after last week's performances.

As Nebraska preppers began saving seconds from and adding inches to their performances, Falls City stood out with four of the best marks reported for the season.

Jerry Collier, Falls City's fine all-around athlete, broad-jumped 21 feet 3¼ inches at the Tarkio Tri-State meet to become the first Nebraska prepper to get past 21 feet this spring.

In the same meet Falls City's crack hurdler, Karl Faller, breezed over the highs and lows in :15.3 and :20.9 respectively. Faller's clocking of :07.9 in the 60-yard high hurdles is also tops.

Lowell Gaither's 4:44.7 mile still stands as the best although several have come close.

Weight men, a quarter-miler and a sprinter took the spotlight last week.

Although no shot-putters bettered the 54-2 toss by Don Oison of Grand Island, several came close to the 50-foot mark or surpassed it. Bill Fisher of Beatrice threw 53-4½, the best of the week, and Duane Buchtel of Clay Center got out 51-6½.

Dick Egen of Hastings hurled the discus 149-2½ in a dual meet with Kearney. Three other discus men got over 140 feet—LeRoy Welsh of Brule, Nick Gangwish of Gibbon and Fisher of Beatrice.

The quarter-miler was Ed Hubbard, state Class A champion from Omaha South. He whizzed over the 440 route in :51.3. On the same day Hubbard's South teammate Tom Taylor ran the 220 in :22.7.

The sprinter was Nebraska City veteran George Peterson. He was credited with a 10-flat 100-yard dash at the Tarkio meet.

Another top performance was a 2:05.1 half mile by McCook's Ron Callan, who had previously gone the route in 2:06.2. Northeast's Gary Larson had a 2:05.3.

Dick Smith, versatile McCook athlete, pole-vaulted 11 feet 6 inches to match the previous ceiling set by Jim Kraft of Scottsbluff.

Best marks reported to late:

100-yard dash — George Peterson, Nebraska City, :10.
220-yard dash — Tom Taylor, Omaha South, :22.7.
440-yard dash — Ed Hubbard, Omaha South, :51.3
880-yard run — Ron Callan, McCook, 2:05.1.
Mile run—Lowell Gaither, Falls City, 4:44.7.
60-yard high hurdles—Karl Faller, Falls City, :07.9.
120-yard high hurdles—Karl Fuller, Falls City, :15.3
100-yard low hurdles—Ron Person, Columbus, :11.2.
180-yard low hurdles—Karl Faller, Falls City, :20.9.
800-yard relay—Scottsbluff, 1:34.1.
Mile relay—Omaha Central, 3:39.8.
Two-mile relay—Bellevue, 8:46.8
Shot put—Don Olson, Grand Island, 54-2.
Discus—Dick Egen, Hastings, 149-2½.
Pole vault—Dick Smith, McCook and Jim Kraft, Scottsbluff 11-6.
High jump—Bill Harmon, Omaha North, 6-2⅛.
Broad jump—Jerry Collier, Falls City, 21-3¼.

Chiefs Sign Negro Loop Infield Star

By DON BRYANT
Sports Editor, The Star

The Lincoln Chiefs Sunday announced the signing of a 23-year-old star of the Negro American League.

He's Johnny Morse, 5-11 third-baseman, who hit .321 for Kansas City in 1955.

At the present time Morse is working out with Larry Shepard's crew at Huntsville, Tex. He was signed for Lincoln in the Hollywood camp by Pirate scout and Hollywood official Bob Clements.

Meanwhile, it was revealed Sunday that George Witt, who performed with the Chiefs here last year, has left the Huntsville camp with New Orleans of the Southern Association.

This leaves only Bill Nordberg and Dick Drilling as possible mound returnees from the 1955 squad, if Witt sticks with the Pelicans.

Back in Lincoln, the counting of ticket sales from the pre-season drive continues.

The 11 local service clubs have reported sales totaling about half the 1955 total, but only about half the workers have checked in.

There will be a check-in desk at the Hotel Cornhusker from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday and Tuesday to wind up the drive. Only those sales reported before 5 p.m. Tuesday will be counted in club totals.

Baseball fans in the surrounding territory are also going to have a chance to purchase the bargain-rate tickets.

General Manager Dick Wagner announced that 10 near-by communities will have the tickets on sale for a 10-day period "as a convenience for the out-of-town fans."

The list includes:

De Witt (J & P Market), Wilber (Heinie's Cafe), Crete (Dorsey Cafe), Seward (Doc's Grocery), Friend (Huston Truck Co.), Princeton (Billy's), Cortland (Schneiber Oil Co.), Beatrice (Warren A&T Drug), Fairbury (Globe Rexall Drug), Pleasantdale (Earl Mitchell).

Card Rally Tops Sox

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals rallied behind the brilliant relief pitching of Ben Flowers Sunday to beat the Chicago White Sox 8-6.

The White Sox jumped on starter Larry Jackson for two runs in the first inning and added four more in the third on two-run homers by Larry Doby and Walt Dropo.

Trailing 6-3, the Cardinals erupted for four runs in the fifth with Hank Sauer driving in a pair of doubles and Bill Sarni putting the Redbirds ahead with a single.

The Cardinals added an insurance run in the ninth on a double by Joe Frazier and Ken Boyer's single, his fourth of the game.

Flowers came on in the fourth and blanked the White Sox the rest of the game on five hits.

St. Louis (N) ..... 021 040 001—8 13 2
Chicago (A) ...... 204 000 000—6 13 1
Jackson, Flowers (4) and Sarni; Donovan, Keegan (6), Consuegra (8) and Lollar, Sawatski (7). W—Flowers. L—Donovan. Home runs—Chicago, Dobry, Dropo.

Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain is a marked man. He's tall and he's a tremendous basketball player—so great that his services were sought by more than 70 schools.

Kansas won the battle for the Philadelphia giant, but the Jayhawks also attracted the eyes of the sports world. Everyone wants to know how Phog Allen managed to attract the prep star.

As a result, there has been a lot of prying, accusations and speculation. Through it all, Dr. Allen has maintained perfect aplomb — in effect, daring somebody to try pinning something incriminating on "Wilton" or Kansas.

The latest revelation in the Chamberlain case comes in the form of a report that says he once played under an assumed name against professionals when he was 16 years-old.

Oddly enough, Harry Henshel, the AAU official who is sueing Allen for $35,000 because the latter once referred to him as "probably a colonel in the Brooklyn band" is mixed up in the case.

He admits checking up on Wilt when he thought Chamberlain might try for a spot on the Olympic team. Of course, the KU frosh won't be on the Olympic team because Big Seven rules forbid it, but Henshel has managed to stir up a mild rhubarb.

Phog might refer to Henshel's action as similar to "bees buzzing around my honey pot, but not doing much stinging."

Probably very little will come of the latest Chamberlain hubub, little that will cause much trouble for him, anyway.

Chances are that the Big Seven or the NCAA won't ban Wilt because of something he did when he was 16 years old. If he is kayoed on that basis only, he will have been the victim of AAU-ism — a la Wes Santee.

If someone can prove that Chamberlain or Kansas is guilty of recruiting dishonesty — the boy should be bounced and KU penalized. But it will be a bit unfair if Wilt is sidelined for some youthful folly.

One report recently said Chamberlain would never play but one game for Kansas. After the first game, proof would be furnished that he was getting something illegal. That may be, but it's doubtful that Phog — a pretty smart cookie — left very many untied strings.

But the whole matter does serve to point out what Kansas and Wilt are facing now that they are untied.

In short, it's spelled t-r-o-u-b-l-e. Until there's acceptable proof one way or the other there will always be probes, inuendos, and blasts. And there will always be suspicions cast on the big Negro and Kansas.

Somebody is probably asking: What price glory?

Baseball and track share the spotlight in the Capital City this week, with a heavy dose of golf and tennis tossed in for good measure.

Lincoln prepsters will compete in five cinder meets, with the first meet slated today when Lincoln High entertains Beatrice at 3 p.m.

The first high school baseball game in Lincoln is also scheduled today at 4 p.m., with Coach Bob Johnson's Rockets hosting Southeast.

The Link-Beatrice track meet shapes up as a close affair. Lincoln High displayed its depth and all-around team strength by winning the North Platte invitation last week.

But the Orangemen from Beatrice, with several individual standouts including sprinter Bob Eyth, hurdler Bill Peterson, and weightman Larry Fisher, can't be overlooked.

Fisher, a 245-pounder, already has a toss of 53-4½ with the shot and a mark of 146-6 ¾ in the discus.

Northeast gets the nod over the Knights in the baseball affair. Southeast is building its first baseball team and without experience may find it hard to stop the Rocket attack.

Other track action this week finds Southeast and Cathedral at the Nebraska City Invitation Tuesday; Lincoln High in the Central Nebraska Meet at Hastings Thursday; University High hosting Concordia of Seward Friday and Northeast at Omaha Tech Saturday for the Dutch White Relays.

The other baseball contest Friday is a scrap between Southeast and Lincoln High, with the Links playing host.

The LH net team entertains Fremont Monday, and Northeast meets Lincoln High on the tennis courts Wednesday in a "combination" match with the teams playing on both the Link and Rocket courts.

Southeast journeys to Fairbury Friday in other tennis action this week.

Slender Gary Larson, Northeast half-miler, paid little attention to chilling winds last Friday and clipped off a 2:05.3 half mile against Beatrice. Larson's mark is the second best time reported in the state for the event this year. Ron Callan of McCook has recorded the best time, a 2:05.1 clocking.

Several Capital City shotputters have tossed the iron ball a creditable distance, with Gene Dittenber of Northeast leading the pack with a put of 48-9½ in a quadrangular meet. Dittenber hit 48-9¼ against Beatrice last week Teammate Don Nelson is also over the 48-foot mark. Lincoln High's Andy Matison has been over the 47-foot mark.

Jensen Whips Wind; 73, 74 Leads Golfers

Lincoln golfers faced the same obstacles over the weekend that challenged the nation's best pros and amateurs shooting for the Master's tourney title in Augusta, Ga.—gusty, chilly winds which made scoring exceedingly tough.

Saturday the weather kept most of the Lincoln golfers home, with little play reported on the four local courses. Sunday a near-normal crowd battled the weather over the courses, however.

Chuck Jensen, former Husker golfer, was one of the few who played both Saturday and Sunday. The young shotmaker found the weather to his liking, firing a 74 Saturday and a 73 Sunday at Pioneers for the top rounds reported over the weekend.

At Pioneers only 30 turned out Saturday, but a huge Sunday crowd of more than 250 played the course. Jerry Greenhaw was runnerup to Jensen for scoring honors. He registered a 76.

Gary Gruenemier carded a 78 and Phil White toured the course in 79.

At the Lincoln Country Club Captain Harry Funk scored a 39 for nine holes for one of the top scores. Play was light Saturday but a heavy Sunday crowd swelled the total to nearly 200.

At Park Valley Jon Munford scored a 34 to top a light field. Gary Cleckner netted a 36 over the nine hole layout, with Roy Lawson pressing with 38. Larry Rakow fired a 39.

At Hillcrest high winds kept many of the golfers from completing 18 holes of play, and no top scores were turned in to Pro Bunny Richards.

Today a meeting of the state golf course superintendents will be held at Hillcrest. Next Monday Hillcrest will stage the first state wide pro-amateur tourney.

York Man Leads Elks Tournament

GRAND ISLAND, Neb (AP) — H. McKeag of York, with a 655, took the lead in the singles division of the Nebraska Elks bowling tournament Sunday night. The tournament continues two more week ends.

Elks No. 8 of North Platte took the lead among teams with 3,020 and H. Schultz and W. Eatherton of Grand Island went to the top in doubles with 1,269. John Grimes of Omaha led all-events with 1,752.

Tigers Pound Ralph Beard

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The Detroit Tigers pounded starter Ralph Beard for eight hits and romped to a 6-1 victory in the windup of a two-game exhibition series with Houston of the Texas League.

The Buffaloes battled Detroit on fairly even terms until the fifth inning when the American Leaguers broke loose for four runs on four hits, including a double and triple. The barrage ended Beard's stint on the mound.

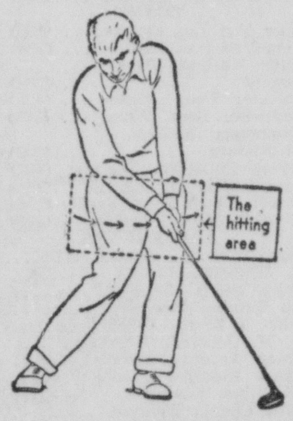
KNOW YOUR GOLF



By TOMMY ARMOUR
(Fourth of a series)

Our sketch today highlights the hitting action of a good golf swing and the point to observe is that the hitting is done by the hands. When I insist that you hit that ball I'm really calling for fast, supple hand action. This brings us to the importance of the grip, the connection between the player and the club. The grip must be right or every other merit of the swing is nullified. Without the correct grip you can't achieve the desired hand action—that lightning fast lash of power which speeds the club head into the ball with explosive impact. Yes, the correct grip is the first essential of a good golf shot, so we'll give it some detailed study.

Red Sox Defeat Birmingham, 6-3

Surprise Winner Sneaks In As Venturi, Middlecoff Collapse

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Jackie Burke, a pro since he was 18 and one of the most popular guys in golf, sneaked in as winner of the 20th Masters Sunday as front-runners Ken Venturi and Cary Middlecoff collapsed on the final round.

Burke, winning his first Masters championship, shot the final round over the mighty 6,965-yard Augusta National Course in 71, one under par, for a 72-hole total of 289.

Venturi, the amateur sensation from San Francisco who had led from the start, finally yielded to pressure on the last day before the eyes of some 15,000 fans. He had a last round of 80 and a 290 total, just enough to save second place. Middlecoff, four strokes behind Venturi starting the last round and apparently the only threat to a victory for the amateur, finished with a painful 77 that gave him third place at 291.

Incredible Finish

It was about as incredible a finish as the Masters ever has seen—and there have been some other exciting ones. Burke was eight strokes out of the lead at the start of the final round and was barely noticed by the galleries as he played in a twosome between Middlecoff and Venturi.

Burke, a 33-year-old Texan who represents a Kiamesha Lake, N.Y. resort course on the golf circuit, finished second in the 1952 Masters and led on the opening round here last year.

He's the son of a veteran professional who once was runner-up in the National Open. Jackie has won a good many run-of-the-mill tournaments, but he never before took a big title like this one, the Open or the PGA championship.

Burke's victory kept alive the tradition that the Masters can't be won by an amateur, by the player who won the year before or by one who hasn't had plenty of experience on the demanding par 36-36—72 Augusta National Course. This was his seventh try for the Masters title.

Equalled Highest Total

Burke won with rounds of 72-71-75-71 over a course made more rugged than usual by strong winds on two days. His 289 total equalled the highest ever to win the Masters since Bobby Jones founded a cozy little tournament that grew into one of golf's greatest. Sam Snead and Ben Hogan tied at that figure two years ago, with Snead winning the playoff.

Snead, a three-time Masters champion, and seasoned Lloyd Mangrum, who has come close on many occasions but never won here, tied for fourth place with 292 totals. Snead, who played with Venturi but couldn't steady him, also had a final round of 71 and Mangrum a 74. Ben Hogan, who hadn't been worse than second here in the past three years, came in far behind with a finishing 75 and 296.

Withstood All Efforts

The high scores were due largely to the two days of strong, gusty winds. They subsided Sunday as a chilly morning turned into a pleasant spring afternoon. But Augusta National still withstood all efforts for sensational scores.

The tournament which had looked like a breeze for Venturi, turned into a nightmare for him—but a thriller for the spectators. The young San Franciscan maintained his lead over Middlecoff on the front nine as they both shot 38s. But Burke was coming on with a 35. After 13 holes Venturi was only two ahead of both Middlecoff and Burke.

In the clubhouse Byron Nelson, his teacher and sponsor, nervously paced the floor and explained that Ken had planned for possible bogies at the 10th and 11th but the one at the short 12th looked bad.

Finished First

Middlecoff finished first, throwing away his last chance with a double bogey-6 at the 17th hole—his third bogey of the round. Then Burke, picking up a gallery for the first time, came in two strokes ahead of him.

Venturi could have tied Burke with par on the last two holes or won with a birdie on either. Instead he took a bogey-5 at 17, made one final effort when he had a 40-foot putt on the 18th green and rammed it more than a foot to the side of the cup.

While it was a tournament that was lost, rather than won, Burke gave a fine, steady performance. In the past he's had a reputation for having one really bad round when he was going after a major title. This time his worst was a 75 Saturday, when everyone was having a bad time.

Burke's 71 Sunday included three birdie and two bogey holes. The rest of the time he was steady as clockwork, playing with the assurance that goes with experience and lack of pressure.

Qualified At 16

Burke, born in Fort Worth, Tex., in 1923, started playing golf when he was seven and qualified for the U. S. Open when he was 16. At 5-9 and 164 pounds, he had the build of an athlete and an infectious good nature that made him a favorite with golfers and spectators. He had been a member of three U. S. Ryder Cup teams, but up to now his greatest claims to golfing fame were based on winning four straight tournaments on the winter tour in 1952—same year he was second to Snead in the Masters.
the final round, stamped himself

It was mainly putting that bothered Venturi Sunday. He three-putted the first, second and ninth greens to reach the turn in 38 and couldn't do a thing right on the back nine.

'Nice Guys' Finish One-Two At Augusta

By MERCER BAILEY

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — It couldn't have happened to a nicer guy.

That old saw cut two ways after the 20th Masters became matter for the record books as darkness crept across the fairways of the rugged Augusta National Golf Course. It applied to both the winner and the loser.

Jack Burke Jr., golfing son of a golfing father and one of the best liked guys in the game, slipped in from nowhere and won his first major championship.

Ken Venturi, the handsome young amateur who captured the hearts of the huge galleries and the golfing world, lost by one stroke after leading for three rounds.

Cary Middlecoff, the defending champion, who had been hounding Venturi's heels from the first day only to finish third, commented during presentation ceremonies:

"We've all applauded Ken's fine performance and many nice things already have been said about him "I know nothing I can say will alleviate his bad feelings right now. "A strong young heart has the power to bleed more tears; but it also has the strength to play more good golf in the years ahead."

The Masters is an invitational tournament with a strict set of qualification rules. Past Masters champions are allowed to choose one player not otherwise eligible for the tournament. They selected Venturi, 24-year-old vice president and salesman for an automobile agency in California.

Venturi Stole the Show

And Venturi stole the show—and almost the championship—from the old pros. It was his second appearance here. He played in the 1954 Masters, qualifying as a member of the Walker Cup team, and finished in a tie for 15th. The low 24 finishers each year are eligible the following year, but Venturi was in the Army and unable to come back in 1955.

Burke was playing in his sixth straight Masters. He always did well here, and in 1952 was runner-up to Sam Snead.

Disappointed as he was Venturi said: "If anybody had to beat me I'm glad it was Jackie. He's a great guy."

Burke shot a closing 71 for a 289 total. Venturi had 80 for 290 and Middlecoff 77 for 291.

Led By Five

Burke said he didn't think he had a chance to overhaul Venturi, who led him by five strokes starting the final nine holes He didn't even know how he stood with Venturi most of the last nine.

"But I knew how I stood with Middlecoff. I was just trying to beat 'old pro.'"

The news of Venturi's string of bogies caught Burke at No. 17.

"After my putt fell for a birdie at 17, (Mike) Souchak grabbed me around the neck and said, 'Come on man, they're still making bogies."

Burke knocked his second shot into the trap at No. 18, then chipped it up about 3½ feet from the cup.

"While I was waiting for Mike to putt, I said to my caddy, 'Willie it looks like that putt is going to break to the right.'

"Willie said: 'You just put it on that right edge. You just cruise it in there.'"

Burke did. The putt fell. And the Masters had a new champion.

Brooklyn 'Hand-Picked' To Win By Ten Games

Milwaukee, Cincinnati, St. Louis To Follow

By JACK HAND

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Nobody expects Brooklyn to break away from the gate again at a 22-2 pace for the first month of the season, but the Dodgers figure to repeat in the National League with 10 games to spare. After picking them last year, how can you avoid a repeat?

Only Milwaukee appears equipped to match the Dodgers' pitching and only Cincinnati can come close to the world champs' awesome power.

Although Manager Walter Alston must be concerned about the arm trouble of Billy Loes and Karl Spooner, he has bullpen depth and big Don Newcombe to lead the way.

With Ransom Jackson's bat added to the home-run punch of Duke Snider, Roy Campanella, Gil Hodges and Carl Furillo, the Dodgers could shatter all home records. Jackson should be especially potent at Ebbets Field with its handy left-field fence.

Rookie Charlie Neal came up from Montreal to chase Junior Gilliam off second base and give the club the slick doubleplay combination it lacked.

All this on top of 98 victories, a 13½-game pennant romp and the added confidence of a series triumph over the New York Yankees threatened to make it another Dodger runaway.

Gene Conley's doubtful status weakens Milwaukee's chances. The Braves must have a sound Conley to head their pitching staff if they hope to challenge. Second base still is a problem for Manager Charlie Grimm and it remains to be seen if Bobby Thomson will carry his spring form over into the regular season in a bonafide comeback.

Have Solid Batting

If Birdie Tebbetts can come up with enough pitching from Joe Nuxhall, Johnny Klippstein, Art Fowler and Brooks Lawrence, the Cincinnati club could be the best of the others. The Redlegs have solid batting strength in Ted Kluszewski, Wally Post, Gus Bell and Smoky Burgess plus the defensive skill of shortstop Roy McMillan and second baseman Johnny Temple. Frank Robinson, a rookie outfielder, may be the answer to Birdie's left-field worries.

St. Louis showed great strength in the Florida exhibitions. Even discounting the fine performance of its pitchers in "pitchers' heaven" at Al Lang field, the return of Vinegar Bend Mizell is certain to bolster the staff. Every manager agrees the Cards are no seventh-place-ball club. Red Schoendienst seems set for a fine comeback after his shocking 47-point batting drop in 1955. And, of course, there's Stan Musial.

The job is separating Cincinnati, St. Louis, New York and Philadelphia and even Pittsburgh, which, although last for four straight years, shows definite signs of promise.

New York is placed fifth because of Willie Mays and an expected return to form of Johnny Antonelli under Manager Billy Rigney. Despite Robin Roberts' sure-fire 20 wins, Philadelphia has so many problems in pitching it could drop to sixth. On the strength of Ernie Banks' home-run bat, Chicago rates seventh ahead of Pittsburgh which packs little punch but fair pitching from Bob Friend, Vern Law and Ronnie Kline.

Here's the way it looks from here.

1. Brooklyn
2. Milwaukee
3. Cincinnati
4. St. Louis
5. New York
6. Philadelphia
7. Chicago
8. Pittsburgh

Triangular Go For NU Tracksters

FRIDAY
Golf .... Kansas in Lincoln
SATURDAY
Track .... at Oklahoma Triangular
Golf .... Kansas State in Lincoln
Tennis .... Fairbury JC in Lincoln

The University of Nebraska track team opens its outdoor season this week, meeting Oklahoma and Colorado in a triangular at Norman Saturday.

Both teams defeated the Huskers in dual competition at Lincoln during the indoor season.

Coach Frank Sevigne's Huskers have been bolstered by the appearance of Soph Lyle Nannen from Syracuse. A prep hurdle standout, Nannen performed with the basketball team during the winter.

Also seeing action this week will be the tennis and golf teams.

Thursday the netters travel to Omaha for a meet with Creighton and on Saturday they'll host Fairbury Junior College here.

The golf team will entertain two Big Seven rivals on the Lincoln Country Club course Friday and Saturday. Kansas will be the Friday invader and Kansas State will be on hand Saturday.

Katt Felled By Pitch

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Catcher Ray Katt of the Giants escaped serious injury Sunday after being hit on the left temple by a pitch in the seventh inning of a game in which New York defeated the Cleveland Indians, 10-3.

Katt, struck by pitcher Art Houtteman, keeled over near home plate and was carried off the field on a stretcher. He was removed to Baylor Hospital where X rays were negative. He never lost consciousness.

However, Dr. Herman Ulevitch, attending the 28-year-old player ordered Katt to remain in the hospital at least overnight.

Canadiens Win Third In Series

DETROIT (AP) — Big Jean Beliveau swept his Montreal Canadiens to a 3-0 victory over the Detroit Red Wings Sunday night and the Canadiens grabbed a 3 to 1 game margin in the Stanley Cup Hockey finals.

Beliveau, the 6-3 giant who led the National Hockey League in scoring, blasted home the first two goals and repelled Detroit threats with his brilliant defensive work. He scored in the first period on a close-range blast and again in the second when he took a rebound in front of the Detroit nets.

Moore, Saddler Feature Ring Action

By MURRAY ROSE
By The Associated Press

Champions Archie Moore and Sandy Saddler and contenders Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson, Floyd Patterson, and Chuck Spieser make this a lively week for boxing around the country.

Moore, the light - heavyweight ruler, continues his earn-while-you-train program at Richmond, Calif., Tuesday night when he meets heavyweight Willie Bean of San Francisco in a non-title 10-rounder. Archie is contracted to defend his 175-crown against Yolande Pompey in London, June 5.

Saddler, the featherweight boss, has a Saturday night date in the Boston Garden against 20-year-old Larry Boardman, 10th ranking lightweight contender from Marlborough, Conn. The youngster whipped lightweight champion Bud Smith in a non-title 10-rounder two months ago and could give Sandy a tussle.

Patterson, top - ranking light-heavyweight contender, figures to fatten up his winning streak of 15 against Chief Alvin Williams at Kansas City Tuesday night. The 21-year-old Brooklyn contender already has thumped the Chief twice, once on an eight-round decision and again on Sept. 8 with an eighth-round knockout.

None of these three fights will be seen on network television. Televiewers, however, will be able to watch Jackson, Spieser and young Rory Calhoun in action.

Jackson, second ranking heavyweight behind Moore, faces Johnny Williams, former British Empire heavyweight boss, in a 10-rounder at the Uline Arena in Washington Friday night (NBC-TV radio, 9 p.m., CST). The Hurricane, hoping to land a title shot this September, is a big favorite over the 29-year-old Briton.

Spieser, fourth - ranking light heavyweight contender from Detroit, meets aggressive Joey Rowan, Phoenixville, Pa., heavyweight in a 10-rounder at the Detroit Olympic Wednesday night.

Calhoun, undefeated, 21-year-old middleweight prospect from White Plains, N. Y., mixes with sturdy Jackie LaBua of Valley Stream, N. Y., at New York's St. Nicholas Arena Monday night. It's the first promotion under a two-year contract for Matchmaker Teddy Brenner with the network. Calhoun's record is 19-0. LaBua's record is 26-8.

Nebraska Jaycees To Name 'Amateur Athlete Of Year'

The Nebraska Junior Chamber of Commerce will present its award to the state's Outstanding Amateur Athlete of the Year again in 1956, it was announced Sunday by Bill Mountford, Red Cloud, Nebraska Jaycee Sports Chairman.

This award is presented annually to the amateur athlete that has excelled in athletics the past year. Chuck Stickels, Hastings College great, was the recipient last year.

In making the announcement, Mountford stated that the people of Nebraska are invited to send in nomination for the award. Nominations must be in by April 15.

Any athlete eligible in the Big Seven, Nebraska College, high school, or in the amateur sport which he competes is eligible for consideration for the Jaycee award.

The Outstanding Amateur of the Year will be announced May 1, and will be presented the plaque and certificate at the Jaycee state convention in Norfolk, May 5.

A selections committee, made up of sports writers and sports casters throughout the state, will make the final selection.

Few Changes In Final State Bowl Action

Lincoln Star Special

FREMONT—Few changes were made in the final weekend of the Nebraska State Bowling tournament here.

Leaders in all events held their spots to win 1956 bowling titles. Mike Montello won the All-Events title with 1,866.

Mound Choice Big Problem At Southeast

Pitching strength is the biggest question facing Southeast baseball coach Charles Gordon in the baseball opener against Northeast today.

Several of the Knights have pitching ability, the hurlers are also needed to fill defensive gaps in the infield. Most of the squad of 20 that reported to Coach Gordon are sophomores.

Bill Redmond is an example of the hurling problem. Redmond is one of the top pitchers but covers a lot of ground at shortstop and with him on the mound Southeast's defense is hurt.

Other top pitcher-infielders include Vernon Lotman, Ray Nelson, and Jack Harvey.

By JACK HAND

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Nobody expects Brooklyn to break away from the gate again at a 22-2 pace for the first month of the season, but the Dodgers figure to repeat in the National League with 10 games to spare. After picking them last year, how can you avoid a repeat?

Only Milwaukee appears equipped to match the Dodgers' pitching and only Cincinnati can come close to the world champs awesome power.

Although Manager Walter Alston must be concerned about the arm trouble of Billy Loes and Karl Spooner, he has bullpen depth and big Don Newcombe to lead the way.

With Ransom Jackson's bat added to the home-run punch of Duke Snider, Roy Campanella, Gil Hodges and Carl Furillo, the Dodgers could shatter all homer records. Jackson should be especially potent at Ebbets Field with its handy left-field fence.

Rookie Charlie Neal came up from Montreal to chase Junior Gilliam off second base and give the club the slick doubleplay combination it lacked.

All this on top of 98 victories, a 13½-game pennant romp and the added confidence of a series triumph over the New York Yankees threatened to make it another Dodger runaway.

Gene Conley's doubtful status weakens Milwaukee's chances. The Braves must have a sound Conley to head their pitching staff if they hope to challenge. Second base still is a problem for Manager Charlie Grimm and it remains to be seen if Bobby Thomson will carry his spring form over into the regular season in a bonafide comeback.

Have Solid Batting

If Birdie Tebbetts can come up with enough pitching from Joe Nuxhall, Johnny Klippstein, Art Fowler and Brooks Lawrence, the Cincinnati club could be the best of the others. The Redlegs have solid batting strength in Ted Kluszewski, Wally Post, Gus Bell and Smoky Burgess plus the defensive skill of shortstop Roy McMillan and second baseman Johnny Temple. Frank Robinson, a rookie outfielder, may be the answer to Birdie's left-field worries.

St. Louis showed great strength in the Florida exhibitions. Even discounting the fine performance of its pitchers in "pitchers' heaven" at Al Lang field, the return of Vinegar Bend Mizell is certain to bolster the staff. Every manager agrees the Cards are no seventh-place-ball club. Red Schoendienst seems set for a fine comeback after his shocking 47-point batting drop in 1955. And, of course, there's Stan Musial.

The job is separating Cincinnati, St. Louis, New York and Philadelphia and even Pittsburgh, which, although last for four straight years, shows definite signs of promise.

New York is placed fifth because of Willie Mays and an expected return to form of Johnny Antonelli under Manager Billy Rigney. Despite Robin Roberts' sure-fire 20 wins, Philadelphia has so many problems in pitching it could drop to sixth. On the strength of Ernie Banks' home-run bat, Chicago rates seventh ahead of Pittsburgh, which packs little punch but fair pitching from Bob Friend, Vern Law and Ronnie Kline.

Here's the way it looks from here:

1. Brooklyn
2. Milwaukee
3. Cincinnati
4. St. Louis
5. New York
6. Philadelphia
7. Chicago
8. Pittsburgh

Golf .... Kansas State in Lincoln
Tennis .... Fairbury JC in Lincoln

The University of Nebraska track team opens its outdoor season this week, meeting Oklahoma and Colorado in a triangular at Norman Saturday.

Both teams defeated the Huskers in dual competition at Lincoln during the indoor season.

Coach Frank Sevigne's Huskers have been bolstered by the appearance of Soph Lyle Nannen from Syracuse. A prep hurdle standout, Nannen performed with the basketball team during the winter.

Also seeing action this week will be the tennis and golf teams.

Thursday the netters travel to Omaha for a meet with Creighton and on Saturday they'll host Fairbury Junior College here.

The golf team will entertain two Big Seven rivals on the Lincoln Country Club course Friday and Saturday. Kansas will be the Friday invader and Kansas State will be on hand Saturday.

Katt Felled By Pitch

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Catcher Ray Katt of the Giants escaped serious injury Sunday after being hit on the left temple by a pitch in the seventh inning of a game in which New York defeated the Cleveland Indians, 10-3.

Katt, struck by pitcher Art Houtteman, keeled over near home plate and was carried off the field on a stretcher. He was removed to Baylor Hospital where X-rays were negative. He never lost consciousness.

However, Dr. Herman Ulevitch, attending the 28-year-old player ordered Katt to remain in the hospital at least overnight.

Canadiens Win Third In Series

DETROIT (AP) — Big Jean Beliveau swept his Montreal Canadiens to a 3-0 victory over the Detroit Red Wings Sunday night and the Canadiens grabbed a 3 to 1 game margin in the Stanley Cup Hockey finals.

Beliveau, the 6-3 giant who led the National Hockey League in scoring, blasted home the first two goals and repelled Detroit threats with his brilliant defensive work. He scored in the first period on a close-range blast and again in the second when he took a rebound in front of the Detroit nets.

Moore, Saddler Feature Ring Action

By MURRAY ROSE
By The Associated Press

Champions Archie Moore and Sandy Saddler and contenders Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson, Floyd Patterson, and Chuck Spieser make this a lively week for boxing around the country.

Moore, the light - heavyweight ruler, continues his earn-while-you-train program at Richmond, Calif., Tuesday night when he meets heavyweight Willie Bean of San Francisco in a non-title 10-rounder. Archie is contracted to defend his 175-crown against Yolande Pompey in London, June 5.

Saddler, the featherweight boss, has a Saturday night date in the Boston Garden against 20-year-old Larry Boardman, 10th-ranking lightweight contender from Marlborough, Conn. The youngster whipped lightweight champion Bud Smith in a non-title 10-rounder two months ago and could give Sandy a tussle.

Patterson, top - ranking light-heavyweight contender, figures to fatten up his winning streak of 15 against Chief Alvin Williams at Kansas City Tuesday night. The 21-year-old Brooklyn contender already has thumped the Chief twice, once on an eight-round decision and again on Sept. 8 with an eighth-round knockout.

None of these three fights will be seen on network television. Televiewers, however, will be able to watch Jackson, Spieser and young Rory Calhoun in action.

Jackson, second ranking heavyweight behind Moore, faces Johnny Williams, former British Empire heavyweight boss, in a 10-rounder at the Uline Arena in Washington Friday night (NBC-TV, radio, 9 p.m., CST). The Hurricane, hoping to land a title shot this September, is a big favorite over the 29-year-old Briton.

Spieser, fourth - ranking light heavyweight contender from Detroit, meets aggressive Joey Rowan, Phoenixville, Pa., heavyweight in a 10-rounder at the Detroit Olympic Wednesday night.

Calhoun, undefeated, 21-year-old middleweight prospect from White Plains, N. Y., mixes with sturdy Jackie LaBua of Valley Stream, N. Y., at New York's St. Nicholas Arena Monday night. It's the first promotion under a two-year contract for Matchmaker Teddy Brenner with the network. Calhoun's record is 19-0. LaBua's record is 26-8.

Nebraska Jaycees To Name 'Amateur Athlete Of Year'

The Nebraska Junior Chamber of Commerce will present its award to the state's Outstanding Amateur Athlete of the Year again in 1956, it was announced Sunday by Bill Mountford, Red Cloud, Nebraska Jaycee Sports Chairman.

This award is presented annually to the amateur athlete that has excelled in athletics the past year. Chuck Stickels, Hastings College great, was the recipient last year.

In making the announcement, Mountford stated that the people of Nebraska are invited to send in nomination for the award. Nominations must be in by April 15.

Any athlete eligible in the Big Seven, Nebraska College, high school, or in the amateur sport which he competes is eligible for consideration for the Jaycee award.

The Outstanding Amateur of the Year will be announced May 1, and will be presented the plaque and certificate at the Jaycee state convention in Norfolk, May 5.

A selections committee, made up of sports writers and sports casters throughout the state, will make the final selection.

Mother Leads Police To 4-Year-Old Girl's Body In Suitcase

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A distraught mother Sunday led police to the body of her 4-year-old daughter, hidden in a large suitcase on a hillside in the near-downtown area.

Detective Sgt. Harry Hansen said Mrs. Jean Elizabeth Shaw, 35 directed officers to the scene and identified the body as that of her daughter Susan.

Mrs. Shaw said she could only remember that "Susan was overcome by gas fumes" in their apartment, Hansen reported.

In Psychopathic Ward

Mrs. Shaw, formerly of Clinton, Ia., was being held in the psychopathic ward of General Hospital on a technical booking of suspicion of murder.

She was arrested 24 hours earlier after police learned from an older daughter, Pamela, 11, that Susan had been missing since Wednesday.

The coroner's office said the child had been dead for several days. The body was in good condition and there was no apparent marks or bruises. An autopsy will be performed Monday.

Father Flies In

The child's father, Clinton attorney Prentice W. Shaw, 42, flew here but was not present when police made their gruesome discovery. After officers told him his daughter was dead, Shaw said he will confer Monday with juvenile authorities in an effort to have his other daughter return to Iowa with him.

The suitcase was lying about 20 feet from the street.

After arriving at the scene, Mrs Shaw found she did not have the key to unlock the suitcase Officers had to send back for her keys at the jail where she was first booked

"Oh, no," the mother screamed when Hansen opened the suitcase.

The scene was only two blocks from the apartment where Mrs Shaw had been living with her two daughters since last December Shaw won a divorce in Iowa last November, charging her with cruel and inhuman treatment.

Mrs. Shaw had disappeared last June with her daughters. A son has been living with Shaw.

Shaw told officers that his wife had developed a psychosis shortly after Susan was born. She feared constantly that she was going to strangle the baby, Shaw said, and had been confined once to a mental sanitarium.

12-Nation 'Atoms For Peace' Talk To Begin Tuesday

WASHINGTON (AP)—Resumption of a 12-nation "atoms for peace" conference in Washington, scheduled for Monday has been postponed until Tuesday.

Officials said the delay was arranged because some of the delegates requested more time in which to prepare for the new talks.

Participants include Brazil, Czechoslovakia, India and Russia together with the eight nations which already have approved a proposed charter for a United Nations atoms for peace agency as proposed in December 1953 by President Eisenhower.

These eight are the United States, Britain, Australia, Belgium, Canada, France, Portugal and South Africa.

In three weeks of talks during March the 12 nations reached what U. S. Delegate James Wadsworth called "virtual total agreement" on a charter for the agency. He predicted the final session would last only a few days.

The charter drafted by the 12 nations will be submitted to an 84-nation conference expected to be held in September at New York.

So far, it is reported, the 12 nations have agreed to link the proposed agency to the United Nations somewhat like the specialized U. N. agencies, reporting once a year to the U. N. Security Council, but free from its veto.

Middle East Resolution 'No Doubt' Viewed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. H Alexander Smith (R-NJ) said Sunday he has no doubt that a Congressional resolution on the Middle East, similar to the one on the Formosan area, is "being considered."

Smith, interviewed on a television program, said he personally believes Congress "ought to be considering" such a resolution now on the situation in Israel and Egypt.

The resolution on Formosa left it to President Eisenhwoer to decide whether attacks on islands off the Chinese mainland constituted a threat to Formosa and to send U. S. forces if necessary without further Congressional approval.

Smith said President Eisenhower would need, and would ask, Congressional approval before this country stepped into any fighting in the Middle East

The President said at his news conference last Wednesday that "I have announced time and time and time again I will never be guilty of any kind of action that can be interpreted as war until the Congress, which has the constitutional authority, says so"

Smith was asked whether, as a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, he felt everything possible was being done to prevent war in the Middle East. "I think so," he replied.

BULGARIA REDS CRITICIZE THEIR TOUGH PREMIER

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Premier Vulko Chervenkov, the tough-talking Premier of Communist Bulgaria, came under severe criticism Sunday from the Central Committee of his own Communist party.

Just what will happen now to the 56-year-old former boss of the Bulgarian Communist party was not known here. But he has been under heavy pressure from Moscow to make up with President Tito of Yugoslavia.

Sofia radio broadcast a communique of the party Central Committee accusing Chervenkov of having practiced Stalin-like one-man rule which "damaged the work of the party and the state."

One of the accusations in the downgrading of Stalin by the Kremlin was that he was responsible personally for the rift with Tito. Yugoslav-Russian differences are now being patched up by the present Kremlin leadership.

The radio said the Central Committee, in a five-day meeting, outlined a number of steps to "tear out by the roots the cult of the individual." This is precisely the line being taken by the Kremlin regarding Stalin.

North Platte Host At Feeders Day

NORTH PLATTE, Neb. (AP) — The 26th annual Spring Feeders Day program is scheduled at the North Platte Experiment Station April 26.

Superintendent James C. Adams said the program would include inspection of stock fed special rations, reports on drugs and feed innovations, and discussions of marketing conditions.

"Althought cattle feeders have not been especially favored with profitable prices this season," Adams said, "many are changing their feeding program to adjust to present economic conditions."

Among the speakers will be Josef A. Jackson, assistant in animal husbandry at the experiment station; Everett E. Peterson, agricultural economist at the University of Nebraska; Dr. Johnny Matsushmima of the department of animal husbandry at the University of Nebraska, and Dr. Ralph Cole, president of the Nebraska Meat Promotion committee.

Notice to Contractors

Sealed proposals will be received by the City Council of the City of Lincoln, Nebraska, at the office of the City Clerk, up to 10 o'clock a.m., Central Standard Time, Wednesday, April 18, 1956, for the construction of Reinforced Concrete Pipe Culvert in 56th Street between Wilshire Boulevard and the Missouri Pacific Railroad for Paving District No. 1406, in said City according to the plans and specifications of the City Engineer on file in the office of the City Clerk.

Plans and specifications may be seen and blank proposals obtained in the office of the City Engineer.

The City Engineer's estimate of the cost of constructing this pipe culvert is $4,600.00.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check for $230.00, made payable to Frank J. Miller, City Treasurer, as a guarantee of good faith.

The City reserves the right to reject any or all proposals and to waive any defect in proposals.

THEO. H. BERG, City Clerk.

Bohlen Back; Keeps Quiet On Mission

WASHINGTON (AP) — An uncommunicative Charles E (Chip) Bohlen returned from his post as U S ambassador to Moscow Sunday for consultations with Secretary of State Dulles and probably President Eisenhower

Bohlen, his arm in a cast as a result of a skiing fracture in Switzerland, parried reporters questions on arrival at New York's Idlewild Airport. Similarly he had nothing to say when he reached Washington.

As to his scheduled meeting with Dulles Monday and other talks during a week to-10 days stay

"I don't know what particular aspects will be discussed," he told New York reporters. "But these consultations will cover a great many questions, and not one subject only."

Bohlen may be joined in his talk with Dulles Monday by George Wadsworth, U.S. ambassador to Saudi Arabia who also is back for consultations. Wadsworth arrived Saturday and conferred then with State Department Middle East experts.

He's training for the future Your carrier boy is forming habits now that will be important in later life Your suggestions on ways he can improve will be appreciated Notify Circulation Dept.

Ike To Count In Gold

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — President Eisenhower will be able to count his golf strokes in gold this summer. A group of Swiss watchmakers has decided to give the President a gold wristwatch which contains a mechanism for tabulating golf strokes.

Flame Tossed At Reds

PARIS (AP) — A bottle of flaming liquid was tossed against the entrance to Communist party headquarters. Damage was negligible.

Mother Leads Police To 4-Year-Old Girl's Body In Suitcase

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A distraught mother Sunday led police to the body of her 4-year-old daughter, hidden in a large suitcase on a hillside in the near-downtown area.

Detective Sgt. Harry Hansen said Mrs. Jean Elizabeth Shaw, 35, directed officers to the scene and identified the body as that of her daughter Susan.

Mrs. Shaw said she could only remember that "Susan was overcome by gas fumes" in their apartment, Hansen reported.

In Psychopathic Ward

Mrs. Shaw, formerly of Clinton, Ia., was being held in the psychopathic ward of General Hospital on a technical booking of suspicion of murder.

She was arrested 24 hours earlier after police learned from an older daughter, Pamela, 11, that Susan had been missing since Wednesday.

The coroner's office said the child had been dead for several days. The body was in good condition and there was no apparent marks or bruises. An autopsy will be performed Monday.

Father Flies In

The child's father, Clinton attorney Prentice W. Shaw, 42, flew here but was not present when police made their gruesome discovery. After officers told him his daughter was dead, Shaw said he will confer Monday with juvenile authorities in an effort to have his other daughter return to Iowa with him.

The suitcase was lying about 20 feet from the street.

After arriving at the scene, Mrs Shaw found she did not have the key to unlock the suitcase Officers had to send back for her keys at the jail where she was first booked.

"Oh, no," the mother screamed when Hansen opened the suitcase.

The scene was only two blocks from the apartment where Mrs Shaw had been living with her two daughters since last December. Shaw won a divorce in Iowa last November, charging her with cruel and inhuman treatment.

Mrs. Shaw had disappeared last June with her daughters. A son has been living with Shaw.

Shaw told officers that his wife had developed a psychosis shortly after Susan was born. She feared constantly that she was going to strangle the baby, Shaw said, and had been confined once to a mental sanitarium.

12-Nation 'Atoms For Peace' Talk To Begin Tuesday

WASHINGTON (AP)—Resumption of a 12-nation "atoms for peace" conference in Washington, scheduled for Monday has been postponed until Tuesday.

Officials said the delay was arranged because some of the delegates requested more time in which to prepare for the new talks.

Participants include Brazil, Czechoslovakia, India and Russia together with the eight nations which already have approved a proposed charter for a United Nations atoms for peace agency as proposed in December 1953 by President Eisenhower.

These eight are the United States, Britain, Australia, Belgium, Canada, France, Portugal and South Africa.

In three weeks of talks during March the 12 nations reached what U. S. Delegate James Wadsworth called "virtual total agreement" on a charter for the agency. He predicted the final session would last only a few days.

The charter drafted by the 12 nations will be submitted to an 84-nation conference expected to be held in September at New York.

So far, it is reported, the 12 nations have agreed to link the proposed agency to the United Nations somewhat like the specialized U. N. agencies, reporting once a year to the U. N. Security Council, but free from its veto.

Middle East Resolution 'No Doubt' Viewed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) said Sunday he has no doubt that a Congressional resolution on the Middle East, similar to the one on the Formosan area, is "being considered."

Smith, interviewed on a television program, said he personally believes Congress "ought to be considering" such a resolution now on the situation in Israel and Egypt.

The resolution on Formosa left it to President Eisenhwoer to decide whether attacks on islands off the Chinese mainland constituted a threat to Formosa and to send U. S. forces if necessary without further Congressional approval.

Smith said President Eisenhower would need, and would ask, Congressional approval before this country stepped into any fighting in the Middle East.

The President said at his news conference last Wednesday that "I have announced time and time and time again I will never be guilty of any kind of action that can be interpreted as war until the Congress, which has the constitutional authority, says so."

Smith was asked whether, as a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, he felt everything possible was being done to prevent war in the Middle East.

"I think so," he replied.

BULGARIA REDS CRITICIZE THEIR TOUGH PREMIER

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Premier Vulko Chervenkov, the tough-talking Premier of Communist Bulgaria, came under severe criticism Sunday from the Central Committee of his own Communist party.

Just what will happen now to the 56-year-old former boss of the Bulgarian Communist party was not known here. But he has been under heavy pressure from Moscow to make up with President Tito of Yugoslavia.

Sofia radio broadcast a communique of the party Central Committee accusing Chervenkov of having practiced Stalin-like one-man rule which "damaged the work of the party and the state."

One of the accusations in the downgrading of Stalin by the Kremlin was that he was responsible personally for the rift with Tito. Yugoslav-Russian differences are now being patched up by the present Kremlin leadership.

The radio said the Central Committee, in a five-day meeting, outlined a number of steps to "tear out by the roots the cult of the individual." This is precisely the line being taken by the Kremlin regarding Stalin.

North Platte Host At Feeders Day

NORTH PLATTE, Neb. (AP) — The 26th annual Spring Feeders Day program is scheduled at the North Platte Experiment Station April 26.

Superintendent James C. Adams said the program would include inspection of stock fed special rations, reports on drugs and feed innovations, and discussions of marketing conditions.

"Althought cattle feeders have not been especially favored with profitable prices this season," Adams said, "many are changing their feeding program to adjust to present economic conditions."

Among the speakers will be Josef A. Jackson, assistant in animal husbandry at the experiment station; Everett E. Peterson, agricultural economist at the University of Nebraska; Dr. Johnny Matsushmima of the department of animal husbandry at the University of Nebraska, and Dr. Ralph Cole, president of the Nebraska Meat Promotion committee.

Notice to Contractors

Sealed proposals will be received by the City Council of the City of Lincoln, Nebraska, at the office of the City Clerk, up to 10 o'clock a.m., Central Standard Time, Wednesday, April 18, 1956, for the construction of Reinforced Concrete Pipe Culvert in 56th Street between Wilshire Boulevard and the Missouri Pacific Railroad for Paving District No. 1406, in said City, according to the plans and specifications of the City Engineer on file in the office of the City Clerk.

Plans and specifications may be seen and blank proposals obtained in the office of the City Engineer.

The City Engineer's estimate of the cost of constructing this pipe culvert is $4,600.00.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check for $230.00, made payable to Frank J. Miller, City Treasurer, as a guarantee of good faith.

The City reserves the right to reject any or all proposals and to waive any defect in proposals.

THEO. H. BERG, City Clerk.

Lincoln Star Special

LEXINGTON, Neb. — Mr. and Mrs. Russell Lichtenwalter and Mrs. Mildred Sheldon will be chairmen of the third annual junior-senior Prom Prowl April 20.

A banquet and dance, midnight movie, night club party and breakfast are scheduled.

Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Hiner and Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Morton will supervise the night club party.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter J. Seberger and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Volk will be in charge of the breakfast.

Bohlen Back; Keeps Quiet On Mission

WASHINGTON (AP) — An uncommunicative Charles E. (Chip) Bohlen returned from his post as U.S. ambassador to Moscow Sunday for consultations with Secretary of State Dulles and probably President Eisenhower.

Bohlen, his arm in a cast as a result of a skiing fracture in Switzerland, parried reporters questions on arrival at New York's Idlewild Airport. Similarly he had nothing to say when he reached Washington.

As to his scheduled meeting with Dulles Monday and other talks during a week-to-10 days stay:

"I don't know what particular aspects will be discussed," he told New York reporters. "But these consultations will cover a great many questions, and not one subject only."

Bohlen may be joined in his talk with Dulles Monday by George Wadsworth, U.S. ambassador to Saudi Arabia who also is back for consultations. Wadsworth arrived Saturday and conferred then with State Department Middle East experts.

He's training for the future. Your carrier boy is forming habits now that will be important in later life. Your suggestions on ways he can improve will be appreciated. Notify Circulation Dept.

Ike To Count In Gold

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — President Eisenhower will be able to count his golf strokes in gold this summer. A group of Swiss watchmakers has decided to give the President a gold wristwatch which contains a mechanism for tabulating golf strokes.

Flame Tossed At Reds

Bonds numbered 281 to 1,300 inclusive maturing on May 1, of each of the years 1962 to 1976 inclusive shall be redeemable, prior to maturity at par and accrued interest, as a whole or in part, at the option of the city at any time on or after five years from date. If less than all of the bonds numbered 281 to 1,300 inclusive are to be redeemed at any time, the bonds to be redeemed shall be selectd by lot in any usual manner

Principal and interest will be payable at the office of the County Treasurer of Lancaster County, at Lincoln, Nebraska.

Said bonds were authorized to be issued by said city pursuant to a charter amendment approved by the voters of said city at an election held in and for said city on June 15, 1954, for the purpose of constructing additions to, extensions of, and improvements or betterments to the storm sewer system of said city.

Said bonds will be general obligations of the city payable from advalorem taxes levied upon all the taxable property in said city without limitation as to rate or amount. The assessed valuation of taxable property in the city for the current year as equalized and determined is $144,785,530. The total aggregate indebtedness of the city of every kind and character will after the issuance of these bonds be $6,566,000, of which $2,056,000.00, is special assessment bonds. The population of the city is approximately 120,000.

Bids must be for all and not a part of said bonds; said bonds will be awarded to a responsible bidder on the basis of the lowest interest cost to the city. Interest rates shall be in multiples of one-fourth of one per cent or one tenth of one per cent. All bonds of the same maturity shall bear interest at the same rate and no bid will be considered for less than par and no maturity shall bear interest at a greater rate than three per cent (3%) per annum. In determining the best bid the interest cost to the city will be computed by determining the interest from May 1, 1956, to absolute maturity of the bonds at the rate or rates specified by the bidder, after deducting any premium offered.

No specified form of bid is required, but each bid shall definitely state the dollars of premium, if any, and the calculation of the net interest cost expressed as a percentage.

Bids will be publicly opened in the Council Chamber in the City Hall of said city of Lincoln, Nebraska, at 11:00 o'clock A.M. Central Standard Time, on Monday, May 7, 1956 and the award will be made to the successful bidder as soon thereafter as possible.

Said bonds will be delivered with the unqualified approving opinion of Chapman and Cutler, Attorneys, Chicago, Illinois, and said opinion is to be paid for by the said city; the printed bonds to be supplied by the successful bidder, and all bids must be so conditioned. Each bid must be accompanied by a cashier's or certified check drawn on a state or national bank and made payable to Frank J. Miller, City Treasurer in the sum of $26,000.00 as a guarantee of good faith and for security for the performance of such bid and as liquidated damages, in case the successful bidder fails to take up and pay for the bonds.

All proposals shall be enclosed in a sealed envelope, marked on the outside, "PROPOSAL FOR BONDS," and addressed to Theo. H. Berg, City Clerk, at the City Hall in the City of Lincoln, Nebraska.

The city of Lincoln reserves the right to reject any or all bids or to waive any defect in bids.

By Order of the City Council of the City of Lincoln, Lancaster County, Nebraska, this 26th day of March, 1956.

THEO. H. BERG, City Clerk."

—Military Uniform Contracts—

Senate Group Explores 'Intricate' Graft Deals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators said Sunday they are exploring new charges that "intricate" graft deals marked the awarding of contracts for millions of dollar's worth of military uniforms.

The Senate Investigations subcommittee headed by Sen McClellan (D-Ark) announced it will start public hearings Tuesday on allegations about contracts awarded to some garment firms in southern New Jersey and New York City in 1951, 1952 and 1953.

Sequel

Chief counsel Robert F. Kennedy describes the inquiry as a sequel to the one last year in which the subcommittee accused a Chicago cap manufacturer, Harry Lev, of bribing government officials to swing contracts his way Kennedy said "it is possible" that Lev may be called to testify in the new inquiry, but not as a principal. Kennedy refused to name any other names in advance of the hearings

He said among other things the inquiry will deal with reports that two manufacturers used phony names in buying large amounts of "hard-to-trace municipal bonds and government bonds of large denomination"

Kennedy said the subcommittee and staff investigators already have questioned a number of persons privately trying to get to the bottom of charges that manufacturers who associated closely with government buying officials wound up with big contracts for themselves and their friends

Some of the government officials are still on federal payrolls Kennedy said and probably will be called as witnesses

The contracts under investigation he said were awarded variously by the Army Quartermaster Corps and the since-liquidated Armed Services Textile Apparel Procurement Agency

Governor Presents Keys At Dedication

Rev. Kemp's Book Selected By N.Y. Religious Book Club

A book written by a Lincoln minister has been selected by a religious book club as its "book of the month" selection.

The book, "Life Situation Preaching," by the Rev. Charles F. Kemp of First Christian Church, will be the September selection of the Pastoral Psychology Book Club of New York City The 224-page, 14-chapter book will be published in September.

The Rev. Mr. Kemp describes his book as a "professional book for professional use," by ministers and theological schools. It deals with the science of preaching.

He said it includes example sermons from great pastors of the past and present, from Horace Bushnell to the contemporary preaching of Harry Emerson Fosdick and Robert McCracken. One chapter deals with the place of the sermon in the worship service.

The Lincoln minister emphasized the book is primarily for professional use and is not aimed at the layman.

The Rev. Mr. Kemp has been pastor of First Christian nearly five years. He is married and has two sons, Jim, 11, and Fred, 14 He and his family live at 2923 South.

The 43-year-old author has written two other books, "Physicians of the Soul," and "A Pastoral Triumph." He says he plans to continue writing.

Girl Views Grave Of Cornea Donor

MILAN, Italy (AP) — An 18-year-old girl who was blind two months ago Sunday saw the grave of the priest who gave her sight

Amabile Battistella, blind since childhood, could not see on Feb 28 when Don Carlo Gnocchi, the Roman Catholic priest who had devoted his life to the maimed, died He willed his eyes to be used to make blind children see

Two cornea transplants were performed: one for Amabile and the other for Angelo Colagrande, 12 Both operations were successful

Amabile kissed Angelo goodbye Sunday when she left the hospital He must remain a few weeks more.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain—without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne*)—the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H.* Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded

—Rural School Auction—

Oilman To Convert School To Youth Recreation Area

Lincoln Star Special

HEBRON Neb — The auctioning of five rural school properties near here brought the promise of an outdoor recreation area for Thayer County young people

And for some of the former teachers and pupils of the districts the auction meant they could have mementos of their school days—school bells or the old desks on which they carved their initials

One man, Dale Wassom, bought the whole school he and his children attended He paid $260 for the District 9 building and two acres of ground

Beauty Spot

Ray Peake, a Chester, Neb oilman paid $490 for the red brick Lamb School in District 2 and its Rose Creek site one of Thayer County's beauty spots for a youth outing center

He said he will add a kitchen bunk beds and an outdoor fireplace so the old two room school can be used as an overnight recreation spot for sponsored youth organizations or civic groups

The site is four miles east of Hubbell, near Highway 3 South.

While the Lamb School will continue to be used for the youth of the community, though in a different way, the other four school buildings probably will be torn down, moved away or used for purposes far different from that for which they were originally built.

$2,250 Total

Duane Wiemers, Hubbell board of education secretary, said the buildings, land and equipment in the districts brought a total of $2,250.

The Hubbell board held the auction after the rural districts joined the town district in a recent reorganization.

In the large crowd attending the auction were former rural students who bid for scarred and battered desks they once used and teachers who bought textbooks they taught from years before

Judge Harvey Hess gratified a long-standing wish when he bought the District 73 school bell for $12 50. Lawrence Mathy paid $220 for the schoolhouse.

County Superintendent Harold Reed got two bells without bidding on them. Both the hand bell and the large bell from the Lamb school were presented to him for the permanent collection of rural school mementos maintained in his office

$10 For a Desk

A B Boyd bought the District 29 building for $175. the land brought $25 and six desks went for $10 each

Ludwig Virus paid $98 for the District 70 school.

Judge Sentences Persons Involved In Morals Case

A Lincoln Police crackdown on a morals case has resulted in a prison term for one Lincoln cab driver, probation for another, and a reformatory commitment for a 17-year old girl.

Claire Dailey, 43, of 4933 Cornhusker Hwy., was given a one-year Penitentiary term by the Lancaster District Court for pandering activities involving the girl.

Dean G Williams, 25, of 4815 Cornhusker Hwy, received a suspended sentence and two years probation on the same charge.

Comment On Neff Censure Withheld By Main Figures

Comment has been withheld by the principal subjects involved on a Senate investigating committee report which "severely censured" oil lobby contributions "for the purpose of influencing" the vote of Sen Francis Case (R-SD) on the natural gas bill early this year.

The Senate committee termed the actions of John M Neff, Lexington attorney, and Elmer Patman, Austin, Tex, attorney, "a case of irresponsibility run riot"

The two attorneys, representing Howard B. Keck, president of Superior Oil Co. of Los Angeles, made contributions to various senators. Neff gave $2,500 to Sen. Case which the senator reported as a possible attempt to influence his vote on the natural gas bill.

While making no finding on the legality of Neff's action, the committee report stated, "both Mr. Patman and Mr. Neff are severely censured for their failure to act as responsible citizens in these circumstances.

Neither Neff or his attorney in the case, Ivan Evans of Broken Bow, had any comment on the committee report Both stated they had not yet seen a copy of the report

Neff had also contributed $2,500 to the Republican party in Nebraska but the party has voted to return the money to Neff

Reached at his home in Fremont, William Spear, Republican state chairman, also had no comment on the Senate report

Joseph Wishardt, Republican state finance committee chairman, only pointed out that the Senate report contained no indictment of the lobby system or the political system.

The report, he added, simply shows the misuse of something they (Neff and Patman) had a perfect right to do.

In Omaha, Donald Ross, former United States district attorney, also had no comment on a part of the report which cleared him of any improper activity in the Neff case.

Ross resigned from his federal job after it was brought out that he had arranged a meeting between Neff and Nebraska Senators Curtis and Hruska. Ross reported he resigned only to remove the Justice Department from any possible embarrassment in the matter.

Home Said Place To Judge Comics

"The home is the proper place to judge comic books" the Rev Peter Raible minister of the Unitarian Church said Sunday

"While realizing that parents are often negligent in knowing what their children read" he said "the dangers of such handling are far less than for government to control reading matter"

Citing the recent resolution of the Nebraska Federation of Women's Clubs calling for passage of local, state and federal laws banning obscene literature "including objectional comic books," the Rev. Mr Raible said, "when I balance the possible damage of horror comics against having the government make dubious decisions on what we read, I will brook the inherent danger of our current freedom"

—Military Uniform Contracts—

Senate Group Explores 'Intricate' Graft Deals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators said Sunday they are exploring new charges that "intricate" graft deals marked the awarding of contracts for millions of dollar's worth of military uniforms.

The Senate Investigations subcommittee headed by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) announced it will start public hearings Tuesday on allegations about contracts awarded to some garment firms in southern New Jersey and New York City in 1951, 1952 and 1953.

Sequel

Chief counsel Robert F. Kennedy describes the inquiry as a sequel to the one last year in which the subcommittee accused a Chicago cap manufacturer, Harry Lev, of bribing government officials to swing contracts his way. Kennedy said "it is possible" that Lev may be called to testify in the new inquiry, but not as a principal. Kennedy refused to name any other names in advance of the hearings.

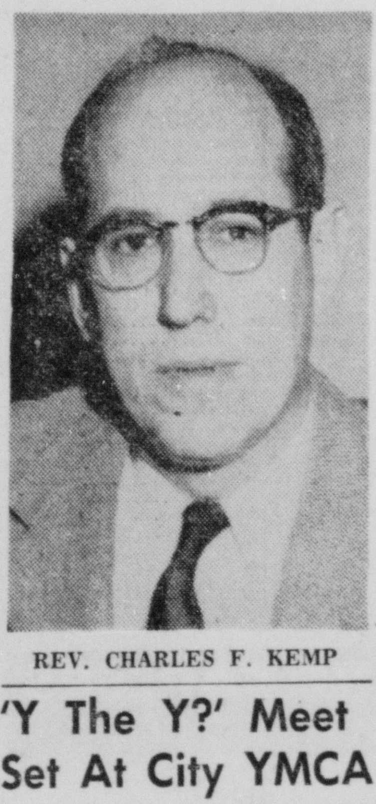
He said among other things the inquiry will deal with reports that two manufacturers used phony names in buying large amounts of "hard-to-trace municipal bonds and government bonds of large denomination."

Kennedy said the subcommittee and staff investigators already have questioned a number of persons privately trying to get to the bottom of charges that manufacturers who associated closely with government buying officials wound up with big contracts for themselves and their friends.

Some of the government officials are still on federal payrolls, Kennedy said, and probably will be called as witnesses.

The contracts under investigation, he said, were awarded variously by the Army Quartermaster Corps and the since-liquidated Armed Services Textile Apparel Procurement Agency.

Rev. Kemp's Book Selected By N.Y. Religious Book Club



REV. CHARLES F. KEMP

A book written by a Lincoln minister has been selected by a religious book club as its "book of the month" selection.

The book, "Life Situation Preaching," by the Rev. Charles F. Kemp of First Christian Church, will be the September selection of the Pastoral Psychology Book Club of New York City. The 224-page, 14-chapter book will be published in September.

The Rev. Mr. Kemp describes his book as a "professional book for professional use," by ministers and theological schools. It deals with the science of preaching.

He said it includes example sermons from great pastors of the past and present, from Horace Bushnell to the contemporary preaching of Harry Emerson Fosdick and Robert McCracken. One chapter deals with the place of the sermon in the worship service.

The Lincoln minister emphasized the book is primarily for professional use and is not aimed at the layman.

The Rev. Mr. Kemp has been pastor of First Christian nearly five years. He is married and has two sons, Jim, 11, and Fred, 14. He and his family live at 2923 South.

The 43-year-old author has written two other books, "Physicians of the Soul," and "A Pastoral Triumph." He says he plans to continue writing.

'Y The Y?' Meet Set At City YMCA

The West Central Young Adult Conference on "Y the Y?" will be held at the Lincoln YMCA Saturday and Sunday.

Delegates will register at 12:30 p.m. Saturday, and the opening session will be held at 1:45 p.m.

Among speakers at the meeting, which will adjourn Sunday noon, will be Charles Kruse, conference chairman; Harry McClellen, of the Y's Men's Club; Charles Thorne, second vice president of the Lincoln YMCA Board of Directors, and Allen Ellsworth of the YMCA National Council.

Other speakers scheduled are Hal Bauer, past president of the Area Young Adult Council, Jim Wadlow, president of the Lincoln Young Adult Council, Merle Jones of Beatrice, and Betty Kasey, president of the Area Young Adult Council.

Also on the agenda are talks by Wendell Groth, president of the West Central Area Council and Hal Kuebler of the West Central Area staff.

On Saturday afternoon, separate discussion groups will be held by different area groups. A banquet and dance will be held Saturday afternoon.

The Rev. Calvin Ukena of Westminster Presbyterian Church will lead the devotions.

Girl Views Grave Of Cornea Donor

MILAN, Italy (AP) — An 18-year-old girl who was blind two months ago Sunday saw the grave of the priest who gave her sight.

Amabile Battistella, blind since childhood, could not see on Feb. 28 when Don Carlo Gnocchi, the Roman Catholic priest who had devoted his life to the maimed, died. He willed his eyes to be used to make blind children see.

Two cornea transplants were performed: one for Amabile and the other for Angelo Colagrande, 12 Both operations were successful.

Amabile kissed Angelo goodbye Sunday when she left the hospital. He must remain a few weeks more.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain—without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne*)—the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called *Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Governor Presents Keys At Dedication

—Rural School Auction—

Oilman To Convert School To Youth Recreation Area

Lincoln Star Special

HEBRON, Neb. — The auctioning of five rural school properties near here brought the promise of an outdoor recreation area for Thayer County young people.

And for some of the former teachers and pupils of the districts, the auction meant they could have mementos of their school days—school bells, or the old desks on which they carved their initials.

One man, Dale Wassom, bought the whole school he and his children attended. He paid $260 for the District 9 building and two acres of ground.

Beauty Spot

Ray Peake, a Chester, Neb., oilman, paid $490 for the red brick Lamb School in District 2 and its Rose Creek site one of Thayer County's beauty spots for a youth outing center.

He said he will add a kitchen, bunk beds and an outdoor fireplace so the old two-room school can be used as an overnight recreation spot for sponsored youth organizations or civic groups.

The site is four miles east of Hubbell, near Highway 3 South.

While the Lamb School will continue to be used for the youth of the community, though in a different way, the other four school buildings probably will be torn down, moved away or used for purposes far different from that for which they were originally built.

$2,250 Total

Duane Wiemers, Hubbell board of education secretary, said the buildings, land and equipment in the districts brought a toatal of $2,250.

The Hubbell board held the auction after the rural districts joined the town district in a recent reorganization.

In the large crowd attending the auction were former rural students who bid for scarred and battered desks they once used and teachers who bought textbooks they taught from years before.

Judge Harvey Hess gratified a long-standing wish when he bought the District 73 school bell for $12.50. Lawrence Mathy paid $220 for the schoolhouse.

County Superintendent Harold Reed got two bells without bidding on them. Both the hand bell and the large bell from the Lamb school were presented to him for the permanent collection of rural school mementos maintained in his office.

$10 For a Desk

A. B. Boyd bought the District 29 building for $175, the land brought $25 and six desks went for $10 each.

Ludwig Virus paid $98 for the District 70 school.

Judge Sentences Persons Involved In Morals Case

A Lincoln Police crackdown on a morals case has resulted in a prison term for one Lincoln cab driver, probation for another, and a reformatory commitment for a 17-year old girl.

Claire Dailey, 43, of 4933 Cornhusker Hwy., was given a one-year Penitentiary term by the Lancaster District Court for pandering activities involving the girl.

Dean G. Williams, 25, of 4815 Cornhusker Hwy., received a suspended sentence and two years probation on the same charge.

Comment On Neff Censure Withheld By Main Figures

Comment has been withheld by the prinicipal subjects involved on a Senate investigating committee report which "severely censured" oil lobby contributions "for the purpose of influencing" the vote of Sen. Francis Case (R-SD) on the natural gas bill early this year.

The Senate committee termed the actions of John M. Neff, Lexington attorney, and Elmer Patman, Austin, Tex., attorney, "a case of irresponsibility run riot."

The two attorneys, representing Howard B. Keck, president of Superior Oil Co. of Los Angeles, made contributions to various senators. Neff gave $2,500 to Sen. Case which the senator reported as a possible attempt to influence his vote on the natural gas bill.

While making no finding on the legality of Neff's action, the committee report stated, "both Mr. Patman and Mr. Neff are severely censured for their failure to act as responsible citizens in these circumstances.

Neither Neff or his attorney in the case, Ivan Evans of Broken Bow, had any comment on the committee report. Both stated they had not yet seen a copy of the report.

Neff had also contributed $2,500 to the Republican party in Nebraska but the party has voted to return the money to Neff.

Reached at his home in Fremont, William Spear, Republican state chairman, also had no comment on the Senate report.

Joseph Wishardt, Republican state finance committee chairman, only pointed out that the Senate report contained no indictment of the lobby system or the political system.

The report, he added, simply shows the misuse of something they (Neff and Patman) had a perfect right to do.

In Omaha, Donald Ross, former United States district attorney, also had no comment on a part of the report which cleared him of any improper activity in the Neff case.

Ross resigned from his federal job after it was brought out that he had arranged a meeting between Neff and Nebraska Senators Curtis and Hruska. Ross reported he resigned only to remove the Justice Department from any possible embarrasement in the matter.

ROA Names Artzberger New President

Charles Artzberger of Omaha was elected president and Millard L. Bennett of Lincoln was named a vice president of the Nebraska department of the Reserve Officers Assn. Sunday.

Artzberger is a major in the Army Reserve and Bennett a lieutenant commander in the Naval Reserve. Other vice presidents chosen at the closing session of the group's two-day annual convention in Lincoln were Duane K. Peterson of Wausa and Walter Snyder of Grand Island. Peterson is a major and Snyder a lieutenant colonel in the Army Reserve.

Grant Johnson of Lincoln, a Naval Reserve lieutenant commander, was elected historian and Clifford E. Dier of Lincoln, an Army Reserve colonel, was named national executive councilman. Dier is retiring department president.

Other officers chosen: Thomas E. Brogan of Madison, judge advocate; Martin Yauk of Seward, chaplain; and T. Tennyson Harris of Omaha, surgeon. Brogan is a major and Yauk and Harris lieutenant colonels in the Army Reserve. Harold LeMar of Omaha, past department president, was the installing officer. He is a civilian aide to the Secretary of the Army.

Home Said Place To Judge Comics

"The home is the proper place to judge comic books," the Rev. Peter Raible, minister of the Unitarian Church, said Sunday.

"While realizing that parents are often negligent in knowing what their children read," he said, "the dangers of such handling are far less than for government to control reading matter."

Citing the recent resolution of the Nebraska Federation of Women's Clubs calling for passage of local, state and federal laws banning obscene literature "including objectional comic books," the Rev. Mr. Raible said, "when I balance the possible damage of horror comics against having the government make dubious decisions on what we read, I will brook the inherent danger of our current freedom."

Hy-Line 934
White Egg Layers
Save Feed Per Doz. Eggs Laid
Cut down the cost of feed per dozen eggs laid. Add 4 to 5c more profit per dozen with Hy-Line 934 white egg layers. Farm tests show Hy-Line 934 eats 1 lb. less feed per dozen eggs laid. The Official 1953-54 Florida test shows Hy-Line 934 laid 17 more eggs per bird than Leghorns but ate 7 pounds LESS feed per bird. Put these thrifty white egg layers to work for you. 11

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner o fthe rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Population Threat

LOS ANGELES (INS) — A Harvard medical school doctor says that overpopulation is a greater threat to western civilzation than the hydrogen bomb. Dr. John Rock cautions: "Unless the birth rate is lowered, an atomic war that will destroy everything of value is inevitable."

Atomic Films

LONDON (INS) — Britain, with a vast new atomic industry anxious to capture world export markets, is launching out in the field of atomic advertising. A series of commercial films in color, aiming to "tell the world what atomic goods Britain has to offer," is being made in London by an industrial cinematographic firm.

☆ ☆ ☆

Poker 'Real'

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (INS) — Ralph W. Wesselmann, a tournament Bridge player now in service and assigned to the Holloman Air Development Center, says he doesn't believe bridge is the only "real" card game. Wesselmann also rates poker on a par with bridge. He says he once played poker for [illegible] hours, adding: "I was winning or I wouldn't have played that long."

Errors Galore

VIENNA (INS) — "Aufbau und Frieden," Prague newspaper, reported that the State Educational Publishers put out a new expensive German-Czech dictionary of 1410 pages. The only drawback was that 14 pages were devoted to 315 corrections of errors found in the book after it was already printed, the newspaper said.

Science For Atom Town

LOS ALAMOS, N.M. (UP) — In this town of ultra-modern science, the youngsters haven't been rating too well in science, so teachers have set up special programs. A science club in the high school demonstrates science projects each Tuesday afternoon. A "Late Laboratory" has been set up from 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesdays for youngsters who want to work on any special scientific interest. The Aspen School PTA, headed by Dr. John Dougherty, a physicist of the Los Alamos Laboratory, is devoting all its programs to promoting science in schools.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner o fthe rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Population Threat

LOS ANGELES (INS) — A Harvard medical school doctor says that overpopulation is a greater threat to western civilzation than the hydrogen bomb. Dr. John Rock cautions: "Unless the birth rate is lowered, an atomic war that will destroy everything of value is inevitable."

Atomic Films

LONDON (INS) — Britain, with a vast new atomic industry anxious to capture world export markets, is launching out in the field of atomic advertising. A series of commercial films in color, aiming to "tell the world what atomic goods Britain has to offer," is being made in London by an industrial cinematographic firm.

Poker 'Real'

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (INS) — Ralph W. Wesselmann, a tournament Bridge player now in service and assigned to the Holloman Air Development Center, says he doesn't believe bridge is the only "real" card game. Wesselmann also rates poker on a par with Bridge. He says he once played poker for 72 hours, adding: "I was winning or I wouldn't have played that long."

Errors Galore

VIENNA (INS) — "Aufbau und Frieden," Prague newspaper, reported that the State Educational Publishers put out a new expensive German-Czech dictionary of 1410 pages. The only drawback was that 14 pages were devoted to 315 corrections of errors found in the book after it was already printed, the newspaper said.

Science For Atom Town

LOS ALAMOS, N.M. (AP) — In this town of ultra-modern science, the youngsters haven't been rating too well in science, so teachers have set up special programs. A science club in the high school demonstrates science projects each Tuesday afternoon. A "Late Laboratory" has been set up from 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesdays for youngsters who want to work on any special scientific interest. The Aspen School PTA, headed by Dr. John Dougherty, a physicist of the Los Alamos Laboratory, is devoting all its programs to promoting science in schools.

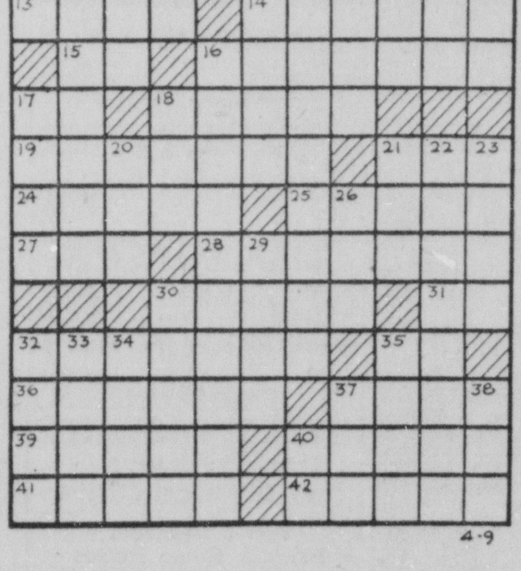
Saturday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE

Here's How To Work It

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
